

THE ARCHBISHOP OF WESTMINSTER and THE CATHOLIC PRESS

Let us meditate on the words of the Archbishop of Westminster, spoken during his address at his enthronement. They contain lessons for you and for ourselves:

“The place of the Catholic Press in England is of the utmost importance. The Catholic Press is a mighty power for spreading the truth and for defending the Faith. It exercises a real apostolate, second only to the preaching office of those who are divinely commissioned to teach in God’s Church.

“On all the faithful I take this opportunity of urging the duty to support our Catholic writers and journalists, and so to help towards the development of the apostolate of the Press. To support the Catholic Press and to make use of its far-reaching influence should be one of the strongest planks in the platform of Catholic Action.”

The new “Catholic Herald” is doing its best to win a place for a Catholic-minded paper amongst the secular newspapers of the country.

But YOU have as important a part to play as ourselves. You have it in your power to make Catholic newspapers count, or not count! Support us, talk about us, give us ideas, and together we can bring a new factor into British Life.
