THE RUINED MAP

Kobo Abe

"A novel of ceaseless suspense."—Yukio Mishima

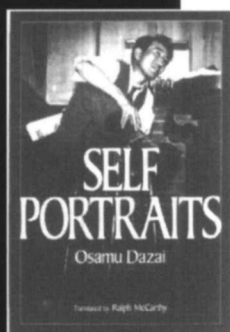

One of the most celebrated novels by the author of The Woman in the Dunes, The Ruined Map is both a suspenseful detective story and a gripping metaphysical thriller. When an alluring woman hires a private eye to track down her missing husband, the detective's investigation takes him into Tokyo's sleazy underworld. There he encounters physical danger and mental anguish as his identity begins to mesh with that of the missing man. "A compelling tour de force...a horror story of such magnitude it stuns the mind."—The New York Times Book Review February, 1993. 320 pages. 4-77001-635-2. $13.00pb

BEYOND THE CURVE

Kobo Abe

As Japan's most internationally renowned living writer, Kobo Abe first made his reputation with his short fiction. Beyond the Curve is a collection of the best of Abe's short works. Faultlessly crafted, each story explores an aspect of modern man's dilemma in the author's trademark surrealist style, with trenchant insight and Swiftian shrewdness. "A dozen ingenious stories" says The New York Times. "His imagination knows no frontiers."—Washington Post. "Beyond the Curve consists of superb gems of the storyteller's art."—San Francisco Chronicle February, 1993. 248 pages. 4-77001-690-5. $8.00pb

SELF PORTRAITS: Stories

Osamu Dazai

More than forty years after his death, Osamu Dazai still retains his cult status in Japan. These stories, based on his own experiences and arranged chronologically, describe with uncommon honesty and self-deprecating humor the women, the suicide attempts, the drugs and drinking, and the life-or-death struggle against a staid and unyielding literary establishment that colored the career of Japan's most engaging enfant terrible. "The most original writer of the postwar generation."—Boston Globe. "A major addition to the work of a great modern writer."—Philadelphia Inquirer

February, 1993. 264 pages. 4-77001-689-1. $8.00pb

Rebuilding Cambodia:

Human Resources, Human Rights, and Law

Edited and with Introduction by Frederick Z. Brown

The world community is grappling with decisions that will profoundly affect the course of the international peace-making and peacekeeping campaign now under way in Cambodia. More than twenty thousand United Nations soldiers, police, and civilian administrators from forty countries are on the ground in Cambodia. The UN Process requires vigorous action on many fronts: ensuring security, rescuing the economy, and educating the Cambodian population on their rights and duties in preparation for multi-party democratic elections. Rebuilding Cambodia analyzes this unprecedented international effort in terms of the critical elements of human resources, human rights, and the legal framework that will be part of a future Cambodian constitution. $14.95. 128 pages (includes map of Cambodia). 6x9, pb, ISBN 0-941700-79-8.

THE ART OF BEING UNIQUE

In all Japan, there is nothing comparable to the Japan Center for Michigan Universities.

Built by Shiga Prefecture in honor of its Sister State relationship with Michigan, the J.C.M.U. serves the USA, Japan and the larger international community and offers students and faculty a variety of exceptional programs. The J.C.M.U. provides the quintessential academic-year learning experience in Japanese language and culture, and intensive Japanese language courses in summer. Interrelated to these are advanced, professionally taught programs in English language and American culture for Japanese.

The J.C.M.U. is located on the shore of beautiful Lake Biwa, in the ancient castle city of Hikone, home of the Ii warriors—a non-westernized, non-English speaking environment filled with historical significance, traditional architecture and cultural treasures. Yet is less than an hour from Kyoto, less than half an hour from Nagoya, and within easy commuting distance of Nara, Osaka and Kobe.

The J.C.M.U. provides magnificent facilities for international symposia, conferences and short courses, and sponsors annual international events. Located next to the lovely Hikone Prince Hotel, the J.C.M.U. is an ideal setting for meetings and other professional gatherings.

The Center also offers a variety of attractive options designed to assist visiting faculty and advanced graduate students with research projects in Japan (e.g., low-cost accommodations, possibility for teaching in one of the academic programs, etc.)

The J.C.M.U. is for everyone. We welcome students and faculty from any institution, and we invite you to discover all we have to offer.

Tragic Mountains

The Hmong, the Americans, and the Secret Wars for Laos, 1942–1992

JANE HAMILTON-MERRITT

“ . . . fair and accurate . . . engrossing . . . fascinating and compelling . . . ”

—William E. Colby, former Director of the Central Intelligence Agency

“ . . . the untold story of a secret war fought for America by a brave uncomplaining people rewarded only by dispersal, defeat and humiliation. . . . gripping . . . ”

—Peter Arnett, CNN News

Hamilton-Merritt, scholar and photo-journalist, has followed the plight of the Hmong, America's allies, and the war in Indochina since the 1960s.

