SOCIAL ADMINISTRATION ASSOCIATION

The Association exists for those whose work consists mainly of teaching or research in the fields of Social Administration and Social Policy. It was formed some years ago to enable staff from universities, polytechnics, technical and other colleges, independent and Government research organisations to meet and discuss matters of common interest.

The Association acts as a representative of its members and of Social Administration through contacts with the Social Science Research Council, the Council for National Academic Awards and the Business Education Council.

The Association has specialist groups which meet to discuss the teaching of social policy and public expenditure and social policy.

The Association holds an Annual Conference. The 1980 conference will be from 17th to 19th July in Cambridge. The theme will be 'The Evaluation of Social Policies'.

The current membership subscription is £15.50 per calendar year; this includes the subscription to the Association's Journal, the Journal of Social Policy (four issues per year).

Resources for the Welfare State

An Economic Introduction

John F Sleeman

Students of social administration and social work rarely have any formal training in economics. Yet at a time when the social services account for nearly 30 per cent of the national product, economic issues are inescapable. This book fills the gap by examining the economic factors which affect social services resources and provides a thorough outline of basic economic concepts.

Public Expenditures and Social Policy in Australia

Volume I: The Whitlam Years 1972-75

Editors: R B Scotton and H Ferber

Government spending during the Whitlam years had profound consequences for public finance and the Australian economy as a whole. This volume traces the massive increases in government spending for social purposes which took place under the Labour government. The authors give a detailed analysis of expenditure on education, health, social security and urban and regional development. This is supported by an extensive documentation of legislative and administrative decisions taken during the period.

International Journal of Social Economics

The International Journal of Social Economics presents social economics and social planning as a distinct and accepted discipline, and provides a digest of exclusive reports on the major aspects of the area.

A unique feature of the journal is that it combines theory with practical experience. Contributors and readers include not only leading academics and educators, but also a host of successful specialists. Among them are company directors and senior administrators, executives and managers in the public services and government, and leading consultants.

This is a key journal for all economists, providing up-to-date research on the major ways in which economic decisions affect society and the implications for action. Well established throughout the world, IJSE deals with the following issues—with particular emphasis upon international and comparative studies:

- social economics
- socio-economic systems
- manpower policy
- social indicators
- environmental economics
- income distribution and policy
- social services
- demographic trends

IJSE is published six times a year. Three issues are in standard journal format, containing key articles of importance in social economics; the other three issues are in-depth monographs.

Recent articles from IJSE

The Neoclassical Synthesis in Crisis

by J. Ron Stanfield

This article attempts to provide an Institutionalist analysis and diagnosis of the current crisis of orthodox economics. First, the author characterises the predominant opinion in economics (the neoclassical synthesis) and then examines the anomalies which are currently vexing orthodox opinion. He goes on to discuss whether these are sufficient to provoke a period of crisis. Finally, the source of the anomalies of the neoclassical synthesis are diagnosed.

Labour Aspects of the New International Economic Order

by Barrie O. Pettman

This contribution considers the characteristics of the New International Economic Order within a socio-economic systems framework and argues that insufficient attention is being paid to the labour market aspects of this extremely important breakthrough.

- Economies of Scale in Residential Care
- Economic Determinants of Training

The Journal of Social Policy

Edited by R.A. PINKER

Professor of Social Work Studies, London School of Economics and Political Science

The Journal of Social Policy is concerned with the historical and theoretical analysis of social policy and with processes and problems in the implementation of social policy at both national and local levels. It explores the relationship of social administration to all the social sciences as well as to social work and social action. Its scope is international and it draws on research and developments in other countries besides Britain. The Journal assumes no doctrine save the value of social administration as an intellectual discipline in itself and as a contributor to social welfare.

A feature of the journal is the Social Administration Digest, devoted to analysing major changes in legislation and related matters which affect social policy in Britain. Book reviews are also published.

There is a special offer on back volumes of the Journal of Social Policy for 1979. The offer lasts until the end of the year and is subject to availability. Carriage is extra on all back volumes sent outside the U.K.

Notes for Contributors

1. All contributions and correspondence should be sent to: The Editor, Journal of Social Policy, The London School of Economics and Political Science, Houghton Street, London WC2A 2AE. All books for review should be sent to: The Review Editor, Journal of Social Policy, Department of Sociology and Social Administration, University of Southampton, Highfield, Southampton SO9 5NH.
2. Articles should generally contain between 5,000 and 10,000 words including footnotes, although longer or shorter articles may be accepted by arrangement with the Editor. Short articles stand a better chance of early publication.
3. Submission of an article is taken to imply that it has not previously been published, or is not being considered for publication elsewhere. If an author is publishing a related article elsewhere, this fact should be stated.
4. Contributions (articles, review articles, reviews) should be clearly typed on one side of the paper only using a conventional size of paper, preferably A4. All material should be typed double-spaced with generous margins. Contributors should send two copies and keep one copy of the typescript for correcting proofs.
5. Contributions should be accompanied by an abstract of between one and two hundred words.
6. References to books and articles should include the following details: in the case of books, the full title and author or authors, place of publication, publisher and date; in the case of articles, the title and author or authors, full name of the journal, volume, year and page reference (first and last page). References and other footnotes should be numbered consecutively throughout and typed separately at the end of the article. Good articles which contain this bibliographical information will be accepted, even if they do not follow the journal's own arrangement of the information.
7. Tables should be clearly laid out and designed to fit on to a page 234 mm × 155 mm. Vertical lines between columns should be omitted, and horizontal lines limited to the top and bottom of the table, with an additional one below the column headings. Totals and percentages should be labelled, and units identified.
8. Contributors are advised to look through earlier issues of the journal for guidance on points of general style.
9. First proofs may be read and corrected by contributors provided that they can give the editor an address through which they can be reached without delay and can guarantee to return the corrected proofs to the editor, by airmail where appropriate, within seven days of receiving them. The master proof will always be sent direct to the editor by the printer; contributors will receive duplicates.
10. Authors of articles and review articles (but not book reviews) receive twenty-five free offprints. Additional copies may be bought if ordered at proof stage.
11. Contributors of accepted articles will be asked to assign their copyright, on certain conditions, to Cambridge University Press, to help protect their material, particularly in the USA.
