Urban Ministry in the United States, 1945-1985

"This book is must-reading for all pastors and church leaders in racial and ethnic communities confronting the challenges of our cities. It will provide knowledge leading to an authentic vocation of servanthood ministry within the city."

—Thomas J. Hoyt Jr.

Churches, Cities, and Human Community

Edited by Clifford J. Green

"This study of the post-World War II urban ministries of ten denominations is particularly welcome and instructive. The authors, all veterans of urban ministry programs, offer candid appraisals of their own and others' strategies to engage the parish with the metropolitan realities of urban America."

— Alan Geyer

"Anyone interested in the work of the church in the city will absolutely want to read this book. . . . The last chapter alone is worth the price of the book. It contains one of the most extensive bibliographies on urban ministry to be found anywhere."

— David J. Frenchak

"In a world where the gap between the 'well-off' and the poor continues to increase and where public policy issues of commitment and compassion for all of God's children are at the heart of the struggle for the American soul, this book is invaluable."

— Valerie Russell

"These stories of ministry bring us face to face with our current tasks, helping us to look back in order to look forward, to see the possibilities of metropolitan ministry in the coming era. This is a book for pastors and laypeople who care about their cities and the future of Christian ministry!"

— Gibson Winter

Teresa of Avila and the Politics of Sanctity

GILLIAN T. W. AHLGREN

Teresa of Avila, one of history's most beloved mystics, wrote during a time of intense ecclesiastical scrutiny of texts. The determination of the Counter-Reformation Church to dominate religious life and control the content of theological writing significantly influenced Teresa's career as reformer and writer. Ahlgren explores the theological and ecclesiastical climate of sixteenth-century Spain in this study of the challenges Teresa encountered as a female theologian and mystic. $29.95

A Mighty Baptism

Race, Gender, and the Creation of American Protestantism

EDITED BY SUSAN JUSTER
AND LISA MACFARLANE

A Mighty Baptism is the first book to address the intersecting roles of race and gender in shaping the Protestant tradition in the United States. Ranging from the 1790s to the 1920s, these interdisciplinary essays cover the entire terrain of American Protestantism, from mainstream denominations to sectarian offshoots to the spiritual borderlands of magic and the occult. $42.50 cloth, $16.95 paper

"Poor, Sinning Folk"

Confession and Conscience in Counter-Reformation Germany

W. DAVID MYERS

In "Poor, Sinning Folk," Myers investigates the sixteenth-century fate of the medieval Christian sacrament of penance. Less frequent and less private than the ritual familiar to modern Catholics, medieval penance was for most German-speaking Christians a seasonal event with social as well as spiritual ramifications for participants. "Myers has permanently altered and enriched my picture of what it meant to be Catholic in the Reformation period. I found particularly fascinating his discussion of the relation of the clergy to penitential practice, both in their administration of the sacrament to the laity and in their own participation in the sacrament as penitents."—DAVID STEINMETZ, Duke Divinity School. $35.00

Benedictine Maledictions

Liturgical Cursing in Romanesque France

LESTER K. LITTLE

New in Paper! "Curses provided one of the important elements in the repertoire of spiritual sanctions available to medieval Christian clerics. These were prayers in which those clerics called divine retribution down upon their enemies. In the first extended study of such cursing, Lester Little treats a wide body of texts and actions that included these 'maledictory formulas.' . . . Little has provided a thought-provoking book full of insightful analysis. It is one of the most ambitious and complete studies to date of how and why a medieval Christian ritual puts religious beliefs into practical, often political, action."—Journal of Religion. $42.50 cloth, $16.95 paper
