Development Policy Review

formerly ODI review

The Journal of the Overseas Development Institute

Edited by Sheila Page, Overseas Development Institute, London

Development Policy Review is a leading quarterly journal in development studies, focusing both on the immediate questions and the broader themes in development policy. Articles analyse social and economic issues in development reflecting the different perspectives of 'North' and 'South'. New research is complemented by an extensive book review section covering important works in the field.

Published in conjunction with the Overseas Development Institute, Development Policy Review provides a forum for the exchange of views and information on development problems and policies among those directly concerned with development in business, government and other organizations.

Published in March, June, September and December

THE AUSTRALIAN JOURNAL OF POLITICS AND HISTORY

The Australian Journal of Politics and History exists to provide a forum in which original research findings of both Australian and overseas scholars can be ventilated. It has a broad focus covering both historical as well as theoretical questions relating to historiography and politics. Traditionally the journal has placed an emphasis on Australia and those countries which have exerted and continue to exert cultural and political influences upon her. This does not, however, exclude topics of global concern originating in regions not directly related to Australia. The comparative dimension is considered to be of paramount importance.

In addition, the Australian Journal of Politics and History carries two regular and unique features: the review of Australian Foreign Policy which provides a six monthly survey and analysis of Australia's external relations; the second regular feature is the production of a political "Chronicle" which analyses the events of significance in each state of the Commonwealth as well as the Northern Territory and Papua New Guinea. This has proved a most useful and reliable method of furnishing information in a succinct and readable form for the benefit of politicians, public servants and teachers alike.

Finally, AJPH carries an extensive book review section which serves to keep local scholars up-to-date with international research.

The Australian Journal of Politics and History is published by the University of Queensland Press three times a year. Subscription rates, payable in advance, are: $A54; United Kingdom, 33; United States of America, $US48. Subscription covers surface mail postage. Subscriptions and all business correspondence should be addressed to the Manager of the University of Queensland Press, Box 42, St Lucia, Queensland, 4067, Australia.

Manuscripts should be submitted in duplicate. The materials should be all double-spaced, including notes and quotations, and should follow the Chicago Manual of Style. Recommended length is 6000 to 8000 words, including notes. Manuscripts and all correspondence regarding editorial matters should be sent to The Editor, Australian Journal of Politics and History, Department of History, University of Queensland, St Lucia, Queensland, 4067.

Regional Studies

The journal of the Regional Studies Association

Regional Studies, established in 1967, has become the international forum for original research and reviews on urban and regional development. A cross disciplinary perspective is used to include all topics that have an effect on regional studies. These include:

- industrial, retail and office location
- labour markets
- housing
- migration
- recreation
- evaluation of public policy

International Coverage

Regional Studies' coverage includes regular contributions from and about North America, Europe and the United Kingdom. Contributions also come from both developed and less developed countries.

Policy Review Section

Up to the minute comments on current concerns in urban and regional policy. Local and national government policies also come under critical evaluation.

Abstracts

All articles have a concise abstract. These are published in English, French and German.

Book Reviews

Every issue contains around 20 book reviews giving up-to-date information on all types of publications in each field.

A must for

- economists
- geographers
- sociologists
- planners
- policy makers
- government officers

Subscriptions 1990, Volume 24: February, April, June, August, October and December: £38 for individuals; £78 for UK institutions; £85 for institutions elsewhere; airmail £21 per year extra

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

GUIDELINES

The distinctive readership of the Journal, cutting across academic disciplines and national boundaries, makes the following points of particular importance to contributors.

*Whatever the specific subject matter, the relevance of conclusions to a broad understanding of policymaking should be made explicit.

*Whatever the national setting, the extent to which conclusions are generalizable to many nations should be explicitly discussed.

*Each article should show an awareness of the constraints that public institutions place upon policymaking.

*Jargon should be avoided; technical terms not widely understood should be clearly defined; and the conclusions of statistical analyses should be set out in prose, as well as being supported by quantitative information in tables, footnotes and text as appropriate.

PREPARATION OF MANUSCRIPT

The entire manuscript, including footnotes and references, should be typed double-spaced on one side only of A4 size paper, with a left-hand margin of at least 1½ inches (4½ cm). Manuscript pages should be numbered consecutively.

The title of the article and the author's name and address should be typed on a separate page at the beginning of the article.

The second page should contain an abstract of not more than 150 words and the title of the article, but not the author's name.

Tables and Figures should be numbered consecutively in separate series. Each table or figure should be typed or drawn on a separate sheet. Every table or figure should have a title or caption and at least one reference in the text to indicate its approximate location.

STYLE

Spelling, capitalization and punctuation should be consistent within each article. Detailed advice on all matters of style is contained in Judith Butcher's book, Copyediting, Cambridge University Press (1975).

Headings of not more than two grades should be used and they should be typed on separate lines.

Numbered footnotes should be avoided; citation of references in the text is the norm. If there are a few points that require discussion in the article but not in the body of the text, numbered footnotes may be used. They may also be useful for technical details, e.g. statistical points that would interrupt the flow of the text. Numbered footnotes should be typed consecutively, double-spaced, at the end of the paper, starting on a new page.

References to publications should be placed in the text. Examples of correct styling for bibliographic citation where the author's name is mentioned in the text are Alford (1975), Biller (1976, 196-7), May and Wildavsky (1978), Ostrom, Parks and Whitaker (1978) and subsequently Ostrom et al. (1978).

At the end of the paper, all references should be consolidated in a single alphabetical list starting on a new page. Authors are particularly requested to verify that each text reference appears in the list, and vice versa. In addition to author(s) surname and first name(s) or initial(s), and the title of the book or article, references to books should always include the city of publication and publisher, and for journal articles the volume and part number. For example:

Alford, R. (1975) Health Care Politics. Chicago: University of Chicago Press.

Biller, R. (1976) On tolerating policy and organizational termination: some design considerations, Policy Sciences, 7, 2, 133-49.

Campbell, D. (1971) Reforms as experiments. In F. Caro (ed.), Readings in Evaluation Research. New York: Russell Sage.

May, J. and A. Wildavsky (eds.) (1978) The Policy Cycle. Beverly Hills: Sage.

SUBMISSION

Please submit the original manuscript plus three copies to: Professor Richard Rose, Journal of Public Policy, Centre for the Study of Public Policy, University of Strathclyde, Livingstone Tower, Glasgow G1 1XH, Scotland.

COPYEDITING AND PROOF-READING

The editor and publishers reserve the right to copyedit and proof all items accepted for publication. Authors will review their copyedited manuscripts only if substantial changes have been made. Manuscripts which do not conform to the requirements about style and format may be returned for retyping.

Page proofs of articles will be sent to authors for correction of typographical errors only. Authors must notify the editorial office of any corrections within one week of receipt or approval will be assumed.

Submission of an article or other item implies that it has not been published or accepted for publication elsewhere. Authors are responsible for obtaining written permission to publish material for which they do not own the copyright. Contributors of material accepted for publication will be asked to assign their copyrights to Cambridge University Press.

Each author will receive 50 offprints of his article without charge. Additional copies may be purchased if ordered at proof stage.

The Journal of Public Policy is sponsored by the Centre for the Study of Public Policy, University of Strathclyde
