NOTES ON THE CONTRIBUTORS

RALPH DELLA CAVA teaches Latin American history at Queens College, CUNY. He is Chairman of the Brazilian Studies Committee of the Conference on Latin American History for 1976, and is currently completing research on several of the issues raised in this article.

GLÁUCIO ARY DILLON SOARES is Professor of Sociology at the University of Brasilia and Professor of Latin American Studies and Sociology at the University of Florida. He directed the Latin American School of Sociology (FLACSO) from 1965 to 1969. His latest book, A Questão Agrária na América Latina, will be published this fall.

RICHARD WEISSKOFF is Associate Professor of Economics at Iowa State University and the author of articles on income distribution, consumption patterns, and import substitution. He and Adolfo Figueroa are researching "Rural and Urban Income Distribution In Peru: The Political Economy of the Sierra," on a collaborative fellowship from the SSRC.

ADOLFO FIGUEROA is Associate Professor of Economics at the Universidad Católica del Perú, and is the author of Distribución del ingreso en el Perú (with Richard Webb, 1975).

IVAN A. SCHULMAN is Graduate Research Professor of Latin American Literature at the University of Florida and is a member of its Center for Latin American Studies. He is the author of a number of books on Latin American Literature, and is presently completing a book on the Cuban antislavery novel.

KENNETH F. JOHNSON is a member of the political science faculty at the University of Missouri-St. Louis. He has recently published several articles as part of a larger work on Second Era Peronism.

MIRIAM WILLIFORD, Director of Public Service and Professor of History at Winthrop College, is chairperson of LASA's committee on the Teaching of Latin American Studies at all levels.

ALICIA V. TJARKS is Ibero-American Bibliographer, Zimmerman Library, University of New Mexico, and is the author of numerous articles that have appeared in English, Spanish, and Portuguese.

EDWARD C. EPSTEIN is Assistant Professor of Political Science and Head of Latin American Studies at the University of Utah. He is the author of "Politicization and Income Redistribution in Argentina: The Case of the Peronist Worker," Economic Development and Cultural Change 23, no. 4 (July 1975).

The illustrations in this issue (pp. 25, 119) were prepared by LARRY MENDENHALL, a graduate student in Latin American History at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill.
