ASIA PAST & PRESENT

New Research from AAS

“To Die and Not Decay: Autobiography and the Pursuit of Immortality in Early China” is the only book-length study to date on early Chinese autobiographical writing and the cultural issues surrounding this particular genre. This book will appeal to scholars of Chinese history, literature, religion, and culture. It will have an important effect on our views of medieval China and the texts that it produced.

“Prescribing Colonization” provides a carefully-researched analysis of the establishment of medical practices in Taiwan during Japanese colonial rule. Through this vivid analysis of the institutions, people, and ideals of Japanese state medicine in the ‘model colony’ of Taiwan, Michael Liu reveals the commonalities and contrasts between Asian and European imperialisms. A welcome addition to the growing body of transnational scholarship on the histories of medicine, science, and technology in the colonial world.

“Tools of Culture” addresses aspects of Japanese human and material interactions in East Asia from the late eleventh through the late sixteenth centuries, a period coincident with Japan’s late classical and medieval eras.

Each chapter provides a different perspective on the interactions—travel, trade, texts, religion, poetry, medicine, and art—rippling through Japanese society and across the waters that joined Japan and the continent.

NEW FROM AAS

COLLECTING ASIA: East Asian Libraries in North America, 1868–2008

“This extraordinarily important collection of essays provides us with a unique look at the events and people that shaped the major collections of East Asian materials in North America. Through each of these carefully documented histories we are introduced to pioneering figures—from collector-explorers to scholar-librarians—and the emergence of area-studies librarianship as a distinct profession.”

Martha Ann Selby
University of Texas at Austin
Series Editor, Asia Past and Present

Peter X. Zhou, Editor

Written by leading East Asia specialists, librarians, and scholars, Collecting Asia offers a vibrant and fascinating look at the development of twenty-five major East Asian libraries in North America over the past one hundred and forty years.

More than eighty of North America’s most prestigious institutions have established East Asian libraries or collections. Their combined holdings number in excess of 16 million books in Chinese, Japanese, and Korean, with more than 350,000 items being added every year. The wealth of this material provides an invaluable resource for the study of Asia. This volume provides remarkable insight into our cultural legacies.

Richly illustrated and engagingly written, Collecting Asia is vital book for scholars, librarians, students, and anyone with an interest in Asia.

CHINA'S LAST EMPIRE

The Great Qing

WILLIAM T. ROWE

GENERAL EDITOR TIMOTHY BROOK

In a brisk revisionist history, William Rowe challenges the standard narrative of Qing China as a decadent, inward-looking state that failed to keep pace with the modern West.

The Great Qing was the second major Chinese empire ruled by foreigners. Three strong Manchu emperors worked diligently to secure an alliance with the conquered Ming gentry, though many of their social edicts—especially the requirement that ethnic Han men wear queues—were fiercely resisted. As advocates of a “universal” empire, Qing rulers also achieved an enormous expansion of the Chinese realm over the course of three centuries, including the conquest and incorporation of Turkic and Tibetan peoples in the west, vast migration into the southwest, and the colonization of Taiwan.

Early Korea, a publication of the Early Korea Project at the Korea Institute, Harvard University, is a series designed to promote and develop studies of early Korean history and archaeology in the English language. While these fields are active and dynamic in East Asia, they are only beginning to develop in English-language scholarship. Early Korea provides a forum for scholarly articles focused on studies of Korean history, archaeology and art history prior to the tenth century. Each volume features a section dedicated to several articles focused on a selected theme, along with articles on timely issues in the fields of early Korean history and archaeology as well as studies on the academic fields themselves.

The second volume, "The Samhan Period in Korean History," features three articles examining historical developments and trade relations in the southern part of the Korean peninsula prior to the fourth century A.D., as well as a survey of historical sources available for the study of this period. Other articles present an annotated translation of primary source materials related to the study of the Samhan period and an overview of one of the important archaeological sites associated with Samhan society. The sixth article offers a look at the development of the field of art history in Korea through biographical treatments of two of its pioneers.

Windows into the Past

Life Histories and the Historian of South Asia

Judith M. Brown

ISBN 978-0-268-02217-4 • $20.00 pa • 136 pages

"Utilizing Balliol College records, personal photographs, life histories, and more traditional sources such as autobiographies and private papers, Judith Brown incisively explores multiple themes in the history of colonial and independent India. . . . Her fascinating narrative of family histories will stimulate both professional historians and popular audiences to reconsider how such histories can illuminate broader topics such as imperial dominance, nation-building, and globalization."

The Susquehanna University Press Series in Asian Studies

This interdisciplinary series will publish books that examine Asia from a wide range of perspectives. We encourage submissions that deal with individual countries or with a larger cross-section of Asia. Translations of previously unpublished ancient Asian texts are also welcome. In order to enable a truly multifaceted understanding of Asian studies, we solicit manuscripts from fields including, but not limited to, literature, philosophy, religion, economics, political science, cultural studies, gender studies, and women's studies.

Caste in India

Diane P. Mines

Key Issues in Asian Studies

CASTE IN INDIA

Diane Mines

"Diane Mines has produced a clear and compelling introduction to one of the world's most complex and misunderstood social systems.

