CONTRIBUTIONS

Contributions are invited from all over the world, and especially from scholars working in African universities. Articles written in languages other than English will be considered on their merits, and where necessary translation will be arranged. The average length suggested is 3,000 to 6,000 words, with occasional exceptions of up to 10,000 words. Notes on centres of African studies, research projects, and reports of recent conferences are also welcome.

All correspondence and contributions should be addressed to
THE EDITORS, THE JOURNAL OF MODERN AFRICAN STUDIES, at either UNIVERSITY COLLEGE, DAR ES SALAAM, TANZANIA or UNIVERSITY PRESS, CAMBRIDGE, ENGLAND.

Each contributor will receive a copy of the number and 25 offprints of his article free of charge.

SUBSCRIPTIONS

Subscriptions (35s. net per annual volume of four parts, post free) are payable in advance, and may be sent to any bookseller, or to Cambridge University Press, Bentley House, 200 Euston Road, London, N.W.1. Subscribers in the U.S.A. should send their subscriptions ($6.50 per volume) to the Cambridge University Press, American Branch, 32 East 57th Street, New York 22, N.Y.

THE SUDAN IN ANGLO- EGYPTIAN RELATIONS

L. A. Fabunmi, Ph.D.

This study presents an analytical and pragmatic account of the evolution of Anglo-Egyptian relations with particular reference to the Sudan Question, in its local as well as wider significance, from the very beginning of the issue to its climax in 1956. Dr. Fabunmi has not only used official archives and newspapers, but has interviewed many people in Britain, Egypt and the Sudan. His having no emotional ties with the parties involved has helped him in a difficult task.

'... surely the most thorough study so far made of these tangled relations. The book will be a mine of information to all interested in this important subject.' BOOKS FOR AFRICA 50s.

Constitutional Developments in Nigeria

KALU EZERA

A paperback edition is now available of this highly praised book, to which Dr Ezera has added a new chapter on 'Independent Nigeria, 1960-1963'. It is a pioneer study of Nigeria's political development and of the historical and political factors that have affected constitutional change. Beginning in 1861, Dr Ezera describes the emergence of political parties and of nationalism, the influence of the press, trade unionism, the Labour Party in Britain, American policy and other factors. He concludes with a study of Nigerian unity, the problems of independence and the prospects of democracy. 'Dr Ezera has accomplished a remarkable feat.' African Report. 'Full, clear and honest. It should prove an indispensable work of reference'. Times Literary Supplement.

They Built for the Future

MARGARET MACPHERSON

Makerere College opened in 1922 with 14 day boys. In 1962 when this history ends it had 1000 graduate and undergraduate students and numbered among its Old Boys President Nyerere and Mr Milton Obote. Mrs Macpherson lectures in English there and has already compiled the College Register. She has written a valuable record of the progress made by a great college which is now part of the new University of East Africa.

THE GEOGRAPHY OF MODERN AFRICA

William A. Hance

This is the most thorough and complete economic and geographic assessment of the African continent yet written. Professor Hance's book makes a major contribution to a better understanding of the African economic scene. Specifically, it focuses on two main areas: the present state of economic development and the potentialities for development in the years ahead. There are over 100 original maps, 50 tables, and 251 half-tones. "An excellent reference book. . . Professor Hance of the geography department at Columbia writes in the tradition of Isaiah Bowman, Mark Jefferson, and Derwent Whittlesey."—Library Journal

History of East Africa

Volume 1

EDITED BY ROLAND OLIVER AND
GERVASE MATHEW

‘... an exciting departure in the history of this area. Put at its simplest, it is an attempt to write the history of Africa, not its invaders. ...’

The Gold Coast, Britain and The Netherlands 1850–1874

DOUGLAS COOMBS

‘... the first publication in which full use has been made of all sources, available up to now ... without doubt, this work will be, for a long time, the final study on the subject ... gives a clear picture of the character of the documents which established the relation between the Dutch Government, partly as successor of the Dutch West Indian Company, and the Ashanti, as well as other tribes in the Gold Coast.’

DAVID KIMBLE

‘Out of this well-written narrative comes a solid yet exciting sense of historical experience, of the passage of many kinds of people from a traditional to a modern world; and any common reader with the time to spare will enjoy the journey.’

*Basil Davidson in the NEW STATESMAN
Illustrated 65s net*

Politics in Ghana 1946–1960

DENNIS AUSTIN

An unusually well-informed account of political life in what has become a pioneer country among the new African states. Primarily a work of recent history, it draws on the author’s detailed knowledge of the Ghanaian scene to illustrate the course of events which brought the British colony of the Gold Coast to independence in 1957 under a People’s Party recruited largely from a new class of elementary-school-leavers.

‘... a stimulating, clearly written and illuminating study of social process. It should certainly be read, not because Professor Porter is one of the first Africans to produce a treatise of this kind, but because of its interesting combination of historical and sociological method.’
