THE REVOLUTIONARY PERSONALITY: LENIN, TROTSKY, GANDHI

By E. Victor Wolfenstein

Why does a man become a revolutionist? What attributes of personality enable him to become an effective revolutionary leader? What psychological attributes enable a man to effect the transition to power? By focusing on the personalities of three important revolutionists the author hypothesizes a model of a distinctive "revolutionary personality." Lenin, Trotsky, and Gandhi are discussed in terms of trust, pride, courage, industry, confidence, and drive—

AMERICAN DEMOCRACY in World Perspective

*William Ebenstein • C. Herman Pritchett • Henry A. Turner
Dean Mann*

This comprehensive text analyzes American government in the perspective of other democratic systems and contrasts democratic principles and practices with authoritarianism and totalitarianism. Basic theory is stressed, with due consideration given to pertinent historical information, institutional operations, and political behavior. In four full introductory chapters, the text sets democracy against other systems of government and discusses the philosophical, economic, and psychological bases of democracy. General principles and issues are emphasized in the authors' presentation of the process of American government as it functions and the policies that emerge from it. Additionally, the authors point to the major areas of public policy in which changes are likely—or ought—to occur, thus stimulating discussion of controversial issues and illustrating the problems of American government and democracy. The authors focus on such problems as civil rights, political parties and interest groups, the role of Congress and the Presidency, the welfare state, the role of the government in the economy, and the problem of underdeveloped countries in U.S. foreign policy.

Charts, graphs, and cartoons by some of the greatest artists, from Herblock to Feiffer. Brief, practical bibliographies. Instructor's Manual.
