LANGUAGE VARIATION and CHANGE

CAMBRIDGE
Journals

Editors:

David Sankoff, Université de Montréal
William Labov, University of Pennsylvania
Anthony Kroch, University of Pennsylvania

Language Variation and Change is the only journal dedicated exclusively to the study of linguistic variation and the capacity to deal with systematic and inherent variation in synchronic and diachronic linguistics. Although sociolinguistics involves the analysis of the interaction of language, culture and society, the more specific study of variation is concerned with the impact of this interaction on the structures and processes that have traditionally constituted the discipline of linguistics. Thus, Language Variation and Change concentrates on the details of linguistic structure in actual speech production and processing (or writing), including contemporary or historical sources. This is of vital interest to sociologists, phonologists, linguists, sociolinguists, psychologists, anthropologists and dialectologists.

Language Variation and Change is published three times a year. Subscription to Volume 4 (1992): $54.00 for institutions, $27.00 for individuals.
