COMMUNAL LIFE

A translation of La Vie Commune, this is the eighth title in the Religious Life Series. Following the now familiar pattern of the Series the volume first considers common life in the early Church; the second part deals with the theology of the communal life and the third part considers common life in the religious state in relation to the general life of the Church. The fourth part is concerned with spiritual, canonical and psychological aspects of the subject and the fifth and last part deals with practical experiences. 19s. 6d.

REVOLUTION IN A CITY PARISH

ABBÉ G. MICHONNEAU

This is a detailed account of the experiences, mistakes and achievements of the clergy in one suburban district of Paris, and, as its authors recommend, it should be treated not as a summary of conclusions but as a stimulus to further thought and investigation. The English edition has a foreword by the Most Reverend Richard J. Cushing, Archbishop of Boston. English Catholics, clergy and laity, also have a part to play in this revolutionary approach to our problems for which we should all be grateful to France. 15s.

“... there is and can be no real conflict between faith and reason . . . ; we have the right to see this demonstrated in the Book of Genesis.” This is Father Vawter's description of his approach. He provides a real path through what most of us regard as the jungle of Genesis.
