

Traditional Healers and Childhood in Zimbabwe

Pamela Reynolds

"Pamela Reynolds is perhaps the leading Africa-based anthropologist conducting research on the ethnography of the young, and on the effects of violence upon them. Her material on [the healers'] training and techniques and the nature of the knowledge contains ethnography and analysis which are in many ways ahead of their time."—Murray Last, Editor, Africa

Colonization, Violence, and Narration in White South African Writing

André Brink, Breyten Breytenbach,
and J.M. Coetzee

Rosemary Jane Jolly

Jolly looks at three primary South African authors to consider violence in the context of apartheid and colonialism and their inherent patriarchies. She also discusses the violence attendant upon the act of narration in the broader context of critiques of Kafka, Freud, Hegel, the postcolonial critics Jan Mohamed and Bhabha, and feminists such as Susan Suleiman.
