La Pinta Chicana/o Prisoner Literature, Culture, and Politics By B. V. Olguin

"[A]n interdisciplinary, well-theorized, diachronic and synchronic study that is not merely a compilation of case studies but locates the particulars of individual experience and agency in a larger context of an historical struggle against racialized criminal injustice in this country."

—Louis Mendoza, Chair of Chicano Studies, University of Minnesota

Constructing the Image of the Mexican Revolution Cinema and the Archive By Zuzana M. Pick

With a cast ranging from Pancho Villa to Dolores Del Rio and Tina Modotti, Constructing the Image of the Mexican Revolution demonstrates the crucial role played by Mexican and foreign visual artists in revolutionizing Mexico's twentieth-century national iconography.

Adoring the Saints Fiestas in Central Mexico By Yolanda Lastra, Joel Sherzer, and Dina Sherzer

Mexico is famous for spectacular fiestas that embody its heart and soul. This work provides a comprehensive study of two intimately linked patron saint fiestas in the state of Guanajuato, near San Miguel de Allende—the fiesta of the village of Cruz del Palmar and that of the town of San Luis de la Paz. A mixture of secular and sacred, patron saint fiestas are multiday affairs that include many events, ritual specialists, and performers, with the participation of the entire community. By encompassing all of these events and performances, this work displays the essence of Mexico. It is a lens through which this country's complex history, religion, ethnic mix, traditions, and magic can be viewed.

A User's Guide to Postcolonial and Latino Borderland Fiction By Frederick Luis Aldama

"In Aldama's eloquent exploration of postcolonial and Latino fiction—novel, short story, comic book—we find concepts, arguments, and analyses that increase our pleasure as readers of Zadie Smith, Arundhati Roy, Hari Kunzru, Amitav Ghosh, Dagoberto Gilb, Luis Rodriguez, and a whole lot of comic book authors—finally!—that lead us to know and inhabit new intellectual territories. This book is for all authors, readers, and critics interested in postcolonial and Latino fiction and, most significantly, it is a daring journey into the Latino and postcolonial fictional mind."

Drug War Zone Frontline Dispatches from the Streets of El Paso and Juárez By Howard Campbell

"Drug War Zone breaks new ground in its rich exploration of the border narcoeconomy in all its multilayered and intertwined complexity. Campbell's work underscores the power of an ethnographic approach. Such detail and nuance can only come from years of long-term field research, cultural immersion, and unflinching commitment to this important and dangerous topic."

—James H. McDonald, Associate Vice Provost and Professor of Anthropology, University of Texas at San Antonio

Building Peace in a Time of War

Virginia M. Bouvier, editor

"Virginia Bouvier's volume documents how different actors in Colombia's struggle for peace and security engage in preventing state failure. Lessons from this volume can serve a larger readership as the U.S. government ponders its policy options in places like Pakistan, Afghanistan, and Iraq."

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

Editorial Policy

The Journal of Latin American Studies is published four times a year, in February, May, August and November. Its editorial offices are located at the Institute for the Study of the Americas, University of London. The editorial board comprises area studies specialists based in the United Kingdom from all the principal social science disciplines, including history.

The Journal aims to publish recent research in the field of Latin American studies in economics, geography, politics, international relations, sociology, social anthropology, and history. Articles on literature and the arts are not normally included, but the editors are pleased to consider contributions in the field of intellectual and cultural history. Articles with an inter-disciplinary approach are particularly welcome.

Manuscript Submission

Articles submitted to the Journal should be original contributions. They should not be under consideration by another journal, nor have been published or be awaiting publication elsewhere. Translations of articles that have already been published will not be accepted. If an author is publishing a closely related article elsewhere, this fact should be stated in a cover note to the editors. Authors of articles published in the journal assign copyright to Cambridge University Press (with certain rights reserved) and will receive a copyright assignment form for signature on acceptance of their paper.

Articles must be no longer than 12,000 words, including footnotes, tables etc. The Journal is published in English, but articles may also be submitted in Spanish or Portuguese for peer review; if accepted for publication, the responsibility for translating articles rests with the author. The Journal's preference is that manuscripts should be submitted electronically as a Word document, with double spacing throughout and margins of at least one inch all round. All pages must be numbered consecutively. In order to ensure the anonymity of the reviewing process, care should be taken to ensure that any references which might identify the author are removed from the text. The title page should be separate from the main body of the text and include the author's name, academic post and institutional affiliation, the title of the article, and brief acknowledgements. An abstract of no more than 100 words, together with a list of key words, should appear at the beginning of the article.

The Journal publishes commissioned book reviews in each issue. Not all books received can be reviewed and editorial policy gives preference to reviews of books regarded as of major importance for the disciplines covered by the Journal. Unsolicited reviews cannot be considered.

Contributors are responsible for obtaining permission to reproduce any material in which they do not own copyright, to be used in both print and electronic media, and for ensuring that the appropriate acknowledgements are included in their manuscript.

Articles for consideration and all editorial correspondence should be addressed to: The Editors, Journal of Latin American Studies, Institute for the Study of the Americas, 31 Tavistock Square, London WC1H 9HA, UK, and sent to <jas@sas.ac.uk>.

Proofs

Proofs of accepted articles will be sent to authors as pdf files for checking and correction of typesetting errors. Typographical or factual errors only may be changed at proof stage. The publisher reserves the right to charge authors for correction of non-typographical errors.

Offprints

Contributors will receive a pdf file of their article and a copy of the issue in which their article appears.

This journal issue has been printed on FSC-certified paper and cover board. FSC is an independent, non-governmental, not-for-profit organization established to promote the responsible management of the world's forests. Please see www.fsc.org for information.
