Keywords: Socioeconomic status; mental health; fMRI; emotion; emotion regulation.

The authors would like to correct a sentence in the above mentioned paper.

In the first paragraph in the second column on page 2, the below paragraph:

in another study, negative facial expressions elicited greater amygdala reactivity for young adults from lower-SES families, taking into account parenting quality and maternal mental health.¹⁷

Should instead read:

in another study, negative facial expressions elicited less amygdala reactivity for young adults from lower-SES families, taking into account parenting quality and maternal mental health.¹⁷

The authors apologise for this error.
