

Law & Society Review Condensed Style Sheet

Type manuscripts double-spaced on one side of the paper only. While manuscripts need not conform to this style sheet at the time of submission, all manuscripts must include an abstract, footnotes, and a list of references, and all accepted manuscripts must be revised by the authors to conform to the Review's style. The rules listed below supplement the manuscript information on the inside front cover of the Review. Authors are urged to consult Review issues in volume 26 or later for further illustrations. A detailed style sheet is available from the Editorial Office.

- 1. Abstracts. All manuscripts should include an abstract of not more than 100 words. No abstracts are required for review essays or comments.
- 2. Footnotes. Footnotes should be numbered sequentially (except for the author's footnote) and printed on pages immediately following the text (not at the foot of the page). They should contain only substantive comments and additional references not immediately relevant to the text.
- 3. Tables and Figures. Tables should approximate the appearance of printed tables. Figures should be camera ready; provide originals, not xerographic copies. Tables and/or figures should be placed at the end of the text, after footnotes, appendixes, and references. Their location within the text should be indicated as follows:

Table 1 about here

- 4. Citations. All notes that consist merely of supporting citations should be placed in parentheses in the text. For example:

In a thoughtful essay, Hayden (1991) . . .

OR

Media stories often portray the civil jury as generous (Daniels & Martin 1986:236; Hans 1989; Huber 1988).

The same general rules apply to footnote text.

- 5. References. References are placed at the end of the manuscript following the footnotes. The list should contain only those sources actually cited in text or notes. Give authors' names as they appear in the original source. For more than one publication by the same author, list them in chronological order, with the older item first. For more than one publication in one year by the same author, use small (lower-case) letters to distinguish them (e.g., 1970a, 1970b).

BOOKS: Last Name, First Name (year) Title of Book. City: Publisher.

Example: Lerner, Melvin J. (1980) Belief in a Just World. New York: Plenum.

CHAPTER IN EDITED VOLUME:

Example: Glazer, Nathan (1979) "The Judiciary and Social Policy," in L. Theberge, ed., The Judiciary in a Democratic Society. Lexington, MA: Lexington Books.

ARTICLES: Last Name, First Name (Year) "Title of Article," volume number Journal initial page of article. (Give month or issue number if each issue is separately paginated.)

Examples: Padgett, John F. (1990) "Plea Bargaining in Prohibition," 24 Law & Society Rev. 413.

Brill, Steven, & James Lyons ((1986) "The Not-So-Simple Crisis," American Lawyer 12 (May).

UNPUBLISHED PAPERS:

Example: Lofquist, William S. (1991) "The Development of Organizational Probation." Presented at American Society of Criminology annual meeting, San Francisco.

All cases cited in text are listed under "Cases Cited" following the References. All statutes cited are listed under "Statutes Cited." For style for cases and statutes, see A Uniform System of Citation.

Duncan Kennedy

This book, gathering the best efforts of one of Critical Legal Studies' most provocative and influential exponents, offers an ambitious synthesis of critical legal thought. Through analyses of law as it relates to politics, morals, and economics, Duncan Kennedy explores and expands legal realist ideas and develops their implications for theory, policy, and practice. Cultural identity is one of his main concerns, a theme that emerges in his account of how law shapes and is shaped by the racial, sexual, intellectual, economic, and national character of communities.

Governing the Workplace

The Future of Labor and Employment Law

Paul C. Weiler

"This book is of immense value to those interested in the future of American labor law. It is a kaleidoscopic journey, ranging from voluminous empirical data about the operation of the modern workplace to scholarly analyses drawing on law, economics, industrial relations, and critical theory. It contains an education about work, the law, and the intersection of the two." — Yale Law Journal

At Women's Expense

State Power and the Politics of Fetal Rights

Cynthia R. Daniels

No longer concerned with conception or motherhood, the new politics of fetal rights focus on fertility and pregnancy itself, on a woman's relationship with the fetus. How exactly, Cynthia Daniels asks, does this affect a woman's rights? The answers, rigorously pursued throughout this book, give us a clear look into the state's paradoxical role in gender politics—as both a challenger of injustice and an agent of social control.

Only Words

Catharine A. MacKinnon

"Anyone inclined to dismiss anti-pornography legislation as zealotry, or as short-sighted interference with individual rights, should read Only Words. MacKinnon states her case in prose that is as distinctive and as trenchant as Orwell's."

—Richard Rorty, University of Virginia

After the Rights Revolution

Reconceiving the Regulatory State

Cass R. Sunstein

"We all need help finding our way around the American administrative state. An important guidebook has now arrived. The publication of Cass Sunstein's After the Rights Revolution is a significant event for those interested in administrative law and regulation, as well as for those concerned with the theory of legal interpretation." — Yale Law Journal

The Sicilian Mafia

The Business of Private Protection

Diego Gambetta

In a society where trust is in short supply and democracy is crippled, the Mafia sells protection, a guarantee of safe conduct for commercial and social transactions. Drawing on the confessions of eight Mafiosi and the trials their revelations triggered, Diego Gambetta develops an elegant analysis of the socio-political role of the Mafia and he makes astute comparisons between the business of protection and the automotive, insurance, and advertising industries.

Constitutional Literacy

A Core Curriculum for a Multicultural Nation

Toni Marie Massaro

“Public education must respond both to E. D. Hirsch’s sensible claim that we need a common knowledge base in order to communicate and to Stanley Fish’s critical observation that ‘it is difference all the way down.’ This book outlines the first principles of a national curriculum mindful of both insights.”—Toni Marie Massaro, from the introduction

“At last an analysis of educational policy and reform that does not begin with a polarizing and caricaturing polemic. This landmark study illustrates with marvelous concision and admirable clarity the intractable complexity of issues that others have reduced to soundbites.”—Stanley Fish

“A thoughtful and accurate work of scholarship that eschews ideology in discussing pressing needs of American education.”

—E. D. Hirsch

Psychology, Crime, and Law

... a new international journal

Editors: Clive Hollin (UK) • Peter van Koppen (NL) • E Allan Lind (USA)

The journal aims to promote the study and application of psychological approaches to crime, criminal and civil law, and the influence of law on behaviour. The content will include the aetiology of criminal behaviour, studies of different offender groups; crime detection, for example interrogation and witness testimony; courtroom studies in areas such as jury behaviour, decision making, divorce and custody, and expert testimony; behaviour of litigants, lawyers, judges, and court officers, both in and outside the courtroom; issues of offender management including prisons, probation, and rehabilitation initiatives; and studies of public, including victim, reactions to crime and legal processes. It will publish empirical studies, reviews and brief reports which make a significant contribution to the psychology of law, crime and legal behaviour.

Policing & Society

An International Journal of Research and Policy

Editors: Rod Morgan (UK) • Robert Reiner (UK)

'... The journal's arrival is particularly important in providing a wider audience for solid policing research... Its articles to date are of significant interest to readers in criminology, political science, sociology, and social policy: long may they continue to be so.'

- The Times Higher Education Supplement

Policing and Society is concerned with the activity of policing and the factors which affect it. A major part of its material will concern the police through:

- social scientific investigations of police policy
- legal analyses of police powers and their constitutional status
- management orientated research on aspects of police organisation.
- the relationship between what the police do and the policing decision and functions of community groups, private sector organisations and other state agencies.

The journal examines the political economy of policing. As such it is of interest to academics from the social science disciplines as well as police and others involved in social regulation and control.

Policing and Society aims to promote a genuinely international forum and has correspondents in most countries with a tradition of research and academic inquiry into all aspects of policing. It is committed to rigorous policy debate and the highest standards of scholarship.
