

Latin Literature from Oxford

Valerius Flaccus' Argonautica

Abbreviated Voyages in Silver Latin Epic

DEBRA HERSHKOWITZ

Debra Hershkowitz provides readers who have not yet encountered the Argonautica with a general introduction to the work and, through comparisons with Apollonius' Argonautica and Virgil's Aeneid, offers specialists a re-evaluation of this important Silver Latin epic.

0-19-815098-9, 314 pp.,
Clarendon Press, December 1998
£45.00

Virgil's Experience

Nature and History: Times, Names, and Places

RICHARD JENKYNs

Richard Jenkyns studies Virgil's ideas of nature, landscape, history, and patriotism. He is also concerned with ideas of nature throughout antiquity and with the poetry and culture of the 1st century BC as a whole.

0-19-814033-9, 736 pp.,
Clarendon Press, November 1998
£50.00

For further information,
contact Andrea Nicholls,
Academic Marketing,
Oxford University Press,
Great Clarendon Street,
Oxford OX2 6DP
+44 (0)1865 556767
or email: nicholla@oup.co.uk
24-hour credit card hotline
+44 (0)1536 454534
www.oup.co.uk/catalogue

Writing Down Rome

Satire, Comedy, and Other Offences in Latin Poetry

JOHN HENDERSON

Taking particular plays and poems from Roman comic theatre and the genre of Latin satire, John Henderson finds Rome sending up Roman culture-making a mess of drama, jesting at rustic gaucherie, caricaturing the cult of masculine aggression. Writing Down Rome explores the robust poetic of self-denigration. Henderson's essays celebrate the energetic self-mockery that powers much of Roman poetry. They range widely over comedy, lyric, bucolic, and, in particular, the Roman speciality of satire.

0-19-815077-6, 392 pp.,
December 1998 £48.00

Words and the Poet

Characteristic Techniques of Style in Vergil's Aeneid

R. O. A. M. LYNE

New
paperback Vergil largely avoided artifices of poetic diction, preferring ordinary language, and using words which conventional poets thought too prosaic or colloquial. R. O. A. M. Lyne identifies such diction in Vergil and examines the methods by which he turned this into poetry.

0-19-815261-2, 216 pp.,
paperback, Clarendon Press,
August 1998 £15.00

Tacitus Reviewed

A. J. WOODMAN

Tacitus is ancient Rome's greatest historian, and the Annals his greatest work. In this book, the author analyses various passages, some of them extremely famous, relating to the emperors Tiberius and Nero. Each of the analyses is unconventional, sometimes radically so. Previous interpretations are shown to be wrong or inadequate, so the results have profound implications for those who wish to use Tacitus as a source for events in the first century AD.

0-19-815258-2, 268 pp.,
Clarendon Press, October 1998
£40.00

visit our site
www.oup.co.uk

OXFORD
UNIVERSITY PRESS