

European Financial Law Review

Formerly: European Financial Services Law

Editor-in-Chief: Barry A.K. Rider

Executive Editor: Jason D. Haines

European Financial Law Review provides an authoritative forum for the analysis and discussion of the law, regulation and practice relating to all aspects of the financial world in Europe and addresses their impact on the world financial community from a distinctly European perspective. The coverage of the journal encompasses the law relating to the raising and trading of securities, whether equity, debt or municipal, the regulation of intermediaries, the governance and operation of financial markets and the financial services industry and all legal aspects of the protection and handling of financial wealth. Finally, the journal is concerned not only with the facilitation of enterprise and the flow of funds, but also the tendency to place financial regulations at the fore in the fight against serious economic crime.

The subjects covered include:

- Securities Regulation;
- Banking and Financial Services Law;
- Compliance;
- Avoidance and Management of Conflicts of Interest;
- Securitisation of Debt;
- Prevention and Control of Money Laundering;
- Financial Crime;
- International Services Law

European Financial Law Review provides a unique 'one stop' source for all those concerned with the management and stewardship of other people's wealth and is primarily aimed at lawyers, accountants, financial intermediaries and regulators. The journal is edited at the Institute of Advanced Legal Studies and supported by a distinguished international board of editors.

European Financial Law Review supersedes European Financial Services Law, which over the last six years has contributed a great deal to the analysis of securities regulation within a European context.

European Business Law Review

General Editor: Mads Andenas

Consultant Editor: Laurence W. Gormley,

Dept. of European & Economic Law, Rijksuniversiteit Groningen

Developments like the completion of the Single Market, the adoption of the Treaty on European Union, the opening up of the European Economic Area, and the emergence of the Central and Eastern European markets make it vital for all legal practitioners and academics concerned with commercial and transnational law to have access to up-to-date information on the laws governing business throughout the whole of Europe. European Business Law Review offers current, authoritative information on a wide range of issues and developments in European business law. Written by a distinguished international team of legal practitioners and academics, European Business Law Review proves an invaluable source of current information, practical analysis, and expert guidance for all lawyers, advisers, and researchers dealing with European business law on a regular basis.

Every month European Business Law Review includes

- analytical articles offering incisive investigations and practical analysis of topics of current importance;
- country reports highlighting key issues from different European countries;
- Eurobrief, containing concise summaries of the latest European Community Directives, as reported in the Official Journal, and details of relevant communications from key European institutions;
- case notes on important recent cases from the European Court of Justice, the Court of First Instance and various national courts; and
- reviews of the latest literature on areas of European business law.

European Business Law Review provides a regular service of opinions and new information, offering practical analysis and guidance on a broad spectrum of topics relating to commercial law in Europe. It covers legal developments in the European Community, the EFTA countries, and the new democracies of Central and Eastern Europe, and also offers an insight into the legal aspects of European trade with non-European countries.
