leader	3	Forms of architectural expression
obituary	4	Charles Jencks Terry Farrell
	8	Edward Cullinan Jonathan Hale report	14	Dreams Seen Up Close Silke Kapp criticism	18	Combs, cages, and thickets: Niall McLaughlin and an architecture of line Andrew Carr examines an 'architecture of line', manifest as arrays and lattices in the work of Niall McLaughlin Architects, within the context of related work by other practitioners.
theory	37	Thin mask, thick mnemonic: the idea of the wall and genius loci in two contemporary buildings Xiang Ren studies how walls, and their engagement with places as found and genius loci, are articulated through contemporary architectural design and construction practices.
	49	The layered absences of the Heygate Estate, South London (1974–2014) Felipe Lanuza introduces the notion of absence and the method of layering to observe a neglected UK council estate, which has been vacated and demolished to give way to a contentious regeneration project.
	67	An Imperial axis, counter-memorials, and the double bind: the rise and fall of Rhodes at the University of Cape Town Nicholas Coetzer shows the importance of an Imperial axis in staging protest action on the UCT campus and its consequent manifestation of Gregory Bateson's double bind.
	83	The architect, the resident, and a murder: the case of a house by Aris Konstantinidis Myrto Kiourti and Kostas Tsiambaos analyse how societal conventions translated into Aris Konstantinidis' design for a house, which were then experienced as constraining and oppressive by the resident.
review	95	Ecologies of the Early Garden City Juliet Odgers

Innovative in conception, unique in breadth and generously illustrated, this pace-setting quarterly publication from Cambridge University Press bridges, on a global scale, the realms of architectural practice and research. arq includes extensive peer-reviewed sections on design, history, theory, digital, environmental design, education, and practice – as well as landscape, materials and urbanism. These are supplemented with reports, reviews and perspectives. Each issue opens with a leader and usually closes with insight, or a letter from a place of interest. In its history, arq has published work from all over the world: from Chile to The Netherlands and from Japan to South Africa – with a strong representation from the United Kingdom, United States, China and Australia. arq, like architecture itself, is all-embracing and written by and for both academics and practitioners.
