THE MEANING OF HUMAN EXISTENCE. By Leslie Paul. (Faber and Faber; 16s. net.)

God, as Christianity has always proclaimed, is the meaning of human existence. But this fact needs to be brought home to our contemporaries and Mr Paul, surveying the work of some of the best intellects of our time, shows that they all point in this direction. The logic is there and the intellectual need. Love must enter to fill the mind and give life to reasoning. Of that, too, something may be communicated by contact with such writers as Kierkegaard, Buber, Péguy, so ably introduced by the author.
