

Announcement of Awards

Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation Faculty Development Winners

Twelve Woodrow Wilson Foundation Fellows with innovative projects for expanding their professional knowledge and producing change in the curriculum have received $4,000 grants from the Foundation. The competition, announced in the fall to former Woodrow Wilson Fellows teaching at colleges in the northeastern states and Minnesota—restricted by the terms of the funding foundation—attracted 124 proposals from teachers in 91 schools. The winners included the following four political scientists:

Penny Taylor Gill, Department of Political Science, Mount Holyoke College, "Ways of Knowing: Ways of Telling."

Eldon Kenworthy, Department of Government, Cornell University, "Dualism as a Paradigm of Western Thought."

John Alan Logue, Department of Political Science, Kent State University, "Anatomy of a Plant Shutdown."

Catherine Heldt Zuckert, Department of Political Science, Carleton College, "The Political Economy of the United States."

Seven Political Scientists Awarded NSF Graduate Fellowships

Seven political scientists were among the 450 college students awarded National Science Foundation Graduate Fellowships. The fellowships provide a stipend of $4,800 per year for full time graduate study. An annual cost of education allowance of $3,400 is provided by NSF in lieu of all tuition and fees to the institution selected by the Fellow. Each fellowship is awarded for three years of graduate study.

The seven political scientist winners and their undergraduate affiliations are:

Geoffrey P. Bernstein, Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Samuel T. Bookheimer, University of Kentucky.

Elizabeth M. Doherty, Yale University.

David B. Friedman, Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Jeffrey S. Green, Southern Methodist University.

John C. Quinley, University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign.

Kurt A. Schwarz, Princeton University.

NSF Minority Graduate Fellowship Awards

Four students have been granted National Science Foundation minority graduate fellowship awards to study political science. The awardees and their undergraduate institutions are:

Natalie P. Byfield, Princeton University.

Gwen M. Houston, University of Southwestern Louisiana.

Fred A. Lopez, III, California State College, San Bernardino.

Violeta Ramirez, University of Mayaguez, Puerto Rico.

National Association of Schools of Public Affairs and Administration and National Association of Counties Fellowships

The National Association of Schools of Public Affairs and Administration and National Association of Counties have announced three fellowship winners for the coming year to support dissertation work under a program supported by the Office of Personnel Management. The winners are:

Clarence P. Brown, Department of Political Science, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill. "An Examination of the Power Relationship Between Career Executives and Political Executives: A Study of North Carolina Government."

Research & Training Support

Marie D. Connolly, School of Labor and Industrial Relations, Michigan State University. "The Impact of Compulsory Arbitration on the Bargaining Process and Wage Outcomes."

Richard L. Garcia, School of Public Administration, University of Southern California. "Public Sector Sick Time Use."

Fred M. Hayward, University of Wisconsin, Madison. Lecture on comparative and international politics. University of Sierra Leone, Freetown, 9/80-6/81.

Douglas A. Hibbs, Jr., Harvard University, Cambridge, Massachusetts. Research on time series analysis. University of Gothenburg, Sweden. Three months during 1980-81.

Marilyn B. Hoskin, SUNY, Buffalo, Amherst, New York. Lecture on education and political involvement. University of Mannheim, Germany, 9/80-7/81.

Ronald F. Inglehart, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. Lecture at the 1980 Kyoto American Studies Seminar. Japan, 7/80-8/80.

Yung-Hwan Jo, Arizona State University, Tempe. Lecture and research on contemporary and future economic/political relations among Pacific nations. Keio University and University of Tsukuba, Japan, 10/80-7/81.

Harvery F. Kline, University of Massachusetts, Amherst. Research in Colombian energy policy. Universidad de los Andes, Bogota, Colombia, 9/80-3/81.

Linda M. La Rue, SUNY, Purchase, New York. Lecture on political theory and American black experience. University of Yaounde, Cameroon, 9/80-7/81 (renewal).

Robert Leonardi, DePaul University, Chicago, Illinois. Lecture on institutionalization of the Italian Republic legislative outputs, 1948-1979. University of Catania, Italy, 2/81-6/81.

