Old Age Homes

Roger Clough
Foreword by Phyllida Parsloe

In OLD AGE HOMES Roger Clough presents a vivid description of the lives and work of residents and staff in an old people's home. He uses detailed observation and lengthy interviews to demonstrate that a home can be a good place in which to live and die, provided that the right approach and attitudes are adopted by the staff. His conclusions will be of major importance to managers, practitioners, trainers and students who are concerned with the problems of residential care.

Towards Death with Dignity

Caring for Dying People
Sylvia Poss

This book fills the gap in social work literature for a practical guide on how to care for a dying patient, client or relative. Sylvia Poss' sensitive understanding of the terminal crisis and the psychosocial adjustments necessary in order to approach death enable her to demonstrate not only what may need to be done by the caregiver, but also the practical skills necessary to fulfil the dying person's wishes. TOWARDS DEATH WITH DIGNITY will be valuable for both laymen and for the many professionals involved in this aspect of the health care field.

Social Work with Elderly People

Cherry Rowlings

From an initial discussion of why social workers are often reluctant or unable to work with the problems that may be present in old age, SOCIAL WORK WITH ELDERLY PEOPLE continues with a description of the disadvantages that often accompany old age and the problems that elderly people may experience, whether on their own in the community, with their families, or in residential care. Issues such as the dynamics of caring and being cared for, the assessment and management of dependency and risk, and the preservation of individuality in spite of frailty and disability are discussed in a variety of contexts.

Day Services for Adults

Somewhere to go

Jan Carter
Foreword by Lord Seebohm

Reporting the results of a five year national survey, Jan Carter investigates the full range of day services available for adults which include provisions for the elderly. The concept of day units is given an in-depth scrutiny, primarily to show how they form an integral part of community care. The book will be essential reading for senior social work professionals and geriatricians as well as being useful source material for students within the fields of social medicine, social work and medical sociology.

Ageing and Society

A new international journal devoted to publishing contributions to the understanding of human ageing, particularly from the social sciences and humanities. Its interpretation of ageing as a subject is wide and includes all aspects of the human condition whether they relate to individuals, groups, institutions or societies. £24.00 for institutions £17.00 for individuals

Archives européennes de sociologie European Journal of Sociology

The aims of this journal are firstly to reaffirm and continue the European tradition of historical and comparative sociology, and to incorporate in it the more important contributions made by empirical studies. Secondly, they are to encourage comparative studies of the institutions of European societies, and of European institutions in other parts of the world. £22.00 for institutions £12.50 for individuals

Comparative Studies in Society and History

This is a truly international forum of social analysis which publishes the work of authors from throughout the world in many disciplines – including history, sociology, anthropology, political science, as well as law, economics and the humanities. £23.00 for institutions £12.50 for individuals

Journal of Public Policy

This new journal will publish articles that use concepts derived from any of the social sciences to illuminate a significant problem facing contemporary government. Articles which cross the conventional boundaries between the social sciences will be particularly welcome. £30.00 for institutions £15.00 for individuals

Journal of Social Policy

This journal is concerned with the historical and theoretical analysis of social policy and with processes and problems in the implementation of social policy at both national and local levels. It explores the relationship of social administration to all the social sciences as well as to social work and social action. £29.00 for institutions £17.50 for members of BSA

Notes for Contributors

All contributions and correspondence should be sent to: Malcolm L. Johnson, The Editor, Ageing and Society, Policy Studies Institute, 1/2 Castle Lane, London SW1E 6DR, England. All books for review should be sent to: Rex Taylor, M.R.C. Medical Sociology Unit, Westburn Road, Aberdeen AB9 2ZE, Scotland.

General approach

Authors are asked to bear in mind the multi-disciplinary and international nature of the readership when writing their contribution. In particular, care should be taken to draw out the implications of the analysis for readers in other fields, other countries, and other disciplines. Jargon specific to a particular discipline or country should be avoided, and definitions should be provided for words which might be unfamiliar to some readers.

Articles should generally contain between 5,000 and 10,000 words, although longer or shorter articles may be accepted by arrangement with the Editor.

Submission of an article is taken to imply that it has not previously been published, and is not being considered for publication elsewhere. If an author is publishing a related article elsewhere, this fact should be stated. Contributors of articles or reviews accepted for publication will be asked to assign copyright, on certain conditions, to Cambridge University Press.

Preparation of manuscript

Authors of papers should send three copies of their article and keep one copy of the typescript for correcting proofs.

Contributions (articles, review articles, reviews) should be clearly typed on one side of the paper only using a conventional size of paper, preferably A4. All material should be typed double-spaced with generous margins.

The title of the article and the author's name and affiliation should be typed on a separate page at the beginning of the article. The title only should appear on the next page, which should contain an abstract of between one and two hundred words.

Style

References to books and articles should be numbered consecutively throughout the text and typed separately in number order at the end of the article. Bibliographic citations should include the following details: in the case of books, the author or authors, the full title, publisher, place of publication and date; in the case of articles, the author or authors, the title and full name of the journal, volume, year and page reference (first and last page). References should be typed using the following style.

1. Hendricks, J. and Hendricks, C. D. Ageing in mass society: myths and realities. Winthrop Publishers, Cambridge, Mass., 1977.

2. Walker, A. The social creation of poverty and dependency in old age. Journal of Social Policy, 9, 1980, 49-75.

Footnotes should be avoided if at all possible; when they must occur they should be numbered along with the references.

Tables and figures should be clearly laid out, numbered consecutively, and designed to fit on a page 234mm × 155mm. Vertical lines between columns should be omitted, and horizontal lines limited to the top and bottom of the table, with an additional one below the column headings. Totals and percentages should be labelled, and units identified. Every table or figure should have a title and at least one reference in the text to indicate its location.

Proofreading of the manuscript

First proofs may be read and corrected by contributors provided that they can give the Editor an address through which they can be reached without delay and can guarantee to return the corrected proofs to the Editor by airmail where appropriate, within seven days of receiving them. The master proof will always be sent direct to the Editor by the printer; contributors will receive duplicates.

Authors will receive 25 offprints of their article free of charge; additional copies may be purchased if ordered at proof stage.
