LIKE A FAMILY

The Making of a Southern Cotton Mill World

by Jacquelyn Dowd Hall, James Leloudis, Robert Korstad, Mary Murphy, Lu Ann Jones, and Christopher B. Daly

"A wonderfully moving and instructive book. The authors have combined their talents to give us a persuasive analysis of structural transformations in the textile industry and an evocative portrait of the people and culture of the mill towns." —Suzanne Lebsock, Rutgers University

"A combination of painstaking research, critical thinking, and engaged scholarship that sets a high standard. I recommend it heartily." —Thomas Dublin, University of California, San Diego

Drawing on three unique sources—an extraordinary series of interviews conducted by the Southern Oral History Program, previously unexamined letters written by workers during the Great Depression, and the trade press—Like a Family captures one of the great dramas of the modern South, in all its historical contingency and human detail.

RADICAL HISTORY REVIEW

The Radical History Review continues to provide a forum for the best radical historical scholarship now being written. The journal offers critical work from diverse perspectives, addressing the concerns of both scholars and political activists.

RHR examines the uses and abuses of history through such topics as Women's Labors, The American Empire, Agendas for Radical History, Global History, and the History of Film.

Recent issues have included interviews with Carlo Ginzburg, C. Vann Woodward, and Michelle Perrot.

"The Radical History Review brings sophistication, moral passion and a dash of intellectual excitement to a decade marked by stupefying complacency. Few contemporary journals can claim as much."
— Jackson Lears, Reviews in American History.

Subscriptions (four issues): $20.00 ($16.00 for students, senior citizens, unemployed). Send check to Radical History Review, John Jay College, 445 W. 59th St., Room 4312, New York, NY 10019.

OLD LABOR AND NEW IMMIGRANTS IN AMERICAN POLITICAL DEVELOPMENT
Union, Party, and State
1875–1920

By GWENDOLYN MINK. In her insightful account of the unique role played by labor in politics prior to the New Deal, Mink focuses on the ways in which the organizational and political interests of the AFL were mediated by the national issues of immigration and links the AFL's response to immigration to its conservative stance in politics. $29.95

CHINESE WORKING-CLASS LIVES

Getting by in Taiwan

By HILL GATES. Taiwanese working-class culture in its current form, Gates claims, is a valuable resource in the country's effort to succeed in international economic competition.