Ronald H. McDonald, Syracuse University, New York. Lecture on social science and methodology trends and techniques. University Republic, Montevideo, Uruguay, 4/80.

Eusebio M. Mujal-Leon, Silver Spring, Maryland. Research on PCE party issues, policies, organizational strategy. Spain, 5/80-9/80.

Richard A. Nuccio, Williams College, Williamstown, Massachusetts. Research on world economy. Centro de Investigaciones y Docencia Economicas, Mexico City, 1/81-6/81.

Walter C. Opello, Jr., University of Mississippi, University. Lecture on public administration. Instituto Nacional de Ad-

1980-81 Fulbright Scholars

Twenty-nine political scientists are American Fulbright Scholars for 1980-81. They are:

Thomas A. Baylis, University of Texas, San Antonio. Research in the ideological elite in the German Democratic Republic. Free University of Berlin, Germany, 9/80-7/81.

Lynn D. Bender, Inter American University, Hato Rey, Puerto Rico. Lecture on U.S. foreign relations (constitutional, political and societal variables). National Autonomous University Mexico, Mexico City, Mexico, 9/80-6/81.

Steven R. Brown, Kent State University, Ohio. Lecture on political science and research in psychosocial dynamics in a transitional society. Seoul National University, Korea, 3/80-7/80.

Walker Connor, SUNY, Brockport, New York. Lecture on the American political system. Institute of Political Science, Higher Institute Planning and Statistics, Warsaw, Poland, 9/80-6/81.

Russell J. Dalton, Florida State University, Tallahassee. Research in political change in the 1980 German federal elections. University of Mannheim, Germany, 7/80-3/81.

Mark W. DeLancey, University of South Carolina, Columbia. Lecture on international relations. University of Yaounde, Cameroon, 9/80-6/81.

Irene Diamond, Purdue University, Lafayette, Indiana. Research in pornography and violence against women. University of Copenhagen, Denmark, 2/81-6/81.

David W. P. Elliot, Pomona College, Claremont, California. Study seminar in Philippines, Indonesia, Malaysia, Singapore, and Thailand, 6/80-8/80.

ministracao, Lisbon, Portugal, 2/81-6/81.

Robert L. Rau, U.S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, Maryland. Study seminar in Philippines, Indonesia, Malaysia, Singapore, and Thailand, 6/80-8/80.

Mark S. Schneider, SUNY Stony Brook, New York. Lecture on American government, public administration and urban policies. Osmania University, Hyderabad, India, 10/80-12/80.

James Seroka, Southern Illinois University, Carbondale. Research on implementation of secondary school reform program. University of Belgrade, Yugoslavia, 9/80-1/81.

Don C. Shin, Sangamon State University, Springfield, Illinois. Lecture on political science and research in the quality of life in Korea. Institute of Social Sciences, Seoul National University, Korea, 9/80-7/81.

W. Phillips Shively, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis. Lecture on comparative politics and contemporary research methodology. University of Oslo, Norway, 7/80-1/81.

Josef Silverstein, Rutgers University, New Brunswick, New Jersey. Study seminar in Philippines, Indonesia, Malaysia, Singapore, and Thailand, 6/80-8/80.

William C. Smith, Stanford University, California. Lecture and research on political science, emphasis on comparative politics of Latin America. Federal University Minas Gerais, Brazil, 5/80-4/81.

Robert H. Trudeau, Providence College, Rhode Island. Courses in political science and international politics and collaborative research at the Center for Political and Social Research. Rafael Landivar University, Guatemala City, Guatemala, 2/80-12/80.

Richard F. Weisfelder, University of Toledo, Ohio. Lecture on African politics and international relations. University of Botswana and Swaziland, Gaborone, 8/80-7/81 (renewal).

