

INSTITUTE OF INTERNATIONAL PUBLIC LAW AND INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS OF THESSALONIKI

Human Rights and Democracy for the 21st Century

7 to 25 September 1998 - Aristotle University of Thessaloniki

BUDISLAV VUKAS (Croatia), Professor of International Law, University of Zagreb, International Protection of Minorities: Limits of Growth (7-11 September)

JOHN G. MERRILLS (Great Britain), Professor of International Law, University of Sheffield, Human Rights and Democratic Values in the Strasbourg System (7-11 September)

U. OJI UMOZURIKE (Nigeria), Professor, University of Calabar, Human Rights and Democracy in the 21st Century - The African Challenges (7-11 September)

JANUSZ SYMONIDES (Poland), Professor, Director, Division of Human Rights, Democracy and Peace, UNESCO, Cultural Rights - New Dimensions and Challenges (7-11 September)

KONRAD GINTHER (Austria), Professor, University of Graz, Head of the Institute of International Law and International Relations, Human Rights and Democracy and the Quest for Sustainable Development (14-18 September)

ANDREAS MAVROMMATIS (Cyprus), Ambassador, Chairman, Press Complaints Commission, The International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights and its Role in Promoting Democracy (14-18 September)

HECTOR GROS ESPIELL (Uruguay), Ambassador, The American Regional System of Human Rights Protection - The Right to Peace and Democracy in America, Perspectives for the 21st Century (14-18 September)

PAEL de WAART (The Netherlands), Em. Professor of International Law, University of Amsterdam, United Nations 21: Social Conscience of the Global Market? (14-18 September)

JANELLE DILLER (U.S.A.), Adjunct Professor of Law, Georgetown University Law Center, Legal Official, International Labour Organisation, The Harmonization of International Economic Law and Human Rights (21-25 September)

BRIGITTE STERN (France), Professor of International Law, University Paris I, Pantheon-Sorbonne, The Genocide Convention (21-25 September)

ASBJORN EIDE (Norway), Professor, Director of the Norwegian Institute of Human Rights, Chairman - Rapporteur of the Working Group on Minorities of the UN Sub-Commission on Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities, Human Rights and Group Accommodation in Sovereign States. Questions of Self-Determination in the Law and Practice of the United Nations (21-25 September)

GIORGIO GAJA (Italy), Professor of International Law, University of Florence, Protection of Fundamental Rights with regard to European Community Acts: What Prospects? (21-25 September)

(Mail Address: Leof. Meg. Alexandrou 15 & Hadji, GR 546 40 Thessaloniki, Greece - Tel. 031-841751 & 810451; Fax. 031-853427.

THE INTERNATIONAL COURT OF JUSTICE: PROCESS, PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

Bowett and Others

This book is concerned with the efficiency and working practices of the International Court of Justice which has unique authority and standing as the principal judicial organ of the United Nations.

The last ten years have seen a steady increase in the number of cases referred to the Court. This trend underlines the confidence which States have in the Court as a vital instrument in the peaceful settlement of disputes, but the penalty of this success has been a growing docket of pending cases and the risk of delay.

Drawing on their unique practical experience, the contributors analyse this issue and propose solutions to the difficult problems which it poses. Issues of comparative method, universality and the authority of judgments are all central to ensuring that the development of the Court's practice and procedure contributes to enhancing the standing of the Court and the clarity of its contribution to the determination of public international law.

The book is the product of an extensive dialogue between the specialist practitioners who prepared an initial report, members of the Court including the President and HE Judge Rosalyn Higgins, members of the Public International Law Section of the Institute's Advisory Board, members of the Institute, and other experts.

It has been prepared by the British Institute of International and Comparative Law as a contribution to the United Nations Decade of International Law and as the basis for further discussion and proposals for the development and enhancement of the role and work of the Court.

Contributors

Professor D.W. Bowett CBE, QC, FBA * Professor James Crawford
Sir Ian Sinclair KCMG, QC * Sir Arthur Watts KCMG, QC
HE Judge Mohammed Bedjaoui * HE Judge Shigeru Oda
HE Judge Rosalyn Higgins DBE, QC * Sir Franklin Berman KCMG, QC
Professor Alan Boyle * Professor Ian Brownlie CBE, QC
ISBN 0 903067 60 9 Hdbk xi + 190 pp. £35

◆ Orders to: Publications Department, The British Institute of International and Comparative Law, Charles Clore House, 17 Russell Square, London WC1B 5DR.
Tel: 0171.636.5802 Fax: 0171.323.2016 Email: ad534@dial.pipex.com

HUMAN RIGHTS AS GENERAL NORMS AND A STATE'S RIGHT TO OPT OUT : RESERVATIONS AND OBJECTIONS TO HUMAN RIGHTS CONVENTIONS

Chinkin and Others - Ed. J.P. Gardner

This book analyses one of the most pressing problems of human rights and treaty law: how is the protection of universal individual human rights to be reconciled with the right of States to qualify their treaty obligations by reservations?

The development of treaties protecting fundamental human rights in clear terms is one of the major achievements of public international law in the second half of the twentieth century. They create a network of individual rights recognised and accepted by States and subject to a variety in independent mechanisms of reporting review and adjudication.

These treaties are nevertheless established under a regime of public international law which recognises the sovereignty of States and their concomitant right to limit their obligations by the extent of their consent.

