

The Alan Marsh Award

(Awarded to a British Student who has shown exceptional ability in technical study in the rotary wing field)

DENIS V WARREN

The Awards Committee were pleased to select Mr D V Warren as the recipient of the 1959 Award

Mr Warren has come over here from South Africa to study Aerodynamics at Cranfield, and hopes to take up research work—initially in Sweden. He submitted for the College Diploma a thesis on “Aerodynamic Problems on Convertiplanes.” Mr Warren is a Student Member both of the Association and the Royal Aeronautical Society, and holds a B Sc Eng (S Africa)

ADDITIONS TO THE ASSOCIATION'S LIBRARY

American Helicopter Society Publications

Proceedings of the Fifteenth Annual National Forum, May, 1959

- “Commercial Operations in Alaska,”
by L Lockett
- “The Role of Armed Helicopters in Military Operations,” by Col Jay D Vanderpool and Major John F Aschoff, U S A
- “A Method for Improving the Performance and Safety of Aircraft Powered by Turboshaft Engine,”
by I B Osofsky
- “Operational Experiences with the Kolibrie Ramjet Helicopter,”
by J M Drees
- “Statistical Aspects of the Rotor Fatigue Problem,”
by G F Goetsch
- “General Electric T58 in Service Operation,”
by Coulman Westcott, Jr
- “Operational Analysis of Maintenance Costs,”
by Joseph A Moro
- “Safe Mechanisms for Helicopters,”
by Raoul Hafner
- “Potential Service and Maintenance Improvements with Hydraulics,” by W Patterson and W L Flinn
- “Some Operational and Economic Aspects of the Fairey Rotodyne,”
by G S Hislop
- “Analysis of Helicopter Stability Augmentation Obtainable with the Oehmichen Pitch-Flap Coupling Concept,”
by G Bruning