Three Important New Texts

FRENCH FOR READING KNOWLEDGE

• A Direct Approach

Joseph Palmeri and E. E. Milligan
University of Wisconsin

At last a text is available which provides the means of acquiring a reading knowledge of French within a very short time. French for Reading Knowledge presents in a minimum number of pages the necessary principles of grammar, fully illustrated by original material and related readings drawn from both the sciences and the humanities. The treatment reduces to a bare minimum the memory work required of the student.

DEUTSCHER SPRACHGEBRAUCH

• Praktische Stilübungen

Werner Neuse, Middlebury College

Written by one of the leading teachers of German in the country, this book fills the very great need for a text on German stylistics. It is the only book of its type available. Most of the lessons contain a reading selection which serves as the basis for the stylistic exercises of the lesson. The stylistic propositions are illustrated with quotations from the works of modern German writers.

SPANISH REVIEW GRAMMAR

• Enlarged Edition

Everett W. Hesse, University of Wisconsin

Fifteen Temas de Conversación—one for each chapter—have been added to this outstandingly successful grammar. They are placed in a separate appendix where they may be conveniently turned to by those who wish to make use of them and omitted by those who wish to concentrate on grammar alone. Each conversational unit is closely integrated with its corresponding grammar chapter.

MARIA CROSS

IMAGINATIVE PATTERNS IN A GROUP OF MODERN CATHOLIC WRITERS

By DONAT O'DONNELL. A series of critical essays on the works of eight Catholic writers, among whom are François Mauriac, Graham Greene, Evelyn Waugh, and Georges Bernanos. Mr. O'Donnell analyzes the patterns of imagery and symbolism employed by these writers, and shows how their creative imaginations have been influenced by their adherence to the same faith.

$5.00

THE NOTE-BOOKS OF MATTHEW ARNOLD

Edited by HOWARD LOWRY, KARL YOUNG and WALDO HILARY DUNN. Here, printed for the first time in full, are the literary contents of Matthew Arnold's note-books. Extending in time over thirty-seven years, these diaries contain numerous passages from Arnold's wide reading, devotional passages which caught his interest, and a list of books and articles he planned to read.

—an interesting new graded readers series by MENO SPANN and W. F. LEOPOLD, Northwestern University

PROGRESSIVE GERMAN READERS

Based on the same principle of vocabulary-building perfected in the earlier Hagboldt series: gradual introduction of new vocabulary; repetition in different context; grading of syntax and sentence structure; mature content with interest to students of German.

Der Gorilla Goliath. Book One

The first unit uses a total vocabulary of 514 words, including 220 cognate words and 37 common idioms. Liberal use of recognizable international words extends the subject matter into really mature thought content. Informative and humorous discussion of German life is incidental to the telling of the story. The informal style of the text will facilitate German conversation practice in the classroom. Additional plateau type readings give students further experience with already familiar vocabulary. Ready this month.

Boswell in Holland

1763-1764

Edited by FREDERICK A. POTTLE
Sterling Professor of English, Yale University
433 pages, $6.00

THOUGH James Boswell died in 1795, he proved to be the literary sensation of 1950. His London Journal was acclaimed as a literary masterpiece and became an immediate best seller throughout the world. Boswell in Holland begins where London Journal ended, and is the second volume in "The Yale Edition of the Private Papers of James Boswell."

Here in Boswell's own words is a frank account of his year in Holland, his gay assaults on Dutch society, and his sparkling comments on the world he encountered.

BOSWELL'S LONDON JOURNAL. 1762-1763

Edited by FREDERICK A. POTTLE. 370 pages, $5.00

"All the vigor, the crudity, the selfishness, the romance are here, caught forever by the genius of the young Scot who ran up and down the town 'just like a wild colt.' Modern readers may well be forgiven if they can not lay down his vivid account until the last page, for this is a journal destined to be one of the classics of its kind."
—James L. Clifford, N.Y. Times Book Review

AFTER THE LOST GENERATION

By JOHN W. ALDRIDGE, University of Vermont. 263 pages, $3.75

A fascinating, critical analysis of those writers who came of age during the war and into prominence during the decades of the 40's—Norman Mailer, Irwin Shaw, Gore Vidal, etc. The author uses three writers of the 1920's—Hemingway, Fitzgerald, and Dos Passos—to introduce the writers of World War II and draws interesting parallels between the work of the two generations.

The Sense of Shakespeare's Sonnets

By EDWARD HUBLER

A delightfully written book on Shakespeare's sonnets, which seeks to dispel the notion that they were the beautiful but empty elaboration of conventional matter. Instead, the author reveals that Shakespeare's mind found constant expression in them and that his developing thought fits into the larger context of his thought in the plays. Edward Hubler is professor of English at Princeton.

London Ladies

TRUE TALES OF THE EIGHTEENTH CENTURY

LUCY POATE STEBBINS. Six biographical sketches, written with verve and perception, of rather unconventional women. They include Martha Ray, a cabinet minister's mistress, murdered by a misguided clergyman; Elizabeth Inchbald, a literate who couldn't satisfy her driving ambition; Amelia Opie, a novelist who became a Quaker; the two Siddons sisters, who blighted each other's lives; Dorothea Lieven, a Russian princess who became a power in international diplomacy; and Jane Welsh Carlyle, the wife of Thomas Carlyle. The author "has the skill to do a fresh portrayal . . . and the wisdom and sympathy to make them understandable to contemporary readers."
—San Francisco Chronicle $3.00

The Art of Sinking in Poetry

MARTIN SCRIBLERUS' ΗΕΠΙ
ΒΑΘΟΥΣ, A CRITICAL EDITION

EDNA LEAKE STEEVES. Here, reproduced in facsimile from the first edition, is Peri Bathous, a satire on literary dullness and ineptitude written by the fictitious virtuoso Martinus Scriblerus, whose "authentic works" were the outlet for the combined talents of Swift, Pope, Arbuthnot, Gay, and Parnell. There are many pungent references to contemporary authors and many bibliographical notes by R. H. Griffith, the noted Pope bibliographer. A King's Crown Press publication $3.75

Francis Carco

THE CAREER OF A
LITERARY BOHEMIAN

SEYMOUR S. WEINER. Winner of the Grand Prix of the French Academy, Francis Carco, French novelist and poet, is known as the interpreter of the underworld. This, the first full length biography of him in English, expertly combines critical appreciation with biography. ". . . an extremely knowledgeable and readable study of the man, his quarry, and his work."—The New York Times Book Review $4.00

A Critical Study of William Drummond of Hawthornden

FRENCH R. FOGLE. This examination of the seventeenth-century Scottish poet interweaves his life experiences with his creative activities. Several poems and fragments from the Hawthornden manuscripts are included. A King's Crown Press publication $3.25

English Discovery of America to 1585

FRANKLIN T. McCANN. America as seen by the interested, literate sixteenth-century Englishman. By "discovery" is meant the gradual growing awareness of the new continent, stimulated by voyages and reflected in the writing of the times. A King's Crown Press publication $3.50
