The Democracy Index

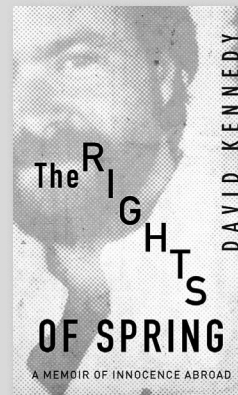

Why Our Election System Is Failing and How to Fix It

Heather K. Gerken

“The idea of The Democracy Index is brilliant and it seems obvious once it is stated. I suspect that I will not be alone in wishing that I had come up with the idea. This book will appeal to a wide audience.”

—Michael Hanmer, coauthor of Voting Technology: The Not-So-Simple Act of Casting a Ballot

Cloth $24.95 978-0-691-13694-3

The Rights of Spring

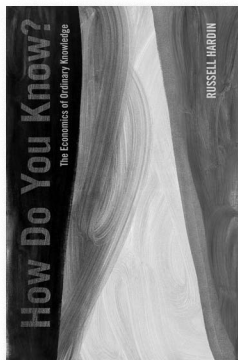

A Memoir of Innocence Abroad
David Kennedy

“This is an astonishing essay. In part literature, in part philosophy and social theory, it combines critical self-observation with razor-sharp analysis of Western humanitarian activism abroad. Human rights will never be the same. The essay has already achieved cult status among a small circle of activists; its publication for wider audiences is a cause for celebration.”

How Do You Know?

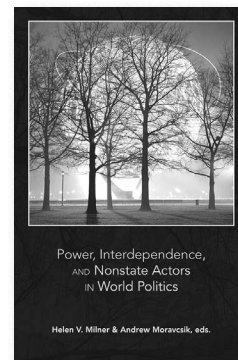

The Economics of Ordinary Knowledge

Russell Hardin

“This book develops a general, economic theory of ordinary knowledge and applies it to many different kinds of knowledge and belief, providing a clear and convincing view of many of the world’s problems, such as fanaticism and nationalism.”

—Jonathan Baron, University of Pennsylvania

Cloth $35.00 978-0-691-13755-1

Power, Interdependence, and Nonstate Actors in World Politics

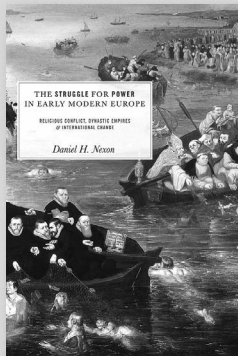

Edited by Helen V. Milner & Andrew Moravcsik

“This important and timely book pushes the theoretical envelope of neoliberal institutionalism and represents an important step forward in international relations theory. The scholarship is sound and effectively presented, and the ideas are framed and explored in ways that will give them lasting value.”

—Giulio Gallarotti, Wesleyan University

The Struggle for Power in Early Modern Europe

Religious Conflict, Dynastic Empires, and International Change

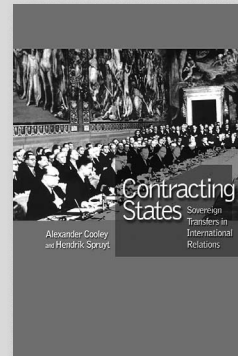

Daniel H. Nexon

“This book makes a significant contribution to international relations theory [and] comparative politics. Nexon develops an innovative and productive way of viewing changing patterns of international relations, and he helps us to transcend the often-artificial divide between domestic and international politics.”

—Mlada Bukovansky, Smith College

Contracting States

Sovereign Transfers in International Relations

Alexander Cooley & Hendrik Spruyt

“Contracting States is an extraordinary undertaking that challenges us to see the foundations of successful international cooperation in a new light. This is likely to be a seminal work that defines the terms of the debate about sovereignty and governance for years to come.”

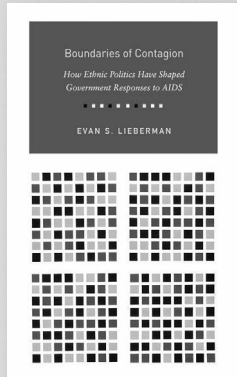

—Philip G. Roeder, University of California, San Diego

Boundaries of Contagion

How Ethnic Politics Have Shaped Government Responses to AIDS

Evan S. Lieberman

“There has been a lack of meaningful work on the politics of HIV/AIDS, which is surprising given the prominence of the pandemic as a global issue and policy challenge. This book fills a real void and there is no question that it makes an important contribution to the field.”