Tragic Mountains moves from the big picture of international diplomacy and power politics to the small villages and heroic engagements in the Lao jungle. It is a story of continuing courage, brutality, heroism, betrayal, resilience, and hope.

Resistance and Reform in Tibet

Edited by ROBERT BARNETT
General Editor, SHIRIN AKINER

This volume applies a balanced and rigorous analytical approach to questions of identity and ethnicity in Tibet. The character and course of the anti-Chinese protests since 1987 are principal themes. Earlier history, ideology, economic development, and China's post-1980 reforms are also examined.

IN THE MIRROR OF MEMORY
Reflections on Mindfulness and Remembrance
in Indian and Tibetan Buddhism
Janet Gyatso, editor

This book studies the diverse array of species of memory in Buddhism. Contributors focus on a particular school, group of texts, terms, or practices and identify a considerable range of types of mnemonic faculties in Buddhism. Included are discussions of Buddhist teaching, meditation, visualization, prayer, commemoration of the Buddha, dhāraṇī practice, the use of mnemonic lists to condense lengthy scriptures, and the purported recollection of infinite previous lives that immediately preceded Śakyamuni's attainment of Buddhahood. Even enlightened awareness itself is said by some Buddhist schools to consist in a 'mnemonic engagement' with reality as such.

BODY, MOVEMENT, AND CULTURE

Kinesthetic and Visual

Symbolism in a Philippine Community

Sally Ann Ness

Provides an original interpretive account of three forms of sinulog dancing practiced in Cebu City in the Philippines: a healing ritual, a dance drama, and a "cultural" exhibition dance. Ness's examination of these dance forms yields rich insights into the cultural predicament of this Philippine city and the way in which kinesthetic and visual symbols interact to create meaning.

SHATTERED WORLD

Adaptation and Survival among Vietnam's Highland Peoples during the Vietnam War

Gerald Cannon Hickey

Examines the cultures of ten groups native to the central highlands of Vietnam, focusing on the ways in which their cultures have been shaped by the necessity for adaptation to their mountain environment. Hickey demonstrates that the economic, political, social, and religious systems of the montagnards operate in concert to maintain the harmony between themselves and the natural environment on which their survival depends.

SPIRITUAL DISCOURSE

Learning with an Islamic Master

Frances Trix

This is the study of the process by which Baba Rexheb, a ninety-year-old Albanian leader of the Bektashi order, and Trix, an American student who has studied with him for over twenty years, come to share a common universe of experience and attunement. The focus of the study is one lesson with Baba—a lesson that is rich in poetry and parable, narrative, and face-saving humor. As Trix seeks to understand how Baba teaches, she contextualizes the lesson internally in terms of episodes and dialogic patterns, and externally in terms of the societal, personal, and ritual histories it presumes.

What does agrarian reform actually mean?

What is the history of the Philippines?

What role is played by the armed forces, the elites, the peasant movements?

What role is played by the U.S. and other foreign powers?

A Captive Land is the first major work to address these questions, referring to previously unpublished Philippine and U.S. government documents, and drawing on interviews with government representatives, landowners, and peasants. James Putzel offers a new and original analysis of the extent of landlessness, ownership, and poverty. It highlights the significance of the conflict between conservative and liberal approaches to reform.

Agrarian reform and the struggle for land will continue to occupy the energies and imagination not only of the people of the Philippines, but of people throughout the third world for generations to come. A Captive Land is a unique study and a vital contribution to an understanding of the issues past, present, and future.

The Chinese Sorcery Scare of 1768
Philip A. Kuhn

WINNER OF THE 1990 JOSEPH LEVENSON PRIZE OF THE ASSOCIATION FOR ASIAN STUDIES

"[A] fascinating and discursive book. As his account of the Emperor's campaign against sorcery unfolds, Kuhn . . . provides intriguing glimpses of China in those days."

—New York Times Book Review

"Written with a non-specialist audience in mind but never patronizing, this is an imaginative, skilled, and insightful book, raising questions not just about China but also about past human behavior in general which will provoke reflection for some time to come." — Times Higher

China and Japan in the Global Setting

Akira Iriye

"The best single work available on this most complex relationship, which too often has been the subject of politicized and simplified analysis."

