

Revolutionize the way your students read Shakespeare

“For the first time, a publisher has produced a Shakespeare anthology fully suited to the modern undergraduate classroom. . . . This will radically transform the way I currently teach Shakespeare, and I am sure it will make my undergraduates better readers and interpreters of Shakespeare’s works.”

—John Watkins, The University of Minnesota

The Bedford Shakespeare

Russ McDonald, Goldsmiths College, University of London and Lena Cowen Orlin, Georgetown University

Finally, the collected works you’ve been waiting for: visual, historical, contextualized. Based on the New Cambridge Shakespeare edition of the text, The Bedford Shakespeare gathers the 25 most frequently taught plays and augments them with the rich historical and contextual materials you expect from Bedford/St. Martin’s. Thoughtful, provocative analysis by eminent scholars Russ McDonald and Lena Cowen Orlin offers students concrete entry points into the plays and creates opportunities for lively classroom discussion. A lavish collection of images throughout the book features production shots, paintings, film stills, Renaissance woodcuts, maps, and more to help students visualize what they are reading.

A Cultural History of Our Age

Robert Pogue Harrison

Robert Pogue Harrison is back with his trademark mix of deep learning, broad temporal and cultural reach, and surprising insights into vast topics.

"I'm not sure that I'd sell my shirt for any living critic. But if there had to be one, it would unquestionably be Harrison."

—Jonathan Bate, Spectator

Loving Literature

A Cultural History

Deidre Shauna Lynch

"A major work by a major scholar. This is truly an eagerly awaited book. Needless to say, Lynch writes not as some kind of skeptical outsider, but as a 'lover of literature' who seeks to understand why we professionally take all this so personally. The book will be much read and talked about across all fields of literary scholarship and beyond."—Adela Pinch, University of Michigan

Mayakovsky

A Biography

Bengt Jangfeldt

Translated by Harry D. Watson

"Mayakovsky, first published in Sweden, gives a beautifully detailed portrait of the period as well as the individual life. Jangfeldt's absorbing story is full of surprises: it lays to rest many common assumptions about everyday life under Soviet rule even as it underscores others. This biography is essential reading not only for students of modernist poetry but for anyone interested in the relationship of literature to life in the former Soviet Union."

Classicism of the Twenties

Art, Music, and Literature

Theodore Ziolkowski

"'Classicism' in the earlier twentieth century has been extensively discussed in reference to individual writers, artists, and musicians, but Ziolkowski, dealing with individual cases from an overarching interdisciplinary and international perspective, has brilliantly expanded its multicultural horizons."—Burton Pike, City University of New York

The Man Who Thought He Was Napoleon

Toward a Political History of Madness

Laure Murat

Translated by Deke Dusinberre
With a Foreword by David A. Bell

"Murat is a subtle writer and stylist, able to assimilate a wealth of archival evidence into a forceful narrative. She gives new poignancy to the problem of distinguishing between what patients say and how their doctors represent their voices, and she makes her own process in the archives part of the story she is telling."—Alice Kaplan, author of Dreaming in French

The Prose of Things

Transformations of Description in the Eighteenth Century

Cynthia Sundberg Wall

"Wall offers a valuable contribution to the history of the eighteenth-century novel. By reading novelistic prose in relation to other forms of contemporary prose, The Prose of Things weaves an intricate tapestry of texts that defined, celebrated, and required spatial description."
