OXFORD JOURNALS

The International and Comparative Law Quarterly

General Editor: Hazel Fox
Assistant General Editor: Sarah Knight
Board of Editors: P. B. Carter
Lawrence Collins
Norman S. Marsh
John Usher

The I. C. L. Q. provides English-speaking lawyers with unique coverage of public and private international law, EC and comparative law. Published in January, April, July and October, each issue contains up to ten major articles, shorter articles, comments and notes, a section on recent developments and book reviews.

Contributors represent a wide variety of countries and jurisdictions: the July 1990 issue includes articles on the International Salvage Convention 1989; legal pluralism in the Sudan; the ICJ's decision in ELSI; parent responsibility for subsidiary corporations; and Canadian labour codes.

The I. C. L. Q. has a worldwide circulation among academic and practising lawyers, university law students and libraries, business firms, international organisations, ministries of external affairs and law reform agencies.

Subscription: £45/$85 (air mail postage extra)
Size: 234mm x 156mm
Pages: approx. 1000 per year
ISSN: 0020-5893

Bulletin of Legal Developments

Edited and compiled by the research officers of the Institute with contributions from national correspondents

The B. L. D. provides a fortnightly survey of international, EC and domestic legal developments. Covering at a glance all of Europe, the United Kingdom, the Commonwealth, the Americas, Africa and the Middle East, Asia and Pacific regions in the same order every fortnight, it is designed to keep the busy practitioner completely up to date.

Each issue contains 12 pages of news obtained from journals, official gazettes, law reports, the press, government press releases and other reliable sources. The June issues contain items on: USSR enterprise laws; ECJ ruling on interim relief and national law; UK Mareva injunctions; Privy Council decision on "convicted person" for extradition.

The exact source is always given so that subscribers can follow up any items of particular interest. The semi-annual cumulative index provides a ready reference to particular entries by topic and jurisdiction.

Subscription: £75/$150 (air mail postage extra)
Size: 297mm x 210mm