—William Kirby,

Harvard University

The relationship between China and Japan remains among the most significant and least understood of all the world's bilateral affairs. Akira Iriye adds brilliant clarity to the past century of this relationship in a masterful interpretive survey. Placing the relationship within its global context, he outlines three distinct periods in the history of these Asian giants spanning the late nineteenth century to the present day. Throughout he stresses that the future of the two countries depends on their successful cultural interdependence. The Edwin O. Reischauer Lectures

Missionaries of Revolution

Soviet Advisers and Nationalist China, 1920–1927

C. Martin Wilbur and Julie Lien-ying How

"In addition to the documents, the first four hundred or more pages of the book give a meticulous early history of the party, emphasizing the role of the Soviet advisers at the scene. No other work to date has synthesized all the available scholarly literature on the party in this way . . . This is a worthwhile addition to the literature that will be a standard source of reference for many years to come."

The 1993 Institute for Chinese Culture and Civilization

The Asian Studies Development Program, instituted through a partnership of the University of Hawai'i and the East-West Center, announces a five-week Summer Institute on Chinese Culture and Civilization, June 6–July 10.

THE INSTITUTE

The 1993 Institute for Chinese Culture and Civilization is designed for two- and four-year college faculty at all ranks who teach core introductory courses in the humanities and social sciences. The Institute will include lectures and discussions on a broad range of topics related to China, with a primary emphasis on the relationship between the humanities and contemporary issues. Participants will be assisted in developing curricular plans for their home institutions, including assessing the specific needs of students, community and faculty. Particular attention will be paid to pedagogical strategies for integrating content on Chinese culture into the lower-division undergraduate core.

THE PROGRAM

The first three weeks of the Institute will be devoted to humanities topics: philosophy, religion, history, and the artistic traditions. In the following two weeks, distinguished Institute faculty will make presentations concerning the fundamentals of their own humanistic disciplines. In the remaining two weeks of the Institute, the focus will shift to contemporary issues and problems: gender construction, attitudes toward the environment, economic development, human rights, political conflict resolution, warfare, and so on. Presentations will be conducted in such a way as to highlight the vital role of cultural understanding in illuminating and explaining the shifting concerns of contemporary China.

THE FACULTY

Institute faculty include leading humanities scholars in Chinese Studies. The Co-Directors of the Institute are Dr. Roger T. Ames, Director of the University of Hawai'i Center for Chinese Studies; and Dr. Elizabeth B. Buck, East-West Center.

ELIGIBILITY

The Institute welcomes applications from faculty at all levels, tenured or untenured, from Humanities or Social Sciences departments in two- and four-year colleges and universities. Women and minorities are especially encouraged to apply.

APPLICATION

An informational brochure and application form may be obtained by contacting the Asian Studies Development Program, Secretariat, East-West Center, Box JAS, Honolulu, HI 96848; Tel: (808) 944-7639 or 944-7315; Fax: (808) 944-7670.

FAIRBANK REMEMBERED

Compiled by Paul A. Cohen and Merle Goldman

The contributors to this volume, many of them John Fairbank's students, professional colleagues, friends, and acquaintances from the various arenas of public life in which Fairbank was active, were asked to search their memories for details of personal interactions with Fairbank that they found particularly meaningful and/or revealing. The resulting recollections are alternately incisive, affectionate, deeply moving, and hilariously funny. Cumulatively, they form a book that is unusually intimate and honest, not only in what its authors have to say about the late dean of American sinology, but also in what they have to say about themselves and the importance Fairbank had in their lives.

World Investment Directory 1992,

Vol. I - Asia and the Pacific

Asia has replaced Latin America as the largest recipient of foreign direct investment (FDI) among developing areas, with inflows exceeding $18 billion in 1990. Its dynamic economies and liberal regulatory framework have attracted record levels of (FDI) - six of the ten largest recipients of FDI in the 1980s are located in Asia.

This directory, the first in a six-volume series on foreign direct investment statistics and related information, begins with an analysis of the legal framework for FDI and a discussion of the most important investment trends for the region during the 1980s. It also provides a technical note highlighting methodological issues related to FDI statistics and country profiles, presenting data and information in a common format. Each country profile details inward and outward FDI flows and stocks for countries in the region, data on the activities of foreign affiliates in the host country and the structure of ownership of foreign affiliates for example.

East-West Business Directory, 1991/1992

This Directory is a valuable source of information for policy makers, investors and researchers presenting them with all they need to know about doing business in Eastern Europe. It provides detailed information on the activities for 1990 of hundreds of affiliates which have been established in the OECD economies by direct investment enterprises in Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Poland, Romania, the former Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and Yugoslavia. The nature of the coverage varies somewhat among Eastern countries, reflecting institutional differences in their foreign business operations.

World Media Handbook 1992-1994

The Government Documents Round Table of the American Library Association has chosen the first edition of this handbook for the 1990 NOTABLE DOCUMENTS LIST.

