"We have experimentally proved that Listerine is a powerful antiseptic, preventing the development of bacteria and decomposition of vegetable infusions."—British Medical Journal, May 3, 1890.

LISTERINE

A safe, non-poisonous, unirritating antiseptic solution

LISTERINE is particularly useful in the treatment of abnormal conditions of the mucosa, and admirably suited for a wash, gargle, or douche, in catarrhal conditions of the nose and throat.

LISTERINE in proper dilution may be freely and continuously used without prejudicial effect, either by injection or spray, in all the natural cavities of the body.

LISTERINE embodies a two-fold antiseptic effect, in that after the evaporation of its volatile constituents—thyme, eucalyptus, mentha, gaultheria, and ethyl alcohol—a film of boracic and benzoic acids remains upon the surface to which Listerine has been applied, affording more prolonged antiseptic protection.

LISTERINE is a trustworthy surgical dressing; it has no injurious effect upon the tissues in which the healing process is going on.

LISTERINE in teaspoonful doses will often afford relief in fermentative dyspepsia, and is largely prescribed, with excellent results, in the various forms of diarrhoea occurring in infants and adults.

LISTERINE literature, including special pamphlets upon Respiratory Diseases, may be had, by physicians, upon application to

AN EFFECTIVE MEANS OF ALLEVIATING COUGH.

SYRUP COCILLANA COMPOUND (P., D. & Co.)

possesses therapeutic properties distinct from those of any preparation hitherto available for the relief of bronchial affections.

EACH FLUID DRACHM CONTAINS:

Tincture of Cocillana . . . 5 minims.
 Tincture of Euphorbia
 Pulifera 15 minims.
 Syrup of Wild Lettuce 15 minims.
 Compound Syrup of
 Squill, U.S.P. 8 minims.
 Cascarin (P., D. & Co.) 1 grain.
 Diamorphine Hydrochloride, B.P. . . 1/24 grain.
 Menthol 1/100 grain.
 Dose: One-half to one fluid drachm.

SYRUP COCILLANA COMPOUND (P., D. & Co.) renders most efficient service in cases of hard dry cough with scanty expectoration. It soothes the inflamed mucous membrane, promotes dislodgement of indurated mucus, restores tone to the bronchi, and relieves dyspnoea.

The small dose of cascacin (the tonic-laxative principle of cascara sagrada) promotes the regular action of the bowels which is particularly desirable in catarrhal conditions of the respiratory tract.

SYRUP COCILLANA COMPOUND (P., D. & Co.) is specially prepared for Prescribing by Physicians. Its precise formula is published. It is not advertised to the public. Its name on the prescription does not convey any meaning to the patient.

Syrup Cocillana Compound is supplied in bottles of 4, 8 and 16 fluid ounces. Please specify "P., D. & Co."
