International Law is undergoing considerable expansion

Keep in touch with legal developments through publications from the United Nations. Under the U.N. Charter, the United Nations has a mandate in legal affairs 'to promote the judicial settlement of disputes between states and encourage the development and codification of International Law.'

Since its establishment in 1945, the United Nations has and continues to play a leading role in the area of International Law, being involved in the creation and implementation of hundreds of multilateral agreements.

To this end, many permanent organs and Ad Hoc committees have been created to deal with international legal matters. Much of the work, published on a regular basis, covers the areas of:

INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS LAW

- East-West Joint Venture Contracts
- European Agreement concerning the International Carriage of Dangerous Goods
- Legal Guide on Drawing up International Contracts for the Construction of Industrial works

- Yearbook on Human Rights

CRIMINAL JUSTICE

Yearbook of International Environmental Law

Volume 4

Edited by GÜNTHER HANDL

Praise for previous editions: "Taken collectively, the successive Yearbooks should become the researcher's first stop to get her or his bearings before going on to more detailed research....These reports, in fact, are an up-to-date reference source for research on almost any imaginable environmental issue."—The Canadian Yearbook of International Law 1992.

Established in 1990 and published by Oxford University Press beginning with the current Volume 4, this major Yearbook draws contributors from around the world to provide the most reliable, up-to-date, and comprehensive review of internationally significant developments in environmental law. A "Year-in-Review" section summarizes year-by-year trends and each volume also features a documents section, a bibliography, and theoretical articles and book reviews.

Charter of the United Nations

A Commentary

Edited by BRUNO SIMMA, University of Munich

Written as a guide to the U.N. Charter for practicing lawyers as well as scholars, this commentary is a unique piece of scholarship, the product of impeccable research by an internationally recognized group of experts. Originally published to wide acclaim in German, the commentary provides an article-by-article account of the legislative history, interpretation, and practical application of each Charter provision, and is the first commentary in any language to take into account the complete workings of the U.N. The English translation has been fully revised and updated since the appearance of the German edition, with most of the articles updated to November 1993. One of the most significant collaborative projects ever undertaken in the field of international law, this is the first commentary on the U.N. Charter to be published since 1969 and the only one in any language to take into account its practice and procedure. At once scholarly, authoritative, and immensely practical, this single volume will make a significant impact on the ways in which the U.N. Charter is discussed and understood.

ARE YOU AWARE... ?

that because of violations of law at the global level

- almost 20 million refugees have fled their homelands;
- another 20 million are refugees within their homelands because of civil war and governmental oppression;
- millions die because national governments claim absolute sovereignty;
- the United Nations, a pawn of the nation-state system, is powerless to prevent human rights violations.

There is another choice. Imagine a world

- in which law represents people, not governments;
- in which sovereignty resides in each human and in humanity;
- in which inalienable and innate rights are respected under positive law;
- in which individuals can sue government officials re human rights violations.

That world could exist today, if we carry out our ethical and professional responsibilities as lawyers/jurists. By participating in the evolution of the World Court of Human Rights, we will contribute at the ground-breaking level to this new judicial process.

For more information or to receive a copy of the court's draft statute, please contact David Gallup, Esq., at the World Judicial Commission, tel: (202) 638-2662; fax: (202) 638-0638; 1012 14th Street, NW, Suite 1106, Washington, DC 20005, USA.
