

International Theory

A Journal of International Politics,
Law and Philosophy

Why there is International Theory now

Duncan Snidal and Alexander Wendt

IR and the false promise of philosophical foundations

Nuno P. Monteiro and Keven G. Ruby

Rethinking political structures

Jack Donnelly

Transnational corporations in 'bad states'

David Jason Karp

Collective responsibility and the state

John M. Parrish

Agents of death: the structural logic of suicide terrorism and martyrdom

K.M. Fierke

CAMBRIDGE
UNIVERSITY PRESS

International Theory

A JOURNAL OF INTERNATIONAL POLITICS, LAW AND PHILOSOPHY

www.journals.cambridge.org/it

EDITORS

Duncan J. Snidal, The Harris School, University of Chicago
Alexander Wendt, Mershon Center for International Security Studies, Ohio State University

MANAGING EDITOR

John Oates, Ohio State University
it.mershon@osu.edu

EDITORIAL BOARD

Kenneth Abbott, Arizona State University
Antony Anghie, University of Utah
James Bohman, Saint Louis University
Chris Brown, London School of Economics and Political Science
Jutta Brunnée, University of Toronto
David Campbell, Durham University
Hilary Charlesworth, The Australian National University
Jack Donnelly, University of Denver
Raymond Duvall, University of Minnesota
Robyn Eckersley, University of Melbourne
Toni Erskine, Aberystwyth University
James Fearon, Stanford University

Jack Goldsmith, Harvard University
Ryan Goodman, Harvard University
Kimberley Hutchings, London School of Economics and Political Science
Andrew Kydd, University of Wisconsin
Andrew Moravcsik, Princeton University
Iver Neumann, Oslo University
V. Spike Peterson, University of Arizona
Chris Reus-Smit, Australian National University
Gerry Simpson, London School of Economics
Jack Snyder, Columbia University
Neil Walker, University of Edinburgh
David A. Welch, University of Toronto
Michael Williams, Aberystwyth University

STATEMENT OF AIMS

International Theory (IT) promotes theoretical scholarship about the positive, legal, and normative aspects of world politics respectively. IT is open to theory of all varieties and from all disciplines, provided it addresses problems of politics, broadly defined and pertains to the international.

IT welcomes scholarship that uses evidence from the real world to advance theoretical arguments. However, IT is intended as a forum where scholars can develop theoretical arguments in depth without an expectation of extensive empirical analysis.

IT's over-arching goal is to promote communication and engagement across theoretical and disciplinary traditions. IT puts a premium on contributors' ability to reach as broad an audience as possible, both in the questions they engage and in their accessibility to other approaches. However, IT is also open to work that remains within one scholarly tradition, although in that case authors must make clear the horizon of their arguments in relation to other theoretical approaches.

All articles will be peer-reviewed.

With thanks to the Mershon Center, Ohio State University, for financial support.

This journal issue has been printed on FSC-certified paper and cover board. FSC is an independent, non-governmental, not-for-profit organization established to promote the responsible management of the world's forests. Please see www.fsc.org for information.

CONTENTS

- 1 Why there is International Theory now
DUNCAN SNIDAL AND ALEXANDER WENDT
- 15 IR and the false promise of philosophical foundations
NUNO P. MONTEIRO AND KEVEN G. RUBY
- 49 Rethinking political structures: from 'ordering principles' to 'vertical differentiation' – and beyond
JACK DONNELLY
- 87 Transnational corporations in 'bad states': human rights duties, legitimate authority and the rule of law in international political theory
DAVID JASON KARP
- 119 Collective responsibility and the state
JOHN M. PARRISH
- 155 Agents of death: the structural logic of suicide terrorism and martyrdom
K.M. FIERKE

