From These Beginnings

The Early Philanthropies of Henry and Edsel Ford, 1911–1936

by William Greenleaf. It is ironic that Henry Ford, "the last billionaire," whose name and fortune are bestowed upon the largest philanthropic foundation in history, should have detested philanthropy in principle. This is the lively and unbiased account of the divergent philosophies behind the early philanthropies of Henry and Edsel Ford.

Newcomen Awards in Business History

Presented by

THE NEWCOMEN SOCIETY IN NORTH AMERICA

in cooperation with

THE BUSINESS HISTORY REVIEW

¶ Two Newcomen Awards in Business History are offered annually for articles published in the Business History Review. The First Prize, of $250, is awarded the article judged, according to the rules outlined below, to be the best of the year. The Special Award, of $100, is for the best article by an author who is not more than 35 years of age and who has not published a book.

¶ Prize articles are selected by a panel of judges composed of a representative of The Newcomen Society and members of the Advisory Board of the Business History Review. No member of the Advisory Board or editorial staff shall be eligible for a prize, and articles so authored will not be considered in the judging. Authors eligible for the Special Award shall also be eligible for the First Prize, but in no event shall both prizes be awarded for the same article. The Advisory Board reserves the right to withhold the Special Award in the event that eligible articles do not, in the Board's judgment, merit prize consideration. The awards program is administered by the editorial offices of the magazine.

¶ Criteria for selection include: originality, value, breadth, and interest of contribution, quality of research materials and methods, and quality of presentation.

THE BUSINESS HISTORY REVIEW

¶ The Newcomen Society in North America, in cooperation with the Business History Review, announces a prize of $1,000 and scroll to be awarded in 1967 for the best book on the history of business published in the United States during the years 1964-1966.

¶ For the purposes of this award, "the history of business" will be interpreted in its broadest sense, including not only the history of firms or industries, but books tracing interactions of businessmen, analyses of business philosophy or behavior, and studies of the adjustment of businesses and businessmen to their economic, political, and social environments.

¶ Criteria for selection will include contribution to knowledge, depth of analysis, soundness of reasoning, clarity of style and organization, and general readability and format.

¶ The committee to select the recipient of the 1967 Thomas Newcomen $1,000 Award in Business History is composed of: Professor James P. Baughman, Managing Editor, Business History Review, Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration; Mr. Stanley van den Heuvel, Trustee, The Newcomen Society in North America; and Professor Arthur M. Johnson, Editor, Business History Review, Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration, chairman.

¶ The 1967 Thomas Newcomen $1,000 Award in Business History will be the second in a triennial series of prizes intended to encourage the study and improve the writing of business history in the United States and Canada.

The Molly Maguires

By WAYNE G. BROEHL, JR.

The most authoritative study of the case yet published, this readable book tells the story of the shadowy role of an Irish secret society, the Molly Maguires, in the efforts of the Pennsylvania coal miners to form a labor union in the 1870's. Using original documents available for the first time, the author vividly describes the vengeful and bloody tactics the "Mollies" employed, and the work of Pinkerton's famous National Detective Agency in gathering the evidence that resulted in the trial and hanging of the Molly Maguire leaders. Coming in October. Illustrated. $8.95

The Origins of Entrepreneurship in Meiji Japan

By JOHANNES HIRSCHMEIER, S.V.D.

The first comprehensive analysis of the genesis and dynamic development of Japanese entrepreneurship, this book traces the dramatic struggle of a small but determined elite in the private sector that faced staggering social, economic, and technological obstacles to create a modern industrial, banking, and trading establishment for Japan. While focusing on entrepreneurship throughout the book, the author tells the whole story of early Japanese economic development. Harvard East Asian Series, 17. $7.50

Conservatism in a Progressive Era

Massachusetts Politics, 1900-1912

By RICHARD M. ABRAMS

In the first study of the politics of a state noted for its evident conservatism in the Progressive Era, the author takes issue with traditional assumptions, showing that Massachusetts enjoyed at least as much progressive legislation as any other state. An intensive and readable analysis of the character of politics in the Bay State and its views on the state-corporation relationship at the turn of the century, this book clarifies apparent inconsistencies and suggests new lines of inquiry into American political behavior during the period. Coming in October. $7.95

The Butcher Workmen

A Study of Unionization

By DAVID BRODY

In a new approach to American labor history, Mr. Brody presents the first study of the actual process of unionization. Through a detailed study of one industry—meat packing and retailing—the author provides new insights into the advance of trade unionism in the first part of the 20th century to a dominant place in the American economy, a phenomenon which brought about a major change in the life of the nation. Wertheim Publications in Industrial Relations. $6.50

Harvesters and High Finance

Through an analysis of the formation of the International Harvester Company in 1902, Professor Kramer presents a suggestive case-study in businessmen's motivations toward merger.

HELEN M. KRAMER

Missiles and Creative Destruction

Professor Simonson casts the recent history of the American airframe industry against the Schumpeterian concept of "creative destruction" in this study of business response to technological change.

G. R. SIMONSON

Western Businessmen in Russia

As a challenge for further research and analysis, Professor Kirchner suggests some of the cultural differences encountered by Western businessmen in Russia which significantly shaped their conduct of trade.

WALTHER KIRCHNER

Wood Pulp and Newspapers, 1867-1900

Rejecting the traditional explanation that the introduction of features and an increase in scandalmongering account for the growth of American newspapers following the Civil War, Professor Smith advances an interesting correlation between the introduction of wood-pulp paper and the lowered prices and increased circulation of the press.

DAVID C. SMITH

Notes on Commercial Travelers

It has been widely held that the traveling salesman was a product of the railroad era. Professor Taylor shows that, at least in France, the commis voyageur played a role as early as the second half of the eighteenth century.
