THE DECLARATORY JUDGMENT

' This is, as the author claims, the first book to be devoted solely to the declaratory judgment in English law, and that in itself is enough to commend it to the legal profession. . . . All aspects of the subject are covered.'—Solicitors' Journal

By L. Zamir, M.JUR., PH.D.

£2 15s. (Post free in U.K.)

THE RULE AGAINST PERPETUITIES

' The practitioner will find here all he needs to guide him through the niceties of the English decisions on the subject, and this against the wider background of principle.'—Law Times

SECOND EDITION

By J. H. C. Morris, D.C.L., Barrister-at-Law, and

W. Barton Leach, LL.B., of the Massachusetts Bar

£3 10s. net (Post free in U.K.)

THE ANNUAL PRACTICE 1963

This is a particularly important edition as, this year, both volumes are republished and the material has been rearranged. All the new rules are included and also the greatly increased number of reported decisions on practice and procedure.

By A. S. Diamond,
I. H. Jacob, Paul Adams,
and J. S. Neave,

Principles of LOCAL GOVERNMENT LAW

This book is designed for those who are studying local government law for examination purposes and those concerned with day-to-day administration. Since the first edition a number of significant changes in the law have taken place. Considerable revision of the text has been necessary and references to the new consolidating Town and Country Planning Act have been included.

SECOND EDITION. By C. A. Cross, M.A., LL.B., Barrister-at-Law
£2 12s. 6d. (Post free in U.K. Overseas postage 2s. 6d.)

THE LAW OF CONTRACT

An entirely new and original book for students. Its first object is to provide a statement of the general principles, discussing the many controversial points that arise. The author departs from the conventional approach in that he emphasises the connection between the general principles of the law of contract and modern commercial practice and draws his examples from commercial law.

By G. H. Treitel, B.C.L., M.A., Barrister-at-Law
£2 5s. net (Post free in U.K. Overseas postage 2s.)

CONSTITUTIONAL and ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

In this new edition of this well established students' textbook, account has been taken of the increased emphasis on administrative law demanded by the modern approach to this subject. Many alterations have been made necessary by new legislation and litigation. The chapter on Administrative Jurisdiction is now much fuller and takes account of the Franks Committee Report and the Tribunals and Inquiries Act, 1958.

THIRD EDITION. By O. Hood Phillips, B.C.L., M.A., J.P., Barrister-at-Law, Dean of the Faculty of Law and Barber Professor of Jurisprudence, University of Birmingham
£3 net (Post free in U.K. Overseas postage 3s.)

REVENUE LAW

This is an important new book which was designed for students but which will also prove of value to solicitors, accountants and businessmen. It covers the whole of Revenue Law (Income Tax, Surtax, Profits Tax, Estate Duty and Stamp Duties) as one subject. These now overlap to such an extent that one book dealing with all of them is sure of a welcome.

By Barry Pinson, LL.B., Barrister-at-Law
£2 10s. (Post free in U.K. Overseas postage 2s.)
