

NEWS AND NOTES

PROGRAM COMMITTEE: 1966 ANNUAL MEETING

The deadline for papers to be submitted to section chairmen is November 1, 1965. (The June issue announcement of a December 1 deadline was incorrect.)

Commencing with Volume 60 (March 1966), AUSTIN RANNEY, of the University of Wisconsin, will become Managing Editor of this REVIEW, succeeding HARVEY C. MANSFIELD, who will relinquish the post upon the issuance of the December 1965 number. At the same time, JAMES W. PROTHRO, of the University of North Carolina, will succeed Austin Ranney as Book Review Editor.

Editorial correspondence relating to the September and December issues should be addressed to the Columbus office, as hitherto. After September 15, address such correspondence, touching later issues, to Austin Ranney, North Hall, University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wis.; and send books intended for review to James W. Prothro, Department of Political Science, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, N.C.

PROFESSIONAL CONFERENCES

The Southern Political Science Association at its annual meeting in San Diego in April, elected the following officers for 1965-66: president, George S. Blair, Claremont Graduate School; vice-president, Thomas McEnroe, California State College at Los Angeles; secretary, Richard Gripp, San Diego State College; treasurer, Richard Harvey, Whittier. Named to the executive council were: Frank Way, University of California at Riverside; Gerald Rigby, University of Southern California; Tom Trombetus, Long Beach State College; James Lare, Occidental College; Richard Longaker, UCLA; Gordon Baker, University of California at Santa Barbara; and John L. Groom, Redlands.

The American Society for Political and Legal Philosophy held its annual meeting in Washington, D.C., on April 24-25, 1965. Richard B. Brandt, chairman of the department of philosophy at the University of Michigan, was chosen president-elect. J. Roland Pennock of Swarthmore College and John W. Chapman of the University of Pittsburgh were named editor and associate editor, respectively, of Nomos, the annual publication of the Society.

It has been the practice of the Society to meet with philosophers, political scientists and lawyers. In the future, depending upon the topic selected for consideration at the annual meeting, the Society will meet in conjunction with the annual meetings of other social science disciplines.

Forthcoming volumes of Nomos will deal with equality, which was the topic of the Washington meeting, and with representation, the topic of the joint meeting with the American Political Science Association in September.

The department of government at the University of Texas sponsored a conference on the "Role of the Intellectual in Politics" in April. Papers were read by: Gunnar Heckscher, professor of political science at the University of Stockholm and parliamentary leader of the Swedish Conservative Party; Senator Eugene J. McCarthy, Minnesota; Klaus Mehnert, professor of political science at the Institute of Technology, Aachen; Francisco Miro Quesada, Peruvian Ambassador to the United Nations; Representative John Brademas, Indiana; Sir Denis Brogan, professor of political science and philosophy at Peterhouse, Cambridge University; Daniel Cosío Villegas, Mexican delegate to the United Nations Economic and Social Council; and Merle Fainsod, professor of government at Harvard.

The first of a series of Socialist Scholars Conferences took place on the campus of Rutgers—the State University, on September 11 and 12. Persons interested in future conferences should write to Professor Marvin Gettleman, Department of History and Economics, Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn, 333 Jay Street, Brooklyn, New York 11201.

At its twenty-third annual meeting in April, the Midwest Conference of Political Scientists elected the following new officers: Clara Penniman, University of Wisconsin, president; Orville Alexander, Southern Illinois University, vice-president; Stephen T. Early, Jr., DePauw University, secretary-treasurer; Merle Kling, Washington University, editor of Midwest Journal of Political Science; and as members of the executive council, Willard N. Hogan, University of Nebraska and William H. Flanigan, University of Minnesota.

The 1966 meeting of the Conference will be held at the University of Chicago April 28 to 30. The program chairman is S. Sidney Ulmer, University of Kentucky.

OTHER ACTIVITIES

Millsaps College, Jackson, Mississippi, has received a grant from the Field Foundation to support an Oral History of Contemporary Mississippi Life. This project will be under the direction of Gordon G. Henderson, chairman of the department of political science. Transcripts of the interviews collected, including interviews of major figures in Mississippi politics, will be available on inter-library loan.

The first issue of the New York State Political Review will appear in September. It will include most of the papers presented at the meeting of the N.Y. State Political Science Association meeting in April.

Arizona State College will become Northern Arizona University in 1966.

New York University and the Joint Committee on the Near and Middle East of the American Council of Learned Societies and the Social Science Research Council sponsored a conference on "Social Growth and Democracy" in New York from May 27 to May 29. The conference brought together scholars and men immediately familiar with Turkish affairs to study the impact of social growth on politics. Kemal Karpat, New York University, was the director of the conference.

The Overseas Educational Service has received a $300,000 grant from the Carnegie Corporation. The grant will enable OES to broaden its contacts with American faculty and administrators and to work with more institutions abroad. Although OES recruits educators for all the developing areas, the initial emphasis has been on Africa, where many new institutions are now being built and the need for expatriate staff is still the most urgent.

To develop its roster of potential candidates, OES works with many professional organizations and with other national and international groups of similar purpose, in addition to making contact with faculty members who register directly with OES.

OES is sponsored jointly by the National Academy of Sciences, the American Council on Education, and Education and World Affairs, with the cooperation of the American Council of Learned Societies, the Social Science Research Council, the Institute of International Education, and the Canadian Universities Foundation.

Qualified persons who are interested in serving abroad are invited to write to Overseas Educational Service, 522 Fifth Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10036.

The Society for Religion in Higher Education is offering a number of post-doctoral fellowships to encourage the growing interest in the relation of scholarship in religion to scholarship in other fields of study. These fellowships are made possible through a grant from The Danforth Foundation.

Grants are available to: (1) scholars in the humanities, social and natural sciences for a year of study in religion and (2) scholars in religion for a year of study in another discipline.

These fellowships are open to scholars in any institution of higher learning in the United States or Canada without respect to discipline, religious affiliation or non-affiliation. Scholars applying for the grants must have a Ph.D. degree or its equivalent plus at least three years of teaching experience. Preference will be given to scholars under 50 years of age.

The maximum stipend is $8,500. Stipends will be based on experience, present salary and availability of other resources.

Completed applications must be received by the Society by December 1, 1965. Application forms and additional information may be secured from: Lawrence P. DeBoer, Executive Director, The Society for Religion in Higher Education, 400 Prospect Street, New Haven, Connecticut 06511.
