

International Theory

A Journal of International Politics, Law and Philosophy

The paradox of state identification: de facto states, recognition, and the (re-)production of the international

Janis Grzybowski

Transnational society as a mirror of international society: a reinterpretation of contemporary world order

Thomas Davies

Globalization and the rise of integrated world society: deterritorialization, structural power, and the endogenization of international society

Salvatore Babones and John H. S. Aberg

Trading privileges for support: the strategic co-optation of emerging powers into international institutions

Andreas Kruck and Bernhard Zangl

Aims, claims, and the bargaining model of war

Kenneth A. Schultz and Henk E. Goemans

CAMBRIDGE
UNIVERSITY PRESS

International Theory

A JOURNAL OF INTERNATIONAL POLITICS, LAW AND PHILOSOPHY

www.journals.cambridge.org/it

EDITORS

Toni Erskine, Coral Bell School of Asia Pacific Affairs
Stefano Guzzini, Pontifícia Universidade Católica do Rio de Janeiro (PUC-Rio), Brazil and Uppsala University, Sweden
David Welch, University of Waterloo

MANAGING EDITOR

Linnea R. Turco, Department of Political Science, Ohio State University

CO-CHAIRS OF THE BOARD

Chris Reus-Smit, University of Queensland, Australia
Duncan Snidal, Nuffield College, University of Oxford, UK
Alex Wendt, The Ohio State University, USA

EDITORIAL BOARD

Chris Brown, London School of Economics and Political Science	Andrew Kydd, University of Wisconsin
Jutta Brunnée, University of Toronto	Sergei Prozorov, University of Helsinki
Jack Donnelly, University of Denver	Gerry Simpson, London School of Economics
Robyn Eckersley, University of Melbourne	Jack Snyder, Columbia University
Kimberley Hutchings, Queen Mary University of London	Neil Walker, University of Edinburgh
	Michael Williams, University of Ottawa

STATEMENT OF AIMS

International Theory (IT) promotes theoretical scholarship about the positive, legal, and normative aspects of world politics respectively. IT is open to theory of all varieties and from all disciplines, provided it addresses problems of politics, broadly defined and pertains to the international.

IT welcomes scholarship that uses evidence from the real world to advance theoretical arguments. However, IT is intended as a forum where scholars can develop theoretical arguments in depth without an expectation of extensive empirical analysis.

IT's over-arching goal is to promote communication and engagement across theoretical and disciplinary traditions. IT puts a premium on contributors' ability to reach as broad an audience as possible, both in the questions they engage and in their accessibility to other approaches. However, IT is also open to work that remains within one scholarly tradition, although in that case authors must make clear the horizon of their arguments in relation to other theoretical approaches.

All articles will be peer-reviewed.

With thanks to the Mershon Center, Ohio State University, for financial support.

This journal issue has been printed on FSC-certified paper and cover board. FSC is an independent, non-governmental, not-for-profit organization established to promote the responsible management of the world's forests. Please see www.fsc.org for information.

INTERNATIONAL THEORY

November 2019

CONTENTS

- 241 The paradox of state identification: de facto states, recognition, and the (re-)production of the international
JANIS GRZYBOWSKI
- 264 Transnational society as a mirror of international society: a reinterpretation of contemporary world order
THOMAS DAVIES
- 293 Globalization and the rise of integrated world society: deterritorialization, structural power, and the endogenization of international society
SALVATORE BABONES AND JOHN H. S. ABERG
- 318 Trading privileges for support: the strategic co-optation of emerging powers into international institutions
ANDREAS KRUCK AND BERNHARD ZANGL
- 344 Aims, claims, and the bargaining model of war
KENNETH A. SCHULTZ AND HENK E. GOEMANS