—Richard Parker,
Columbia University

Pessimism

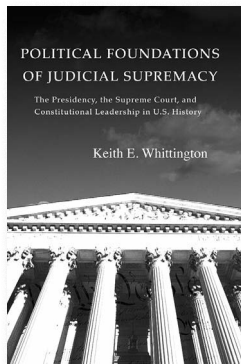

Philosophy, Ethic, Spirit

Joshua Foa Dienstag

“Dienstag’s . . . book is not just a study in political theory but a challenge to its contemporary practice, and for this he deserves our gratitude. . . [B]old, original and admirable.”

—Ryan Patrick Hanley,
American Political Science Review

Going Local

Decentralization, Democratization, and the Promise of Good Governance

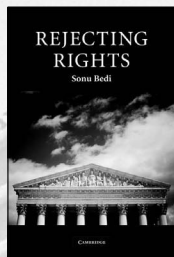

Merilee S. Grindle

“In analyzing the exciting array of promising reforms as well as the inertia of clientelistic traditions, Grindle weights the introduction of political-party competition, the role of innovative ideas and entrepreneurial leaders, the implementation of modern methods of public administration, and the logic of civil society.”

Ideology and practice

Measuring Democracy

A Bridge between Scholarship and Politics
Gerardo L. Munck

"Munck's book is a laudable effort to build bridges between the world of democratic theory and related methodologies and the practical world of politics and government."

—Dante Caputo, former foreign minister of Argentina and Secretary for Political Affairs of the Organization of American States
Democratic Transition and Consolidation: Jorge I. Domínguez and Anthony Jones, Series Editors
$28.00 paperback

American National Security

SIXTH EDITION

Amos A. Jordan, William J. Taylor, Jr.,
Michael J. Meese, and Suzanne C. Nielsen
foreword by James Schlesinger

"The necessity of continually reappraising strategy in shifting international and domestic environments makes it essential that policymakers and the attentive public alike have a clear understanding of the fundamental policy and process challenges that confront the nation. The authors of this sixth edition have provided a timely and valuable contribution toward gaining that understanding."

—James Schlesinger, former Secretary of Defense, from the foreword
$30.00 paperback

The Political Philosophy of George Washington

Jeffrey H. Morrison

This insightful, concise story makes clearer the complexities of the revolutionary era and shows how the first president's political ideas shaped governmental institutions and instantiated the nation's foundational principles.

The Political Philosophy of the American Founders:
Garrett Ward Sheldon, Series Editor
$40.00 hardcover

The Man in the White House

His Powers and Duties
Wilfred E. Binkley

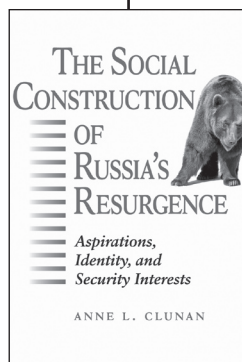

The Constitution of the United States says little about the president's specific duties other than the enforcement of the laws

The Social Construction of Russia's Resurgence

Aspirations, Identity, and Security Interests

Anne L. Clunan

Clunan's analysis of Russia's resurgence convincingly argues that traditional security concerns, historical aspirations, and human agency are coalescing around a new national identity and reconfigured national interests in the post-Soviet nation. Her work moves beyond balance-of-power and realist politics to posit a new, interdisciplinary theory: aspirational constructivism.
$60.00 hardcover

Participatory Institutions in Democratic Brazil

JENNINGS RANDOLPH FELLOWSHIP PROGRAM

The United States Institute of Peace invites applications for its Senior Fellowship Programs and Jennings Randolph Peace Scholar Dissertation.

JR Senior Fellowships are residential fellowships awarded annually to outstanding scholars, policy-makers, journalists, and other professionals to write and conduct research on peace, conflict, and international security issues. Fellowships usually last for 10 months starting in October, but shorter-term fellowships are also available. Fellowships are open to citizens of any country. Senior Fellow Application Deadline: September 8, 2009

JR Peace Scholar Dissertation Program awards nonresidential Peace Scholar Dissertation Fellowships to students at U.S. universities who are writing doctoral dissertations on topics related to peace, conflict, and international security. Fellowships last for 10 months starting in September. Fellowships are open to citizens of any country enrolled in U.S. university Ph.D. programs. Dissertation projects in all disciplines are welcome. Peace Scholar Application Deadline: January 5, 2010.

GRANT PROGRAM

The United States Institute of Peace invites applications for its Grant competitions.

