LANDSCAPES OF A DISTANT MOTHER SAID

Translated by Kenneth J. Northcott

"One of the best books I have read in recent years. Deceptively simple and poignant without being sentimental, Landscapes of a Distant Mother is not just another narrative about exile. It is above all about the loss of an illusion—the startling discovery that home is not, and perhaps never was, a home."—Azar Nafisi, author of Reading Lolita in Tehran

"An eloquently brief and moving statement of farewell to a mother and to a country, in which love attempts to win out over anger."—Le Monde

"As political a book as it is personal and one of the most moving books that have been written in German-language literature in recent years."

THE SPACIOUS WORD

Cartography, Literature, and Empire in Early Modern Spain

Ricardo Padrón

"An intelligent and wholly original volume. Ricardo Padrón opens up new debates about cartography and empire in the Spanish and New World during the sixteenth century. His focus, unlike most scholars, is less upon maps per se than on the concept of space as it appears in the literature, poems, and cartographic writings of the early modern period. This is an important and elegantly written work."—Richard L. Kagan, The Johns Hopkins University

DIVINE COMEDIES FOR THE NEW MILLENNIUM

Edited by Ronald de Rooy

The difficulty of translating Dante has, paradoxically, created a steady of flux of translations. This volume consists of seven cantiche translated by Dutchmen and seven by Americans, along with a discussion of the state and tradition of translating Dante in both countries. Contributors to this volume inevitably make statements about how Dante's masterpiece should be read: as a poem, to be translated fearlessly and confrontationally; as a scholarly text, to be treated cautiously and rigorously; or as some combination of the two?

THE MOURNER'S SONG

War and Remembrance from the Iliad to Vietnam

James Tatum

"The works of Homer and Maya Lin . . . are refracted by Tatum into a kaleidoscopic array of texts and images relating to war and its vicissitudes, ranging from The Red Badge of Courage and Mrs. Dalloway to Goya's gruesome designs for "The Disasters of War."—Armand D'Angour, Times Literary Supplement

HOW TO DO THE HISTORY OF HOMOSEXUALITY

David M. Halperin

"The author has moved from a social constructionist viewpoint to a more nuanced historicist approach. . . . The four essays analyze the importance of Michel Foucault to theories of homosexuality, developments in the study of homosexuality in ancient Greece, the importance of placing desire in the history of homosexuality, and the methodological question of how to do the history of homosexuality."—Choice