This tension creates conceptual, policy and practical problems which at either extreme of the argument seem to threaten the two vital premises that human rights are a fundamental minimum on the one hand and that States are sovereign to determine the scope of their obligations on the other.

These problems have been brought into sharp relief by the welcome increase in the number of ratifications of human rights treaties which offers the prospect of universal protection for the first time, and the accompanying growth in reservations entered by the new parties.

The contributors to this volume review the interplay of these conflicting principles in the practical operation and interpretation of the eight principal human rights treaties and, with an authoritative introduction by HE Judge Rosalyn Higgins, make a first coherent analysis of this important issue in the protection of human rights and the operation of treaty law.

ISBN 0 903067 50 1 Hdbk xxix + 207 pp. £30

◆ Orders to: Publications Department, The British Institute of International and Comparative Law, Charles Clore House, 17 Russell Square, London WC1B 5DR.
Tel: 0171.636.5802 Fax: 0171.323.2016 Email: ad534@dial.pipex.com

THE ROLE AND FUTURE OF THE EUROPEAN COURT OF JUSTICE

This book is the product of a practical research study undertaken by specialist members of the British Institute of International and Comparative Law which is concerned with the developing role and future of the European Court of Justice.

The Report records the measures which the Court has undertaken to respond to the increasing number of cases referred to it and considers in detail specific changes in the basic structure of the Court and alternatives whereby the standard and speed of judgments can be enhanced.

The contributors to the Report are: The Rt. Hon. the Lord Slynn of Hadley • David Anderson • Professor L. Neville Brown Dr. en Droit • Eileen Denza • James Flynn • Michael Hutchings • Jeremy Lever QC • K.M.H. Newman CB • T.J.G. Pratt CB • Professor H.G. Schermers • Professor J.A. Usher • David Vaughan QC • The Board's work was supported by the Director and staff of the Institute.

"...a balanced and objective look at the future role of the EU's Court." FINANCIAL TIMES 26.11.96

ISBN 0 903067 70 6 Hdbk. 154pp + xii. £32

Published by The British Institute of International and Comparative Law
17 Russell Square, London WC1B 5DR

TOPICS IN CHOICE OF LAW

by A.J.E. Jaffey

This book draws up articles which the author has published in various journals over the past twenty years and presents a distinctive and coherent theory of choice of law in the conflict of laws. It examines the objectives and criteria underlying choice of law rules, and the principles of justice which are germane to choice of law. The first chapter sets out the approach in general terms, and the remainder of the book applies it in detail to topics in the fields of contract, tort and marriage in the English conflict of laws.

The original articles have been considerably revised, rearranged and developed, not only to ensure that the elements of the theory are clearly expounded, but also to accommodate important changes in the law. Thus, for example, the chapters on tort deal with the new provisions of the recently enacted Private International Law (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 1995. Similarly, the chapters on contract analyse the changes resulting from the implementation into English law of the Rome Convention of 19 June 1980 on the Law Applicable to Contractual Obligations.

The fact that the book presents a theory does not mean that it lacks practical application. For example, in cases of contract and tort the court often has to select the appropriate governing law on the basis of a flexible choice of law rule, rather than one which indicates a fixed applicable law. In the relevant chapters the book suggests what criteria should be used in applying the formulae laid down in the statutes, and specific guidelines are proposed in relation to the new statutory provisions for tort.

The topics discussed in detail are contract - the governing law, the essential validity of contracts, the formation of contracts, choice of law by arbitrators of international contracts, torts (single and multi-State), and the essential validity of marriage.

ISBN 0 903067 55 2. Hardback 145pp. £25.00.

Published and Distributed by
The British Institute of International and Comparative Law
Charles Clore House, 17 Russell Square, London WC1B 5DR

COMPARATIVE CRIMINAL PROCEDURE

Edited by John Hatchard, Barbara Huber and Richard Vogler

Given the continuing pressure for reform in the field of criminal procedure in many parts of the world, the need for a book on comparative criminal procedure has never been greater.

This book is based on the work undertaken by a joint committee established by Justice and the British Institute of International and Comparative Law chaired by The Rt. Hon Lord Justice Phillips.

The first chapter contains an historical overview of the subject and then examines current issues concerning criminal procedure in both Europe and elsewhere. This is followed by three chapters which give a detailed analysis of criminal procedure in France, Germany and England and Wales respectively. These jurisdictions have been chosen because of their historical importance and their continuing influence on criminal justice systems worldwide. Each chapter is set out in a common form to facilitate comparison.

The volume then provides an in-depth comparison of the three jurisdictions, analyses the common issues and concerns raised and examines possible strategies for reform.

The Foreword is by The Rt. Hon Lord Justice Phillips who describes the book as providing "a scholarly and well-referenced analysis which fills a considerable gap in the criminal law library and which will provide a valuable reference source for practitioners, academics or anyone else who is interested in the differences between the three systems and their practical consequences".

ISBN 0 903067 39 0 Hdbk xiv + 256 pp £29.50

◆ Orders to: Publications Department, The British Institute of International and Comparative Law, Charles Clore House, 17 Russell Square, London WC1B 5DR. Tel: 0171.636.5802 Fax: 0171.323.2016 Email: ad534@dial.pipex.com