Annual Grant Competition considers applications that focus on preventing, managing, and resolving violent conflict and promoting post-conflict peacebuilding outside the United States. The closing date for receipt of Annual Grant applications is October 1, 2009. Award announcements will be made by March 31, 2010.

Priority Grantmaking Competition continues its focus on seven countries as they relate to USIP's mandate: Afghanistan, Colombia, Iran, Iraq, Nigeria, Pakistan, and Sudan. Applicants may apply at any time throughout the year.

Under both competitions, applicants may seek funding for research, education, training, and related projects implemented either within the United States or abroad, although preference will be given in the Priority Grantmaking Competition to applications that originate in one of the seven designated countries (with the exception of Iran). Nonprofit organizations, public institutions, and individuals from the United States or abroad may apply for either initiative.

Bad Advice Bush's Lawyers in the War on Terror Harold H. Bruff

"A masterful and timely study. Bruff explains how and why top lawyers in the Bush administration decided to manipulate the law for political ends. He also provides thoughtful and seasoned advice on how to restore our constitutional government."
—Louis Fisher, author of The Constitution and 9/11

"An important book of astonishing breadth. With lucid and compelling prose, Bruff brilliantly exposes the flawed reasoning in the legal opinions supporting Bush policies in the war on terror."
—Nancy V. Baker, author of General Ashcroft: Attorney at War

"A wonderfully written and compellingly readable book."

Yellowstone and the Snowmobile Locking Horns over National Park Use Michael J. Yochim

"Exhaustively researched and thoughtfully written, Yochim's chronicle of this momentous, colorful, and often dismaying controversy could not be more timely. All serious observers of and participants in the 'snowmobile wars' should be prepared to expose their convictions to the test of this excellent primer."
—Paul Schullery, author of Mountain Time: A Yellowstone Memoir

"Informative and timely, this is a significant contribution to the literatures on parks, public lands, and environmental issues in general."
—William R. Lowry, author of The Capacity for Wonder: Preserving National Parks

Beyond Red and Blue

How Twelve Political Philosophies Shape American Debates

Peter S. Wenz

"Drawing from life experiences and familiar headlines, Peter Wenz finds twelve lines of political DNA in America. Beyond Red and Blue tackles tough issues from euthanasia to torture to global trade. Don't expect Wenz to button up every chapter with sound-bite certainty. His conclusions may make you cheer or curse, but they are sure to make you think."

— Senator Dick Durbin, Illinois
376 pp., $27.95 cloth

Conservation Refugees

The Hundred-Year Conflict between Global Conservation and Native Peoples

Mark Dowie

"As a journalist, Mark Dowie has always been a few steps ahead of the pack, and with Conservation Refugees he's once again staked out a difficult and fascinating terrain: the indigenous peoples that, all the way back to the founding of Yosemite, have been invisible or worse to the conservation movement. A vision of wilderness that makes no place for people has long held sway in environmental circles, but there are signs it is coming to an end—and not a moment too soon. Dowie's book advances the critical work of developing a new, more encompassing vision of nature, which makes it one of the most important contributions to conservation in many years." — Michael Pollan, author of The Omnivore's Dilemma and In Defense of Food

336 pp., $27.95 cloth

Contagion and Chaos

Disease, Ecology, and National Security in the Era of Globalization

Andrew T. Price-Smith

"A tour de force. Price-Smith's provocative book clarifies the centrality of health issues to national and international security. Carefully researched and well-written, this study analyzes the complex interactions between war, ecology, political economy, and disease. Essential reading for the fields of international relations and security studies in the 21st century." — Kent Hughes Butts, U.S. Army War College

296 pp., 12 illus., $24 paper

Guns and Butter

The Economic Causes and Consequences of Conflict

edited by Gregory D. Hess

"The chapters in this exemplary volume use simple, easy-to-follow formal models and statistical analyses to explain the political economy of interstate conflict and transnational terrorism. It is a fascinating, wide-ranging, and accessible book for scholars, students, and policymakers, and an important contribution to the field." — David Andrew Singer, Massachusetts Institute of Technology
CESifo Seminar series • 344 pp., 21 illus., $35 cloth

Corporate Power in Global Agrifood Governance

edited by Jennifer Clapp and Doris Fuchs

"Given the recent shocks to the global food system, this is a timely project—one that covers a broad range of aspects in agrifood governance." — Harriet Friedmann, University of Toronto