Midwest Political Science Association Committee on the Status of Women Sophonisba Breckinridge Prize

The Midwest Political Science Association Committee on the Status of Women in the Profession has presented its first annual Sophonisba Breckinridge prize at the 1980 Annual Meeting of the Association. The award, recognizing an outstanding paper presented by a woman at the previous annual meeting of the Association, was presented by Professor Kathryn Newcomer of the Department of Political Science of the University of Nebraska at Lincoln and was made to Denise Baer of Southern Illinois University for her paper, "Disentangling Gender: An Inquiry into Biological and Learning Bases Explanations." The award citation to Professor Baer, which provided interesting information on the life and career of Sophonisba Breckinridge, read as follows:

"Dr. Sophonisba Breckinridge was one of the first women to receive a Ph.D. in political science, earning her degree from the University of Chicago in 1901, and a law degree, also from Chicago, in 1904.

"Like her colleague Charles Merriam, Dr. Breckinridge pioneered empirical studies on politics and local government in Chicago, and she went on to conduct what we'd now label public policy analyses for many years.

"Unlike Merriam, she was not welcome as a tenured faculty member in either the all male social science or law departments of her day. Instead she played a very active role in practical politics and as an advocate of the rights of women, immigrants, and children.

"Reflecting her dedication to the alleviation of problems facing the less privileged elements of society, she established a school of social work and played a large role in shaping the development of social work as a profession.

"In 1920 the University of Chicago took over her school to be the core for a new graduate school of Social Service Administration—so she did achieve the rank of full professor at Chicago by 1925—although she had to start her own department to do so.

Research & Training Support

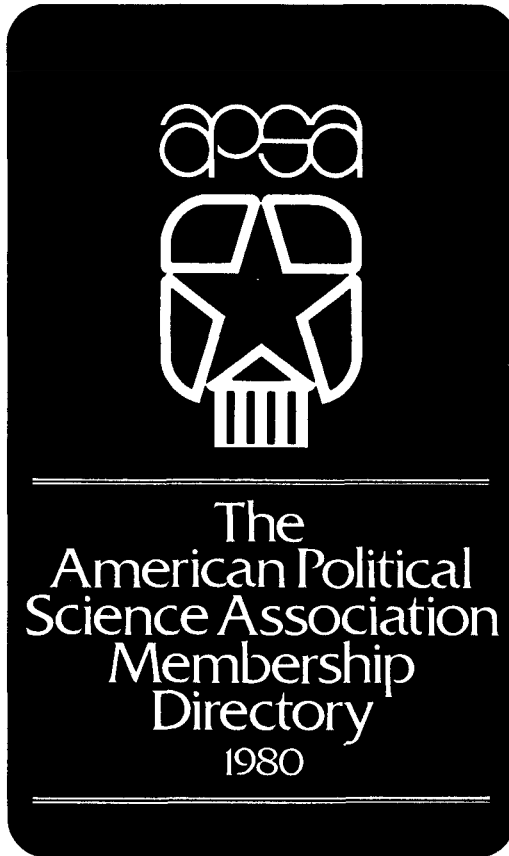

“Sophonisba Breckinridge was a pioneer in empirical policy research examining the impact of laws and regulations upon the living conditions of many under-privileged groups, and she succeeded in establishing a professional reputation of wide renown when all odds were against female academicians. She published many articles and books including the first comprehensive text on women and politics in 1933, Women in the Twentieth Century.

“She would be very proud to know that her name is attached to an award given for academic achievement in an area in which she worked so hard, in a time when rewards open to her were so limited by her sex.

“Denise Baer’s thoroughly researched and well written study analyzing gender based differences in political attitudes is a very appropriate first time winner for an award given in the name of a political activist so dedicated to the alleviation of sexual discrimination.

“Sophonisba Breckinridge would be pleased to learn that women have finally begun to encroach upon the male dominated profession in which she began her career.”

Announcing . . .

The Directory lists individual members of the American Political Science Association and such information as their current position, institutional affiliation, address, phone number, highest degree, and fields of specialization.

The price is $10 for APSA members and $12 for non-members.
ORDERS MUST BE PREPAID.

ORDER FORM

Enclosed is a check for _____ copies of the Membership Directory, at the rate (check one): $10 for APSA members; $12 for non-members.

Name _____

Address _____

_____ Zip _____

Order from:
MEMBERSHIP DIRECTORY/APSA
1527 New Hampshire Avenue, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20036