TO THOSE WISHING TO SUBMIT MANUSCRIPTS

Three copies of any article or note should be submitted, and at least one copy must be in a form suitable for sending to the printer. Footnotes should be double-spaced and placed at the end of the manuscript. Library of Congress transliteration should be used. In general, articles should not exceed twenty-five pages, except where especially justified, e.g., by extensive documentation, tables, or charts. Manuscripts will not be returned unless specifically requested and postage is provided. The policy of the Slavic Review is not to consider materials that have been published or that are being considered for publication elsewhere.

Publication of articles in the Slavic Review is ordinarily limited to those submitted by members of AAASS. Nonmembers wishing to submit manuscripts are asked to request a membership application.

Authors who wish to have their manuscripts considered anonymously should request so explicitly and prepare manuscript copies accordingly.

Russia's Crimean War

JOHN SHELTON CURTISS

"Curtiss's Russia's Crimean War is a major contribution to the field of Russian studies. I believe, in fact, that it is the best study of the Russian side of the Crimean conflict ever written in any language. Curtiss traces in detail the flow of negotiations, the personal attitudes and traits of diplomats and politicians as seen through their private letters and official correspondence. On the Russian side, he draws rich portraits of the major figures. His profile of the Austrian Foreign Minister Buol is exceptional. Russia's Crimean War is not only superb diplomatic history, it is also excellent military history. This is an outstanding piece of scholarship which fills important lacunae in our knowledge of the Crimean conflict. Professor Curtiss has performed an admirable service not only for American and Western historians but for scholars in the Soviet Union." Wayne S. Vucinich, Professor of History, Stanford University