This booklet offers an exhaustive overview of the anthropology and history of caste based on extensive reading and over two decades of ethnographic research in rural South India. It also speaks to the wider political and economic dimensions of caste as it is lived and debated in India today. Caste in India will be a most welcome addition to introductory courses in anthropology, history, sociology, geography, and political science."

CAMBRIDGE LIBRARY COLLECTION
Books of enduring scholarly value

In the spirit of Cambridge University Press's continued commitment to innovation and enterprise, the Cambridge Library Collection launched in July 2009, making an initial group of 475 out-of-print books available again. Another 1,000 will follow by the end of 2009 and 3,000 titles a year will be added as the program continues.

Drawing from the world-renowned collections in the Cambridge University Library, these books are carefully selected by experts in each subject area because of their scholarly importance or as landmarks in the history of their academic discipline.

Cambridge University Press is using state-of-the-art scanning machines to capture the contents of each book. The files are processed to give a consistently clear, crisp image, and the books finished to the high-quality standard for which the press is recognized around the world. The latest print-on-demand technology ensures that the books will remain available indefinitely.

The Cambridge Library Collection will revive books of enduring scholarly value across a wide range of disciplines in the humanities, social sciences, science and technology.

EAST ASIAN HISTORY: A Tripolar Approach

The revised edition of
Korea and Japan in East Asian History: a Tripolar Approach (Kudara: 2006)
that was reviewed as:

“... as a sweeping historical work, it is difficult to find another publication that integrates so much material from across such swaths of time and space. Much of this is new to general English readers, precisely because the two northern regions and their effect on Chinese dynastic formation were long neglected in China scholarship—Hong’s main point. For this synthesis, we therefore have Hong to thank for bringing all these disparate data to our attention.”

ANCIENT KOREA-JAPAN RELATIONS: Paekche and the Origin of the Yamato Dynasty

The revised edition of
Relationship between Korea and Japan in Early Period: Paekche and Yamato Wa (Ilsimsa: 1988) and Paekche of Korea and the Origin of Yamato Japan (Kudara: 1994) that were reviewed as:

“Wontack Hong goes a step beyond the horserider theory in this scholarly and provocative work, which sheds new light on early Korea and Japan through ... From the perspective of Korean archaeology the arguments ring true.”

Sarah M. Nelson, University of Denver
The Journal of Asian Studies, Vol. 48:4, 1989

“... it does contribute a fresh and intellectually rewarding perspective on one of the most significant and problematic issues in northeast Asian history.”

Jonathan W. Best, Wesleyan University
Journal of Japanese Studies, Vol. 16:2, 1990

“... the book has gathered in one place a great many of the main arguments on either side ... Further, Hong can muster creditable, almost convincing arguments for his central hypothesis.”

Leon Serafim, University of Hawaii at Manoa
Korean Studies, Vol. 19, 1995

“Hong does make explicit the political ramifications of the present interpretation of Japanese and Korean ancient history, which is an important contribution in itself.”

Sarah M. Nelson, University of Denver

Please send all books for review to the Association office in Ann Arbor; see Contact Information: Books for Review below.

REQUIREMENTS FOR MANUSCRIPT SUBMISSION

When preparing a manuscript, please note that JAS is committed to publishing articles based on in-depth, original research. Authors should also take care to address the interests of our broad, multidisciplinary readership by raising larger questions of interest that reach beyond their precise research specialties. Authors are encouraged to consult recent issues of JAS for guidance on style and formatting.

- Please submit inquiries, manuscripts and images electronically to the Editor at jas@journalofasianstudies.org. Electronic text should use MS Word-compatible software; include a PDF file if using non-standard characters. Low-resolution images and illustrations are acceptable for the review process; all images, tables and figures should include titles or captions. Please note that in the event of publication, the author is responsible for acquiring high-resolution images along with permission to publish them. If electronic submission is not possible, please contact the editorial office at the email address, phone number or fax number listed above.
- Article manuscripts, including notes and references, should range between 8,000 and 10,000 words, or approximately thirty-five pages in length, and must include a 150 word abstract at the beginning of the document.
- Authors' names must be left off of the manuscript, as JAS engages in double-blind reviews.
- Manuscripts must be double-spaced with 12-point type and 1 inch margins including extracts, notes, and references, and formatted for letter-size (8.5 × 11 in.) paper if possible.
- Notes should be as few as possible and appear at the end of the text.
- Use parenthetical in-text citation, and author-date formatting for references per Chicago Manual of Style, 15th edition (Chicago: University of Chicago Press, 2003), pp. 616–24.
- Please use the following Romanization: Chinese: Pinyin; Japanese: Hepburn; Korean: McCune-Reischauer.
- Paper manuscript submissions are acceptable if electronic submission is not possible. Please include four copies of your document in the submission packet.
- Manuscripts submitted to JAS should not have been published elsewhere and should not be under review for publication elsewhere.

Articles in JAS represent neither the views of the Association for Asian Studies nor those of the JAS editors. The Editor is responsible for the final selection of content of JAS and reserves the right to reject any material deemed inappropriate for publication. Responsibility for opinions expressed and the accuracy of facts published in articles and reviews rests solely with the individual authors.
