JOHN F. KENNEDY
and the
BUSINESS COMMUNITY
Jim F. Heath

Essentially an economic history of the New Frontier years, John F. Kennedy and the Business Community is a pioneering effort, a first attempt to recreate the framework within which Kennedy's policies were developed. In the interest of objectivity, information is derived from contemporary accounts and records. Professor Heath outlines the methods and ramifications of the legislative measures and administrative actions with which Kennedy sought to stimulate economic growth, and goes on to analyze the reaction of the business community to the administration's "new economics" — the positive management of demand by government through fiscal and monetary policy.

THE FISCAL REVOLUTION IN AMERICA
Herbert Stein

Between 1931 and 1962 there was a revolution in American economic policy. The principle of balancing the budget gave way to the doctrine of managing government expenditures and taxes to achieve prosperity. Noted economist Herbert Stein tells the story of this revolution in terms of the leading participants in it and offers his conclusion that no single party or school of thought was alone responsible. Studies in Business and Society series.

FLEXIBLE EXCHANGE RATES
Revised Edition
Egon Sohmen

Originally published in 1961, this updated edition incorporates the latest data in the field to argue the case for a flexible system of exchange rates. The author examines the behavior and effects of international capital movements, trade restrictions, fiscal and monetary policies, and employment aspects, drawing conclusions for policy revisions. Tools of economic theory are covered in great detail, making this edition especially useful for economists and students.

THE LIVES OF WILLIAM BENTON

Sidney Hyman

William Benton's biography is a portrait of a creative public man, and the reflection of an era. An advertising genius, an innovator in education, a publishing giant, and a deeply committed statesman in national government, in his life Benton has put his distinctive mark upon nearly every sphere of twentieth-century America. As a political figure — senator, assistant secretary of state, ambassador to UNESCO — Benton was close to the center of the most significant events of his time. Most dramatic was his courageous fight against Senator Joseph McCarthy. Sidney Hyman has had the rare luxury of full access to Benton's personal and business correspondence. What emerges from his biography is a lively portrait of a unique man of our time.

WORKERS AND WAGES IN AN URBAN LABOR MARKET

Albert Rees and George P. Schultz

In this book two of the most distinguished labor economists in the country analyze the factors that determine wage differentials within occupations. Their findings are based on a five-year study of the information obtained primarily from personnel records of five thousand workers in seventy-five establishments. This is one of the first labor market studies to cover a major metropolitan area and to deal with professional workers, clerical workers, and blue-collar workers using the same methodology. The authors demonstrate that wage differentials are related to a number of personal characteristics including seniority, schooling, previous experience, sex, and race. George P. Schultz is currently Secretary of Labor.

PIONEERS FOR PROFIT

Foreign Entrepreneurship and Russian Industrialization, 1885-1913

John P. McKay

Foreign investment increased from 17 percent of the capital of industrial corporations in Imperial Russia in 1880 to 47 percent in 1914, coinciding with the rapid development of Russian industrialization before World War I. John McKay's study is the first detailed analysis of the impact of foreign enterprise on Russian industry during this period. Foreign investors, he notes, saw their more advanced industrial techniques as the key to large profits and built plants which far surpassed usual Russian practice. While only a few of these pioneers actually made their large profits, they made a positive contribution to Russia's industrial development. McKay's conclusions will be significant for historians, economists, and those interested in the development of modern industrial society.

Newcomen Awards in Business History

Presented by

THE NEWCOMEN SOCIETY IN
NORTH AMERICA

in cooperation with

THE BUSINESS HISTORY REVIEW

¶ Two Newcomen Awards in Business History are offered annually for articles published in the Business History Review. The First Prize, of $250, is awarded the article judged, according to the rules outlined below, to be the best of the year. The Special Award, of $100, is for the best article by an author who is not more than 35 years of age and who has not published a book.

¶ Prize articles are selected by a panel of judges composed of a representative of The Newcomen Society and members of the Advisory Board of the Business History Review. No member of the Advisory Board or editorial staff shall be eligible for a prize, and articles so authorized will not be considered in the judging. Authors eligible for the Special Award shall also be eligible for the First Prize, but in no event shall both prizes be awarded for the same article. The Advisory Board reserves the right to withhold the Special Award in the event that eligible articles do not, in the Board's judgment, merit prize consideration. The awards program is administered by the editorial offices of the magazine.

¶ Criteria for selection include: originality, value, breadth, and interest of contribution, quality of research materials and methods, and quality of presentation.

The Thomas Newcomen $1,000 Award in Business History

Presented by

THE NEWCOMEN SOCIETY IN

in cooperation with

THE BUSINESS HISTORY REVIEW

¶ The Newcomen Society in North America, in cooperation with the Business History Review, announces a prize of $1,000 and scroll to be awarded in 1970 for the best book on the history of business published in the United States during the years 1967-1969.

¶ For the purposes of this award, "the history of business" will be interpreted in its broadest sense, including not only the history of firms or industries, but books tracing interactions of businessmen, analyses of business philosophy or behavior, and studies of the adjustment of businesses and businessmen to their economic, political, and social environments.

¶ Criteria for selection will include contribution to knowledge, depth of analysis, soundness of reasoning, clarity of style and organization, and general readability and format.

¶ The committee to select the recipient of the 1970 Thomas Newcomen $1,000 Award in Business History is composed of: Professor James P. Baughman, Editor, Business History Review, Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration; Mr. Stanley van den Heuvel, Trustee, The Newcomen Society in North America; and Professor Arthur M. Johnson, Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration, chairman.

¶ The 1970 Thomas Newcomen $1,000 Award in Business History will be the third in a series of triennial prizes intended to encourage the study and improve the writing of business history in the United States and Canada.

THE MYTH OF A PROGRESSIVE REFORM

Railroad Regulation in Wisconsin

1903 – 1910

Stanley P. Caine cuts through the rhetoric of the proponents and opponents of railroad regulation in Wisconsin to shatter the myth surrounding a key progressive reform. This winner of the David Clark Everest Prize in Wisconsin Economic History goes a step beyond the usual explanation of the origins and adoption of a reform measure to examine how the law was administered during the formative years of the Railroad Commission of Wisconsin. Included are penetrating insights into the work of Robert M. La Follette and B. H. Meyer, both of whom were about to move onto the national scene, one as a U.S. Senator and the other as an Interstate Commerce Commissioner. Pp. xii, 250. Illus. June, 1970. About $8.50
