Editor, Psychiatric Bulletin

The College is seeking a new Editor for the Psychiatric Bulletin. The present Editor, Professor Tom Fahy, will be standing down at the end of 2007. Applications are invited from College members who feel they have the drive and vision to continue his work.

The post-holder will report to the College's Editor and to the Psychiatric Bulletin Editorial Board, and will be responsible for the content of the journal. Specifically, this will involve planning and selection of future content, commissioning articles, overseeing the work of the Editorial Board, and taking responsibility for the scientific accuracy and validity of the content. He or she should be committed to strengthening links with the College while maintaining the independence of the journal, and must be in touch with developments across the mental health field. He or she should be aware of the needs of working psychiatrists across the whole range of subspecialties.

It is anticipated that the successful candidate will be able to devote at least one session per week to this role. The day to day administration and the production of the journal are handled by the College's Publications Department. The term of office is 5 years.

If you are interested in applying, please contact: Mr Dave Jago, Head of Publications, Royal College of Psychiatrists, 17 Belgrave Square, London SW1X 8PG (e-mail: djago@rcpsych.ac.uk). The closing date for applications is 31 May 2007.
