

EDITORIAL NOTICE

After a decade at the University of Western Ontario, the editorial office of Philosophy of Science has returned to Pittsburgh. The transition has been gradual. Since the beginning of 1990, manuscript submissions have been handled by the Pittsburgh staff. This issue, the first to be edited here, consists entirely of materials accepted by the previous editor, Professor Robert Butts. We expect to have all other manuscripts that were accepted by the previous editor published in the remaining three 1991 issues. The editorial staff gratefully acknowledges all of the help that Professor Butts and his staff have provided during the transition. We will do our best to maintain the high standards they have set for the journal.

We want to thank also the members of the Editorial Board who are listed on the inside cover of this issue, some of whom have now finished their terms of service. They have served the journal faithfully for many years.

We want to announce one change in policy. In an effort to distribute more fairly the rising costs of producing the journal, the Governing Board at their meeting in 1990 ruled that manuscripts submitted by persons who are not members of the Philosophy of Science Association must be accompanied by a processing fee of $15.00. This fee (payable by check or money order to the Association) may be waived for submissions from citizens of countries with currency restrictions.
