

Notes on Contributors

John Leslie

Professor Emeritus of Philosophy at the University of Guelph and Fellow of the Royal Society of Canada.

Marcus G. Singer

Professor of Philosophy Emeritus in the University of Wisconsin, edited American Philosophy, Royal Institute of Philosophy Lecture Series 19, and more recently Reason, Reality and Speculative Philosophy, by Arthur E. Murphy. He is author of 'Institutional Ethics' in Ethics, Royal Institute of Philosophy Supplement 35, 1993.

Nicholas Maxwell

Now Emeritus Reader at the University of London, Nicholas Maxwell taught Philosophy of Science at University College London for many years. Among his publications are From Knowledge to Wisdom (Blackwell, 1984) and The Comprehensibility of the Universe (Oxford University Press, 1998).

Alan Millar

Professor of Philosophy at the University of Stirling. He is author of Reasons and Experience and of articles on perception. He has also written on Joseph Butler and John Stuart Mill.

Irwin Goldstein

Professor of Philosophy, Davidson College. A previous contributor to Philosophy, he works in philosophy of mind, ethics and philosophy of language.

Geoffrey Cupit

Teaches political philosophy at the University of Waikato, New Zealand. He is the author of Justice as Fittingness (Oxford University Press, 1996).

JC Beall

Lectures in logic and philosophy of logic; has published in these areas in various places, including Mind, Australasian Journal of Philosophy, and (among others) the Stanford Encyclopedia of Philosophy.