This second edition is a complete reference tool prepared with the 'media professional' in mind, providing details on important selected media for more than 150 countries worldwide. It sets out in a concise format, demographic data and communication statistics, and provides a list of more than 1,000 newspapers, 1,300 magazines and other periodicals, 200 news agencies, some 800 broadcasting organizations, 300 journalists' associations, as well as more than 250 educational institutions teaching communications. Each entry provides the names of leading editorial personnel; mailing addresses; telephone, telex and fax numbers; circulation figures and frequency of publication. This handbook integrates a wealth of data not previously available from any other single source.

PURPOSE AND ORGANIZATION

The Association for Asian Studies is a scholarly, non-political, and non-profit professional association open to all persons interested in Asia and the study of Asia. It seeks through publications, meetings, and seminars to facilitate contact and exchange of information among scholars and to increase understanding of Asia. The Association for Asian Studies is the largest society of its kind in the world. Its 7,000 members include scholars, teachers, business people, diplomats, journalists, and interested laypersons.

Founded in 1941 as the Far Eastern Association, the organization was renamed the Association for Asian Studies in 1957 to reflect the wider geographic interests of its membership. In 1970, four elective area Councils—South Asia, Southeast Asia, China and Inner Asia, and Northeast Asia—were established to guarantee each area constituency its own representation and a proportionate voice on the Board of Directors. In 1977, a Council of Conferences was established as a liaison with eight regional conferences throughout the United States to serve the needs of those interested in Asian studies in different parts of the country. The Association is a member of the American Council of Learned Societies and the National Council of Area Studies Associations, actively participating with its sister societies in a wide range of activities, including joint participation in research and informational exchanges.

Publications of the Association include The Journal of Asian Studies, the Bibliography of Asian Studies, Doctoral Dissertations on Asia, the Asian Studies Newsletter, the Monograph Series, and committee publications. The Association holds a three-day meeting each spring devoted to planned programs of scholarly papers, round table discussions and panel sessions on a wide range of problems in research and teaching, and on Asian affairs in general. From time to time, it sponsors, through its committees, special conferences on research problems and other matters of topical interest.

MEMBERSHIP INFORMATION

Membership in the Association for Asian Studies is open to all persons interested in Asia and the scholarly study of Asia. The Presence of Śiva

Stella Kramrisch

In a lively meditation on Śiva, based on original Sanskrit texts, Stella Kramrisch ponders the metaphysics and myths of the god from the Vedas and the Puranas.

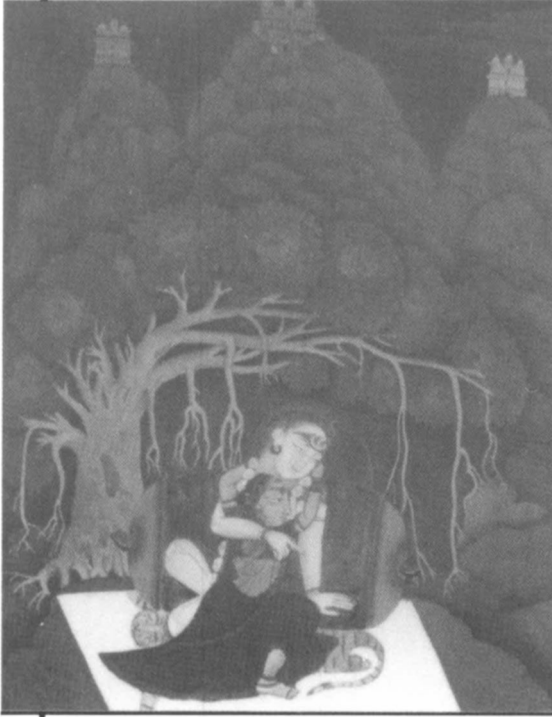

Who is Śiva? Who is this god whose being comprises and transcends everything? By retelling and interweaving the many myths that keep Śiva alive in India today, Kramrisch reveals the paradoxes in Śiva's nature and thus in the nature of consciousness itself.

"Evocation of the presence of Shiva in the mind of the reader, beyond analysis of the aspects of the god, is achieved by gradually delving deeper into the myths, weaving their many strands together until the reader experiences the unparalleled richness of this deity."—Parabola

Indian Art and Civilization

Heinrich Zimmer

Edited by Joseph Campbell

This was the first book by Heinrich Zimmer to appear in English. It interprets for Westerners the key motifs of India's legend, myth, and folklore, taken directly from the Sanskrit and illustrated with photographs of Indian art. Here is an introduction to image-thinking and picture-reading in Indian art and thought. It seeks to make the profound Hindu and Buddhist intuitions of the riddles of life and death recognizable not merely as Oriental but as universal elements of human experience.

"The myths of India, emerging from the collective unconscious, are fashioned with such subtlety of thought that careless handling or even restatement in a foreign idiom destroys their essence. Zimmer moves among them unhurriedly, with a respect that amounts to devotion. Gradually his comments bring to light the universal meanings beneath the archaic exterior."