Toward Sustainable Communities

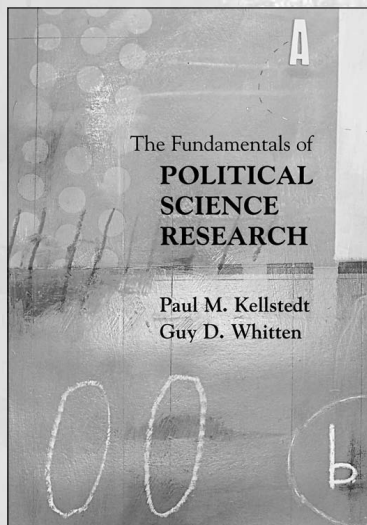

Transition and Transformations in Environmental Policy, Second Edition

edited by Daniel A. Mazmanian and Michael E. Kraft

"Toward Sustainable Communities brings together an extraordinary set of leading environmental scholars with multiple perspectives on sustainability and examples of the concept in practice—sharpening our understanding of the way forward at the community, regional, national, and global levels." — Daniel C. Esty, Yale Law School

The Fundamentals of Political Science Research

Paul M. Kellstedt and Guy D. Whitten

Texas A & M University

www.cambridge.org/fpsr

Paperback | 9780521697880 | 49 line figures | 2 halftones | 38 tables | 292 pages

"Many do not fully appreciate that the world is in the midst of a grand march of quantification through areas of human knowledge. As the rapidly improving tools of measurement, inference, and science are adapted to each area, automated statistical algorithms and well designed research vastly outperform casual human judgment. Given the numerous self-proclaimed political experts and pundits vying for media attention, some people may be surprised that science has even come to the study of government and politics. In The Fundamentals of Political Science Research, Kellstedt and Whitten not only set the record straight; they provide an interesting and accessible introduction to this exciting area, so students can better understand claims about the political world and even begin to make discoveries on their own."

- Gary King, Harvard University

Features

- An accessible, student-friendly presentation of mathematical concepts necessary for beginning political science researchers.
- An emphasis throughout the book on assessing causal claims.
- The frequent use of examples from both political science and everyday experience to help students understand the important concepts.
- An introductory treatment of regression models with two or more independent variables.

Contents

1. The scientific study of politics; 2. The art of theory building; 3. Evaluating causal relationships; 4. Research design; 5. Measurement; 6. Descriptive statistics and graphs; 7. Statistical inference; 8. Bivariate hypothesis testing; 9. Bivariate regression models; 10. Multiple regression models I: the basics; 11. Multiple regression models II: crucial extensions; 12. Multiple regression models III: applications; Appendix A: critical values of chi-square; Appendix B: critical values of t ; Appendix C: the Λ link function for binomial logit models; Appendix D: the Φ link function for binomial probit models.

Multilevel and Longitudinal Modeling Using Stata

Second Edition

*Sophia Rabe-Hesketh
Anders Skrondal*

Multilevel and Longitudinal Modeling Using Stata, Second Edition looks specifically at Stata's treatment of generalized linear mixed models, also known as multilevel or hierarchical models. These models allow fixed and random effects, and they are appropriate for continuous Gaussian responses as well as binary, count, and other types of limited dependent variables. The second edition incorporates three new chapters on standard linear regression, discrete-time survival analysis, and longitudinal and panel data containing an expanded discussion of random-coefficient and growth-curve models.

562 pages • ISBN 978-1-59718-040-5 • $59

Microeconometrics Using Stata

*A. Colin Cameron
Pravin K. Trivedi*

Aimed at both students and researchers, Microeconometrics Using Stata provides the most complete and up-to-date survey of microeconomic methods available in Stata, including linear regression, simulation, instrumental-variables estimation, quantile regression, random- and fixed-effects models, linear mixed models, analytical and bootstrap inference, and non-linear models for binary, multinomial, censored, and count outcomes for both cross-sectional and panel datasets.

692 pages • ISBN 978-1-59718-048-1 • $65

The Workflow of Data Analysis Using Stata

J. Scott Long

The Workflow of Data Analysis Using Stata is an essential productivity tool for data analysts. A good workflow is essential for replicating your work, and replication is essential to good science. Long shows you how to streamline your workflow to make the time you spend doing statistical and graphical analyses most productive. If you analyze data, this book is recommended for you.

