The English Rural Community

Image and Analysis

Edited by BRIAN SHORT

Fully illustrated with maps, paintings and photographs, this important overview of the English rural community, past and present, offers an interdisciplinary perspective on the realities that lie behind the myths and images of rural England.

Stewards, Lords and People

The Estate Steward and his World in Later Stuart England

D. R. HAINSWORTH

Professor Hainsworth opens a window on English society under the later Stuarts by examining the role of the estate steward as they mediated between lord and tenant, between town and country, and between 'national' and provincial cultures.

An Economic History of the English Poor Law, 1750–1850

GEORGE R. BOYER

Poor relief was introduced in 1597 and reached new heights in the 1750s. This new book examines the effects of organised poor relief on the rural parish economy and concludes controversially that it was a rational response by farmers to rural economic changes.

A General View of the Rural Economy of England, 1538–1840

ANN KUSSMAUL

Uses a study of the seasonal pattern of marriages to provide a complete survey of economic changes in England pre-1840.

'... this book will prompt much lively argument for a long time to come.'

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

Articles or other materials for publication may be submitted to any one of the editors, whose addresses are given on the inside front cover. Contributors should submit two copies of articles, in double line spacing with reasonable margins, whether typed on A4 paper or computer printed. Articles should normally be no more than 8,000 words, but longer articles will be considered. An Abstract of about 150 words should also be supplied. Those generating articles on a computer or wordprocessor are invited to send a securely packed backup copy of their disk, with brief details of their machine, WP program used and density of disk. Alternatively a modem service is available. For fuller details please contact one of the editors.

STYLE

Contributors should aim for a style that is accessible to readers in related disciplines. Masculine forms used as universals, e.g. 'the archaeologist and his aspirations', should be avoided. Articles may be in either English or American spelling.

CITATION

Contributors may follow either of the standard conventions:

(a) in-text citations of sources; (b) citation in footnotes.

(a) In-text citation. Give author's surname, date of publication and page references (if any) in parentheses in the body of the text, e.g. '(Falassi, 1980b: 114)'. Where a second or subsequent work by a particular author in the same year is cited, references should be distinguished by letters (a, b, c, etc.) placed after the date. A complete list of references cited, arranged alphabetically by authors' surname, should be typed double-spaced at the end of the article in the form:

Falassi, A. 1980b. Folklore by the Fireside: Text and Context of the Tuscan Veglia (Austin, Texas).

Give place of publication, but not the publisher. Titles of books, articles and journals should be in the form of the examples in these Notes.

(b) Citation in footnotes. References should be given in notes, numbered consecutively through the typescript with raised numbers. Type the notes double-spaced on separate pages at the end of the article. Full publication details should be given at first mention, a short form thereafter:

John Barrell, The Dark Side of the Landscape: The Rural Poor in English Painting, 1730 – 1840 (Cambridge, 1980), p.89.

D Kramer (ed.), Critical Approaches to Hardy's Fiction (London, 1979), pp. 17–18.

B Reay, 'The last rising of the agricultural labourers: the battle in Bossenden Wood, 1838', History Workshop 26 (1988), 81–2.

Short forms:

Barrell, Dark Side, p.90.

Kramer (ed.), Hardy's Fiction, pp. 175–6.

Reay, 'The last rising', p. 82.

QUOTATIONS

Quotations should be in single inverted commas, with double used only for quotations within quotations. Quotations of more than about five lines should be set off from the text and indented. Type double-spaced.

TABLES AND ILLUSTRATIONS

Tables, graphs, maps and line drawings should be provided on separate sheets. Guidelines on presentation are included in the more detailed Notes for Contributors available from the editors. Contributors should provide full details of the illustration source and obtain permission to reproduce copyright material. Any necessary acknowledgement should be included in the caption.

PROOFS

Contributors will receive a proof of their article for correction of any printer's errors and any essential factual errors.

OFFPRINTS

Twenty-five offprints of each contribution will be supplied, to be sent to the first named author in the case of jointly authored contributions. Further offprints may be purchased if ordered at first
