Women and Gender in Southern Africa to 1945

Edited by Cheryl Walker

This landmark study shows that gender has been fundamental in shaping the experience of all women in southern Africa, while making it clear that gender cannot be studied in isolation from race and class.

OUTSTANDING BOOKS ON AFRICA...

The Impact of Europe in 1992 on West Africa

Edited by Olusegun Obasanjo, Africa Leadership Forum and Hans d'Orville, InterAction Council

This book comes as a timely reminder to Europeans and to others in the industrialized world of the adverse consequences which will befall some of the very poorest West African countries, unless Europe's trade, aid and investment policies take full and urgent account of the desperate poverty of Africa's people. The tone of the contributors is refreshing and this criticism, coupled with determination, could mark a new beginning in the economic and social fortunes of West Africa.

Colonial Policy and Conflict in Zimbabwe:
A Study of Cultures in Collision, 1890—1979

Dickson Mungazi, Center for Excellence in Education,
Northern Arizona University

This book demonstrates that the bitter Civil War of Zimbabwe from 1966 to 1979 had its origin in the educational policies first begun by Western Christian missionaries, and later adopted by the colonial government from 1890 to 1961. Also explained are the ways in which those policies, from the perspective of Western cultural and educational traditions, played a major role in accentuating inevitable differences between colonial officials and the Africans.

Theories of Africans

Francophone Literature and Anthropology in Africa

Christopher L. Miller

Placing francophone African literature within its historical, political, and, especially, anthropological context, Miller considers whether the Western critic can escape the distorting effects of Western theory and accurately describe African literature.

The Comforts of Home

Prostitution in Colonial Nairobi

Luise White

Refusing to see prostitution in moralistic terms, White links the history of prostitution in Nairobi from 1900 to the 1970s to the history of labor and housing. Using the words of the colonized to reconstruct African colonial history, The Comforts of Home provides a nuanced study of gender, urban space, and class.

BETWEEN GOD, THE DEAD, AND THE WILD

Chamba Interpretations of Ritual and Religion

Richard Fardon

Drawing on the testimony of informants in two Chamba villages in West Africa—one village a traditionally uncentralized community in contemporary Nigeria, the other a small chiefdom in Cameroon—Fardon shows that, despite sharing basic presuppositions regarding various types of being, the two groups manifest their beliefs in quite different ways.

AFRICAN PHILOSOPHY

THE ESSENTIAL READINGS

Edited by TSENAV SEREQUEBERHAN, Hampshire College, Amherst

The only anthology of its kind currently available, African Philosophy is a body of texts directed at philosophically engaging African problems and documenting the 'implicit' philosophies of African peoples. A brief introductory essay explores the origins and historical development of African philosophy and the various trends in the field. Four main trends—ethnophilosophy, professional philosophy, philosophic sagacity, and nationalist-ideological philosophy—are identified and represented by over twelve texts, each preceded by a short introduction indicating the main questions and concerns addressed. Contributors include Paulin J. Hountondji, Kwasi Wiredu, and Okonda Okolo. This book is the first to take a balanced and accessible approach to an important new area of inquiry.
