Die OECD - Organisation für Wirtschaftliche Zusammenarbeit und Entwicklung

Die OECD – eine der wichtigsten überregionalen Wirtschaftsorganisationen der Nachkriegszeit – hat in der bisherigen wissenschaftlichen Literatur noch keine zusammenhängende Darstellung von Gewicht erfahren. Die Verfasser haben diese Lücke durch eine alle wichtigen Aspekte dieses zwischenstaatlichen Verbandes einbeziehende Studie geschlossen. Sie stützt sich hierbei auf eine Reihe von Abhandlungen, die Professor Dr. H. J. Hahn, Inhaber des Lehrstuhls für Staats- und Völkerrecht der Universität Würzburg, als langjähriger Justitiar der OECD und unmittelbarer Sachkenner Rechtsfragen der OECD widmete. Das Buch enthält dabei keine bloße Kompilation früherer Schriften, sondern eine umfassende Behandlung der OECD und ihrer Rechtsordnung, die von Dr. Albrecht Weber, Assistent am genannten Lehrstuhl, überarbeitet und auf den neuesten Stand gebracht wurde. Die Beschreibung umfaßt die Vorgeschichte der OECD, ihren Vorläufer OEEC, die Gründungsgeschichte der Organisation, schildert rechtliche Grundordnung und Ausgestaltung der Sachaufgaben, das Dienstrecht und die völkerrechtliche Stellung der Organisation. Besonderes Gewicht ist auf die Darstellung des Wirtschaftsrechts gelegt, das vor allem durch Beobachtung, Koordination und berichtigende Aufsicht der mitgliedstaatlichen Politiken wichtige Erfolge buchen konnte. Auch hier beschließt eine völkerrechtliche Analyse der Systematik des Wirtschaftsrechts die Darstellung. Schließlich ist der jüngsten Entwicklung im Rahmen der OECD, die durch die Energiekrise geprägt ist, Rechnung getragen. Die Gründung der Internationalen Energieagentur und des Finanziellen Beistandsfonds machen den Aufgabenwandel in der Wirtschaftsgeschichte der OECD, aber auch ihre künftige Rolle in der Weltwirtschaft, deutlich. Ein Anhang enthält eine Zusammenstellung der wichtigsten Texte des Rechts von OEEC und OECD.

Leon Radzinowicz and Roger Hood

Criminology and the Administration of Criminal Justice

A bibliography

This bibliography has developed from a working index which the authors have built up over a number of years to help them in their teaching and research. It ranges wide over the field of the sociology of crime, criminal justice and penology. The list of major subject headings, which are broken down into numerous subdivisions, is as follows:

Dimensions of crime and the problem of measurement	imprisonment
Crime in its social setting	New approaches to the treatment of offenders
Some categories of crime and criminals	Parole
Violence against the person	Status and rights of offenders
Civil disorders and lawlessness	Manipulation of environment: the problem of prevention
The police	Crime commissions: a comparison of their methods and recommendations
Penal sanctions	Some international comparative references
Problems of sentencing	Bibliographies
The court and the young offender	Selected textbooks and readings
Effectiveness of punishment and treatments
Assessing the impact of Each section records chronologically English-language books, articles, reports and other materials published during the last 15 to 20 years, while a supplement updates the coverage to the beginning of 1976. Entries total some 6,500 in number. There is an author index.

Sir Leon Radzinowicz, Emeritus Wolfson Professor of Criminology and Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge, possesses an international reputation as a criminologist. His numerous publications include A History of English Criminal Law, which is the standard work on the subject. Dr Roger Hood, who was Assistant Director of Research, Institute of Criminology, Cambridge, is now University Reader in Criminology and Fellow of All Souls College, Oxford.
