The Professor Richard B. Lillich Prize

for the best S.J.D. or Ph.D. Dissertation on a topic of procedural international law

The Procedural Aspects of International Law (PAIL) Institute is a nonprofit organization devoted to furthering the observance of international law through research, consulting, and publishing monographs and other educational materials. Established in 1965 by academic lawyers (including Richard B. Lillich), governmental officials, and private practitioners, the Institute's activities include work in areas as diverse as international claims settlement, State responsibility and diplomatic protection, a draft convention on terrorism, the concept of autonomy in international law, the reform of international organizations, and the international protection of human rights.

In recognition of the unique contribution of Richard B. Lillich to international law throughout his career, the PAIL Institute announces a competition for its first biennial Lillich Prize. The 2004-05 Prize – in the amount of US$5,000 – will be awarded for the best S.J.D. or Ph.D. dissertation submitted to any Faculty of Law in the world in calendar years 2004 and 2005. The dissertation may be on any subject of private or public international law, so long as it involves a procedural dimension in the practical development, observance, or enforcement of international law, rights, and duties. The dissertation must be in English and must be submitted electronically by February 28, 2006, to lillich-prize@pail-institute.org, in an acceptable format (such as Adobe Acrobat). The Prize submissions will be reviewed by a distinguished jury, including PAIL's Senior Fellows and Advisory Board Members. The winning submission will be published in the prestigious PAIL Series of monographs, in addition to receiving the cash prize. For further details, see www.pail-institute.org.

CONTENTS

- The Customary International Law Game George Norman and Joel P. Trachtman 541
Taking a game-theoretic approach to customary international law, this article uses the model of a multilateral prisoner's dilemma to show that contrary to the arguments of some critics, it is plausible that states would comply with customary international law under certain conditions. This model identifies the relevant parameters, which include the value of cooperation and whether that value rises or falls with the number of states involved, the patience of states, the frequency of interaction, and the types of other relationships between the relevant states. Some of these parameters are amenable to empirical observation and to manipulation through institutional change.
- Form and Substance in International Agreements Kal Raustiala 581
Drawing on theories from international relations and international law, this article explores the interactions of three design features of international agreements: legality, depth of cooperation, and monitoring/enforcement systems. An understanding of the trade-offs between these features, and of the influence of domestic actors and institutions on treaty making, deepens our perception of agreement dynamics and can contribute to the design of more effective and robust international accords.

THE AMERICAN SOCIETY OF INTERNATIONAL LAW

The American Society of International Law was organized in 1906 “to foster the study of international law and to promote the establishment and maintenance of international relations on the basis of law and justice.” Society membership is open to all persons of any nationality and profession who are interested in its objectives. Dues are: regular, $165; special category, $110; new professional, $85; retired, $110; student, $30. Sustaining Memberships—contributing ($275) and patrons ($10,000)—are also available. Corporations may join ASIL as institutional sponsors ($2,000). The Society is incorporated by Act of Congress approved September 20, 1950 (64 Stat. 869).

PROGRAM OF WORK

In addition to publishing the American Journal of International Law, the ASIL offers a variety of information resources and participation opportunities for members as well as non-members. These programs, best viewed at www.asil.org, include: publications such as International Legal Materials and Studies in Transnational Legal Policy; electronic bulletins such as ASIL Insights, International Law In Brief, and il.Post; events such as the Annual Meeting and other gatherings in Washington, DC and around the world; Outreach programs for the justice sector, the media, and other audiences; an array of resources on the ASIL Web site, such as the Electronic Information System for International Law (EISIL) and the Guide to Electronic Resources for International Law (ERG); and opportunities to be part of an active network bridging expert and non-expert communities associated with the development of international law.

PHILANTHROPY AND THE SOCIETY

The ASIL accomplishes much of its work through charitable support. The Society is grateful to its many members who contribute to the annual fund and the endowment, the foundations whose grants fund special programs, and the law firms, publishers, universities, and others that sponsor ASIL activity. The Society is particularly honored to receive contributions through the Patrons program and to be included in our members' estate plans through the ASIL Heritage Circle. We recognize these contributors below.

PATRONS

Patrons of the Society contribute $10,000 or more to the ASIL Endowment for International Law. Patrons may also be recognized posthumously upon such a donation being made in their name.