379 pages • ISBN 978-1-59718-047-4 • $52

A Gentle Introduction to Stata

Second Edition

Alan C. Acock

A Gentle Introduction to Stata, Second Edition is aimed at new Stata users who want to become proficient in Stata. Acock assumes that the user is not familiar with any statistical software. Important asides and notes about terminology are set off in boxes, which makes the text easy to read without any convoluted twists or forward referencing. The focus of the book is especially helpful for those in the social sciences.

333 pages • ISBN 978-1-59718-043-6 • $46

WHOSE IDEAS MATTER?

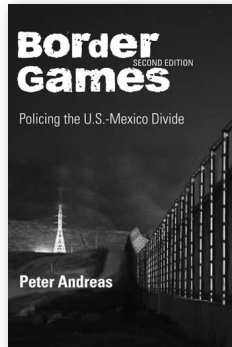

Agency and Power in Asian Regionalism

AMITAV ACHARYA

"Acharya has led the way in thinking not only about the international relations of Southeast Asia but also about how to conceptualize international security more generally."

—Stephan Haggard, University of California, San Diego

[200 PAGES | $39.95 CLOTH | CORNELL STUDIES IN POLITICAL ECONOMY]

BORDER GAMES

Policing the U.S.-Mexico Divide

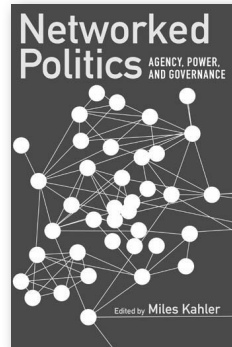

SECOND EDITION

PETER ANDREAS

"Andreas's insightful and rigorous study is an important contribution to the literature on globalization and transnational illicit trade."

—American Political Science Review

[200 PAGES | $19.95 PAPER | CORNELL STUDIES IN POLITICAL ECONOMY]

NETWORKED POLITICS

Agency, Power, and Governance

EDITED BY MILES KAHLER

"This pathbreaking volume generates a set of exciting research questions about the role of networks in world politics and offers some innovative methodologies to facilitate their empirical investigation. Anyone interested in new ways of thinking about world politics should read Networked Politics."

—Robert O. Keohane, Princeton University

[280 PAGES | $22.95 PAPER]

HIERARCHY IN INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

DAVID A. LAKE

"Lake effectively and convincingly argues that international politics is characterized not by anarchy, as the received wisdom and theory in the field hold, but rather by hierarchical relations among states. He develops the concept of relational hierarchy, by which a pair of states agree for one to accept the authority of the other to their mutual benefit, and applies it to understand the hierarchical relations created by the United States during and after the Cold War."

—James D. Morrow, University of Michigan

THINK GLOBAL, FEAR LOCAL

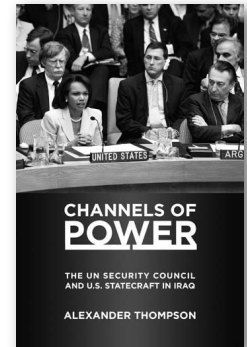

Sex, Violence, and Anxiety in Contemporary Japan

DAVID LEHENY

"Think Global, Fear Local reveals how broadly accepted global norms against child prostitution and terrorism get transformed by anxiety-ridden Japanese policy makers into powerful weapons used to attack peripheral, though admittedly vexing, domestic demons."

—T. J. Pempel, Director, University of California, Berkeley

[248 PAGES | $19.95 PAPER]

THIS COULD BE THE START OF SOMETHING BIG

How Social Movements for Regional Equity

Are Reshaping Metropolitan America

MANUEL PASTOR JR., CHRIS BENNER, AND MARTHA MATSUOKA

"This Could Be the Start of Something Big provides a vivid account of regional equity efforts and is an important contribution to new thinking about progressive politics."

THE POWER PROBLEM

How American Military Dominance Makes Us

Less Safe, Less Prosperous, and Less Free

CHRISTOPHER A. PREBLE

"Here is a book that Dwight D. Eisenhower would have greatly admired. Like Ike, Christopher Preble has a keen appreciation for the limits of military power, for the consequences of its misuse, and for the dangers of militarization. The Power Problem is simply terrific."

—Andrew J. Bacevich, author of

The Limits of Power: The End of American Exceptionalism

[272 PAGES | $19.95 PAPER]

CHANNELS OF POWER

The UN Security Council and U.S. Statecraft in Iraq

ALEXANDER THOMPSON

"Thompson's book will stand out as a particularly valuable contribution to the literature on the Security Council, Iraq, and U.S. statecraft. Given the clarity and accessibility of Thompson's argument and evidence, Channels of Power should find its way into undergraduate classrooms."
