

Editorial

Goodbye and Thank you to Wisepress.

For the last seven years Behavioural and Cognitive Psychotherapy has been published by Wisepress. As of the first issue of 1998 we will have a new publisher, Cambridge University Press (see page 308). Other changes take place at the same time. Journal format and design will change, and there will be about 20% more copy in each issue. There will be other changes that I will describe in an Editorial in the first issue of 1998.

On behalf of the Association and the readers of this Journal I would like to thank Wisepress for providing the highest quality of publishing and production services. They have successfully and efficiently taken us through several important transitions. This is all the more remarkable given that Behavioural and Cognitive Psychotherapy has been the sole publication produced by Wisepress. Staff at Wisepress have been unfailingly helpful; special thanks are due to Penny Head who pretty much made the whole thing possible. Finally, behind the scenes copyediting has been done by Carole Hughes. I would like to express my personal gratitude to Carole for her skill and patience. We are very fortunate in being able to continue to have Carole work with us when we are published by Cambridge University Press.

In the next issue I will outline in greater detail the changes that are going to be made in the Journal, but as ever I would appreciate comments and suggestions from the Readership on any aspect of the Journal.

Editor, Behavioural and Cognitive Psychotherapy
