CATHOLIC BIBLICAL ENCYCLOPEDIA

Old and New Testaments

by

Msgr. J. E. STEINMUELLER and Mother K. SULLIVAN

The Catholic Biblical Encyclopedia is not a dictionary, not a commentary, not a translation. It is far more than any of these: it is an encyclopedia in the strictest sense, and represents many years of diligent research by two respected American scholars. Their objective is to offer a guide to Biblical theology, philosophy, history, archaeology, language, geography, government—and to make this work so all-inclusive as to obviate the necessity of wading through volumes of collateral writings for the answers to countless important questions.

'This work is deserving of high praise, and I earnestly hope that it may reach a wide circle of readers. Certainly no theological library should be without it.'

The Living Water

PIERRE-THOMAS DEHAU, O.P.

This book, written for those who follow the contemplative life, first discusses some preliminary questions and then treats of the tremendous objects of contemplation. Fr Dehau emphasizes that the contemplative life is really a very 'active' life and that to reach the heights of such a sublime vocation and to maintain himself there, the aspirant must work energetically to remove the obstacles caused by his defects, and acquire the virtues which form the indispensable basis of the contemplative's holy life. 10s. 6d.

Treatise on the Spiritual Life

ST VINCENT FERRER

The essential characteristic of this Treatise is that it takes hold of the spiritual life from its most practical aspect and makes a vivid presentation of the virtues. It is full of that strong virile piety which unfortunately is becoming only too rare today. We are glad therefore to present this new translation of a great work by a great Saint, to which is added the commentary of Mother Julienne Morelle, O.P. 12s. 6d.

The Gospel of Joy

J. M. PERRIN, O.P.

As its title suggests, this book emphasizes the joyful character of the Christian faith and shows how, by responding to God as the giver of joy, man can find that 'joy unspeakable' which Christ came to bring. The book is in three parts. The first is a study of the nature of Christian joy, the second consists of meditations upon each of the Beatitudes and the third considers joy, in terms of its demands, as a necessity for life in God. The whole is pervaded by the deep faith and true joy of its blind author.

CHINA AND THE CROSS
COLUMBA CARY-ELWES, O.S.B.

A country that holds a quarter of the world's population will inevitably exercise an irresistible pull on the preachers of universal religion. The author's account of the progress of Christianity in China conveys an appreciation of Chinese outlook—general and cultural—which could hardly be excelled for breadth and perceptiveness in a single volume. This rich and colourful story of the Christian Missions records the endeavours of those who, whether Catholic or Protestant, have made the Cross an indestructible part of the life and culture of the people of China.

BEFORE MASS
ROMANO GUARDINI

This book is intended to help the readers to prepare for participation in Mass. Here are gathered together the enlightening reflections of one of the great Catholic minds of our century, resulting from his mature consideration of this subject. Monsignor Guardini deals with a number of questions that are so commonplace that they are very often overlooked; for example, the attitude of mind necessary and during Mass and the kind of personal demeanour throughout its celebration which alone make possible a full participation on the part of the communicant.

SAINT BERNADETTE
LEONARD VON MATT and FRANCIS TROCHU

Like Leonard von Matt's internationally famous studies of St Francis, St Pius X, and St Ignatius of Loyola, this illustrated biography of St Bernadette is a harmony of photographs and text. There are illustrations, the product of a tireless search through archives and museums, which bring to light a wealth of detail and atmosphere to recreate the life and times of Bernadette Soubirous so that the reader becomes her contemporary and companion in the Lourdes of more than a century ago; the scene shifts to her second life, behind the convent walls in Nevers; and then revealed in vivid pictures, there is the Lourdes of today, city of our Lady and a centre of Christian pilgrimage to set beside Bethlehem and Rome. The text of this pictorial biography is by Mgr Francis Trochu, the authorised biographer of the saint.
