History from Oral Tradition in Africa PAUL IRWIN

Although historians today turn increasingly to oral tradition as a source of data on the history of non-literate peoples, Paul Irwin cautions them against uncritical use of such evidence. In an attempt to determine how much historians can learn about the past from oral traditions, he studies those of Liptako, now a part of Upper Volta but in the nineteenth century an emirate in one of West Africa's great imperial systems. In doing so, Professor Irwin demonstrates both the limitations and the possibilities of oral traditions as an historical source, provides basic data on the pre-colonial history of Liptako itself, and offers a sampling of fascinating tales.
