

GLOBAL RESTRUCTURING, EMPLOYMENT, AND SOCIAL INEQUALITY IN URBAN LATIN AMERICA

*edited by Richard Tardanico
and Rafael Menjivar Larín*

ISBN: 1-57454-019-X, 304 pages,
paper/$24.95

Despite new opportunities arising from transformations in the global economic and political arenas in the 1990s, Latin American states have become more vulnerable to transnational capital movements and market shifts. Without the implementation of vigorous, innovative policies to promote social equality and upgrade national infrastructures, economic growth will yield widening inequalities within and between nations.

This volume's multidisciplinary cast of authors uses a comparative framework to explore the implications of global transformations and national development policies for urban employment and social inequality in Latin America. The authors examine socioeconomic change in labor markets, including privatization, industry and export transformations, growth of precarious and informal employment, gender realignments, and territorial reorganization.

GENERATING SAVINGS FOR LATIN AMERICAN DEVELOPMENT

edited by Robert Grosse

ISBN: 1-57454-044-0, 192 pages,
paper/$24.95

How can savings be generated and mobilized to support Latin American development into the twenty-first century? This underlying question is analyzed in detail for the region and for several individual countries. The volume's authors examine the contribution of savings to the process of capital formation, the relationship between domestic savings and domestic investment, and the effects of foreign investment upon savings and capital investment in the region.

Robert Grosse is professor of international business and director of research at Thunderbird, The American Graduate School of International Management.
