Textbooks for Language & Linguistics Courses

Introductory level

George Yule • ISBN 9781107658172 • $32.99

Writing for non-linguistics majors, George Yule presents an engaging, non-technical introduction to the study of language, assuming no prior knowledge and presenting information in manageable sections. Yule covers the key concepts in linguistics and equips students with the needed vocabulary for understanding and talking about language.

Ralph W. Fasold / Jeffrey Connor-Linton • ISBN 9781107637993 • $64.99
Fasold and Connor-Linton's best-selling introduction to linguistics addresses the full scope of language, from the traditional subjects of structural linguistics to the more specialized subjects of contextual linguistics. They also provide chapters on language and the brain, computational linguistics, and first and second language learning.

Carol Genetti • ISBN 9780521174688 • $59.99

This inspired text presents language in all its amazing complexity to first-year linguistics majors, fostering an appreciation of the diversity of the world's languages, as well as a deeper understanding of the structure of human language, the ways it is used, and its broader social and cultural context. Students are introduced to the first principles of language study and shown how these how they work in the real world via 13 language "profiles."

Research & Fieldwork

Robert J. Podesva / Devyani Sharma • ISBN 9781107696358 • $39.99
This comprehensive guide for conducting research projects in linguistics equips readers with state-of-the-art data collection, processing, and analysis techniques used across the field. The text's structure follows a research project, guiding the reader through the steps involved in collecting and processing data, and providing a solid foundation for linguistic analysis.

Natalie Schilling • ISBN 9780521127974 • $39.99
This invaluable textbook will give you the skills and knowledge required for carrying out research projects in "the field," including important topics such as how to select and enter a community, how to design a research sample, what recording equipment to choose and how to operate it, how to collect, store and manage data, how to interact effectively with participants and communities, and what ethical issues you should be aware of.

English Language & Linguistics

Editors

Patrick Honeybone, University of Edinburgh, UK
Bernd Kortmann, University of Freiburg, Germany

Founding Editors

Bas Aarts, University College London
David Denison, University of Manchester
Richard Hogg, University of Manchester, UK

English Language & Linguistics, published three times a year, is an international journal which focuses on the description of the English language within the framework of contemporary linguistics. The journal is concerned equally with the synchronic and the diachronic aspects of English language studies and publishes articles of the highest quality which make a substantial contribution to our understanding of the structure and development of the English language and which are informed by a knowledge and appreciation of linguistic theory. English Language & Linguistics carries articles and short discussion papers or squibs on all core aspects of English, from its beginnings to the present day, including syntax, morphology, phonology, semantics, pragmatics, corpus linguistics and lexis.

Journal of Child Language

Editor

Heike Behrens, University of Basel, Switzerland

A key publication in the field, Journal of Child Language publishes articles on all aspects of the scientific study of language development and behaviour in children, the principles which underlie it, and the theories which may account for it. The international range of authors and breadth of coverage allow the journal to forge links between many different areas of research including psychology, linguistics, cognitive science, speech pathology and anthropology. The interdisciplinary and crosslinguistic perspective spans a wide range of interests: phonology, phonetics, morphology, syntax, vocabulary, semantics, pragmatics, sociolinguistics and other recognised aspects of language study. In addition to articles and brief research reports, the journal also features occasional review articles plus invited commentaries.

Phonology

Editors

Colin J. Ewen, University of Leiden

Ellen M. Kaisse, University of Washington

Phonology, published three times a year, is the only journal devoted exclusively to the discipline, and provides a unique forum for the productive interchange of ideas among phonologists and those working in related disciplines.

Preference is given to papers which make a substantial theoretical contribution, irrespective of the particular theoretical framework employed, but the submission of papers presenting new empirical data of general theoretical interest is also encouraged.

The journal carries research articles, as well as book reviews and shorter pieces on topics of current controversy within phonology.

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

The Journal of Linguistics has as its goal to publish articles that make a clear contribution to current debate in all branches of theoretical linguistics. The journal also provides an excellent survey of recent linguistics publications, with around thirty book reviews in each volume and regular review articles on major works marking important theoretical advances.

Full Instructions for Contributors are available at <http://journals.cambridge.org/lin>

THE LINGUISTICS ASSOCIATION OF GREAT BRITAIN

The Linguistics Association of Great Britain (LAGB) is the leading professional association for academic linguists in Great Britain, and welcomes new members. Its scope includes all branches of linguistics – formal or functional, theoretical or descriptive, synchronic or diachronic, social or psychological (or neither), concerned with one language or many. Its members individually favour a wide range of different theories of language structure, and all theoretical persuasions are welcome. To learn more, please see <http://www.lagb.org.uk>

The LAGB's main activities are:

- Publication of the Journal of Linguistics.
- An annual conference, which includes invited overseas speakers of renown, a workshop, a language tutorial, various specialist sessions and a summer school, as well as papers reflecting a wide range of views and approaches.
- Representation of linguistics and linguists in matters such as research funding and quality assessment.
- Bridging the gap between academic linguistics and language education through the activities of the LAGB Education Committee. This committee organizes specialist Linguistics at School sessions at LAGB meetings and maintains a glossary of grammatical terminology for schools.
- Maintenance of discussion forums for discussion of general issues.

Members of the LAGB are eligible for a print subscription to the Journal of Linguistics at a special rate. For details, please see <http://www.lagb.org.uk/new-subscriptions>
